Farming On The Mountaintop

Search Begins For Dairy Princesses And Dairy Maids

The Garrett/Allegany Dairy Princess Committee is currently searching for contestants.

Dairy Princesses make school and grocery store promotions, speak to farm and non-farm groups, and appear on radio and television spots. They often make appearances at sporting events and fairs as well, according to Heidi Qualls, speaking on behalf of the committee.

Regional dairy princesses participate in a training seminar in July and will be eligible to compete in the Maryland State Dairy Princess Pageant in Frederick.

To enter the regional contest, candidates may be the daughter of one of the following: a dairy farmer, a dairy farm manager or herdsman, or someone employed in a dairy-related industry (farm store, dairy cooperative, DHIA supervisor, feed supplier, veterinarian, or milk inspector).

A candidate may also be employed herself as one of the above or the owner of at least one dairy animal or be enrolled in the dairy foods project in 4-H or FFA. Contestants must be at least 16 years of age and may not reach the age of 22 by Dec. 31 of the contest year.

Girls between the ages of 13 and 16 years old may participate in the royalty program as well as becoming a dairy maid in their area. With the exception of age, dairy maids must meet all the same requirements as a princess.

Dairy maids will perform similar duties as a dairy princess, assisting her throughout the year. There will be no competition for the "princesses-to-be" at the regional or state level, but they will take part in a one-day training seminar and will be introduced during the state dairy princess pageant in July, according to Qualls.

For more information on becoming a dairy princess or dairy maid or to obtain an application persons may call Qualls at 301-533-0062. Interested girls should request an application no later than June 30.

Rain Showers Provide Relief Throughout State

Rain showers on Thursday and Friday provided some relief to the recent dry conditions in Maryland. Corn, which had started to curl in some areas, was revitalized by the moisture. Although the showers helped row crop development, the moisture may have come too late for the wheat. Reports show that wheat yields may be reduced due to the extended dry spell and disease in some areas. Conditions to start the week were dry and hot with above normal temperatures, allowing farmers an average of 4.8 days suitable for field work. Farmers took advantage of the dry weather to promote small grain harvesting activities. Barley and winter wheat are 63 percent and 15 percent harvested, respectively.

Planting activities are nearing completion for many crops, while other harvesting activities are beginning. Cantaloupes, sorghum, and sweet corn are 94 percent, 93 percent, and 92 percent planted, respectively. Cucumber and snap bean harvest is under way with 9 percent and 8 percent harvested, respectively. Potatoes are ready for harvest to begin. Strawberry and green pea harvest continues with 88 percent and 82 percent harvested, respectively.

The rain received last week improved topsoil moisture; however, subsoil moisture remains unchanged from the previous week. Topsoil moisture is currently rated 3 percent very short, 20 percent short 75 percent adequate, and 2 percent surplus. Subsoil moisture is rated 19 percent very short, 48 percent short, and 33 percent adequate.

Political Signs, Mailbox Posts Can Pose Road Hazards

As the 2002 Maryland election campaign begins this summer, the Maryland Department of Transportation's State Highway Administration (SHA) has issued a reminder to residents about the rules and regulations that govern all signs along state roadways. Outdoor advertising often obscures drivers' vision, is distracting, and can pose a potential hazard to SHA maintenance crews.

Political candidates' signs may not be placed inside the median or within the state rights of way. Generally, residents and business owners can determine the right of way line by utility pole placement, which indicate the right of way boundary. Signs on private property and within 500 feet of a state or U.S. route can be posted behind the right of way line beginning 45 days prior to the election and must be removed 15 days after. These signs do not require a permit, but must be placed with the property owner's permission. No signs are permitted along interstate highways.

Residents are also reminded that large brick, stone, or concrete mailboxes positioned too close to the road can pose a hazard to drivers and pedestrians alike. A typical 4x4 wooden post should be used to hold a mailbox safely. The post may break away if hit, but should not be an obstacle.

"With summer traffic picking up within the next few weeks, the outdoor advertising laws and cooperation of all of our citizens can help in SHA's efforts to keep our highways safe and aesthetically pleasing this summer," said SHA administrator Parker F. Williams. For more information on the outdoor advertising rules and regulations, persons may call SHA toll free at 1-888-204-4245.

Nolan Retires

the students performing the ever-popular "YMCA." He said this gets them "pumped up" and ready to learn. Nolan has a special tradition to end each class. The students do the "Deputy Nolan DARE Clap." By the end of the 18 classes, the students can do the clap and song in English, Spanish, and sign language. The main focus of the clap is to make the point that "I am special."

As each child leaves Nolan tells each and every one of them that they are special. He said if he stood in the middle of the hall between classes, all the kids would give him high fives and repeat part of the special clap to him. To him, that is what he misses the most.

"I have not met a bad kid yet," he said. "Some just need a little more attention, that's all. I remember being there myself, so I understand."

Nolan said he considers himself a poster child for his students because he has had to battle dyslexia his whole life. "Being involved with DARE has helped me too," he said. "Because of DARE I went back to school and graduated from Frostburg State University with a degree in political science two years ago at the age of 50. I tried to reinforce that to the kids everyday. I would tell them all about my day and all the homework I had."

Nolan said he hopes to start the master's program in childhood education at FSU and become a teacher.

He has tried to teach the students through his own experiences. "He has an amazing connection with the students," said Dawn Panther. "He's a natural. He finds the good in every student and has an honest heart-felt connection with them."

He has a lot of good advice for the students, and he is up-front with the students and because of his background, he teaches them the "real thing," she said.

"He has a heart as big as Texas," Panther said. "He will be sorely missed."

She added that Nolan has added aspects of the program that go "above and beyond" the traditional DARE curriculum. He has added numerous aspects to the curriculum, and he eats lunch with the students every day. The winners of the essay and mobile contest are presented at the DARE graduation. With correct answers, students receive stickers. The most desired being the fuzzy Daren sticker.

Daren, a stuffed lion, is an important part of the program, but Nolan has taken the lion to another level.

Each class gets its own lion to care for during the 18 lessons. The student who correctly answers the questions from the previous class gets the honor of taking Daren home for the night. Each Daren takes on his own unique personality.

Nolan said there are a few rules regarding Daren: anything put on him must stay on him for the entire time, no hair dyeing, and he may only have one piercing in one ear, no where else. Many of the Darens are displayed at the Elks Lodge, which are an important supporter of the DARE program.

"The students fight for the right to baby-sit Daren for the night," Nolan said. "Many of the lions took on a more patriotic appearance after Sept. 11, but each is uniquely individual."

During the 18th lesson, the field trip, Daren is taken with the class. While touring the sheriff's office, Nolan said many employees try to kidnap Daren. If the officers are successful, each student must bring one candy bar for ransom.

Nolan said he feels that this program really does make a difference. He said while conducting the DARE program, he has only seen one of his students incarcerated.

A study released in January from the Institute for Health and Social Policy at the University of Akron supports that thought.

The report showed that students who were taught the DARE curriculum showed "improved communications skills and beliefs about the prevalence of substance use — two key indicators of whether they will use drugs."

Key improvements among the students in the program included: a significant increase in refusal skills, a significant decrease in their perception of peer drug use, a significant decrease in the percentage of students who believed that substance use by students their own age was common and acceptable.

National research was also done on the DARE police officers as instructors.

The report stated that the officers were well-trained and dedicated, and the more involved they were with the children, teachers, and schools, the better the outcomes were for the students.

"It's the best job I've ever had," Nolan said. "I'm going to miss them."

It is evident how much the students will miss Nolan also. At his last class a few weeks ago, the students made a human barricade in the doorway and told him he couldn't leave.

"It brought tears to my eyes," he said.

What's Happening with Electric Competition in Maryland.

As electric competition in Maryland begins to develop, the Maryland Public Service Commission will publish a series of update reports to provide consumers with helpful information. Today, most of Maryland is ready for electric choice—investor-owned utilities officially opened their markets to competition in 2000 and the Southern Maryland Electric Cooperative and Choptank Electric Cooperative opened to choice in 2001. As a competitive electric market develops, you will be able to choose the company that supplies electricity to your home or business. This competitive electric market will take time to develop, but offers a long-term strategy designed to bring many different benefits to Maryland consumers. Now is a good time to learn more about electric competition and to stay informed.

What Changes and What Stays the Same?

In the past, your entire electric service was provided by your local electric utility. With electric competition, the three main parts of electric service – generation, transmission and distribution – are separated. As the market develops, you will be able to choose the company that provides the generation of your electricity. This company is called an electricity supplier.

Transmission and distribution services are still regulated by the Maryland Public Service Commission. This includes the actual delivery of electricity over poles and wires and will continue to be provided by your local utility. Your utility is now called your electric company. You should call your electric company if the power goes out, just as you always have.

Benefits to Consumers

Electric competition offers the potential for several benefits to consumers. It gives you the power to choose the electricity supplier that provides your energy. You can choose that supplier based on price, terms and conditions of service, reputation, billing options or its use of renewable resources. Competition among electricity suppliers may also help lower prices over time, while encouraging the development of new products and services.

Some Consumers Are Already Making the Switch

As the market develops, more competitive electricity suppliers are likely to become active in marketing and advertising to Maryland consumers. Nearly 10% of residential consumers in the Potomac Electric Power Company (PEPCO) service territory have already switched electricity suppliers. Your choices and your options will develop over time, as more competitors enter the market across the State.

Safe and Reliable Service

If you do not choose an electricity supplier, you will still receive power from your electric company. This power is called standard offer service and is in place now.

Although the Public Service Commission will no longer regulate the price of energy, the delivery of energy is still regulated to help ensure that you receive safe power with the same service reliability you have always known.

Consumer Protections

Important consumer protection regulations remain in place. To begin with, all electricity suppliers must be licensed by the Maryland Public Service Commission to do business in the State. Once you choose an electricity supplier you have ten days to cancel if you change your mind. Also, when you make a choice, the supplier must send you an official notice of enrollment, description of billing options, plus information about the customer service and dispute process. Electricity suppliers must also tell you the energy sources used to generate their power and specify their emissions rates. Your electric service may not be switched without your permission. And if you ask a telemarketer to take your name off their call list, that marketer is not allowed to call you again.

Assisting Low-Income Consumers with the Electric Universal Service Program

Some consumers may need assistance in paying their electric bills. The Electric Universal Service Program helps lower-income customers pay current electric bills, settle past unpaid bills, and also provides guidance with energy efficiency measures. You may be eligible if your yearly income is $12,885 or less (add $4,530 for each additional household member.) To find out more about the program or to get an application, call toll-free at 1-800-352-1446 (TTY/TTD: 1-800-925-4434) or visit the web site at www.dhr.state.md.us/meap. Applications are also available at your local energy assistance office.

Competition Takes Time to Develop – Learn More Now

A competitive electric market is just beginning to take shape in Maryland and will need time to develop more fully. Now is the time to get informed! Plug in. Get smart. To find out more about electric competition, call our answer center or visit our web site.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

Who could believe that last week even in Bittinger we suffered from hot hazy and humid weather? It was almost like we are really part of Maryland instead of being more like Vermont or New Hampshire. But if someone told me last week that today would be so cool, almost cold, and that you would really need a heavy sweater on, it would have been hard to believe. Even inside and after my heat kicked on a few times, I am still a bit chilly, especially when I look outside at the grey day with steady drizzling rain. This kind of weather in June makes Bittinger not the most beautiful place to spend time outdoors. Plus it is no weather to make hay.

As I watched the leaves on my maple tree toss in the brisk wind I was shocked to see a few yellow leaves both on the trees and on the ground. It is a little early for the start of fall before summer even starts. I guess the late hard frosts that we got signaled some of the leaves to turn color. I watched the wild rhododendrons on Rock Lodge Road, not wanting to miss their blooms this year as I did last year, but the very stubborn ones have refused to bloom as of yet. I asked an "old-timer" about it and he said, "Oh, they will not bloom until the end of June."

I didn't get enough sleep last night after a long hard stressful day and after a dark wet dreary day. I can't seem to get anything done and can barely even make it to the couch to be a "couch-potato." As much as I hate flies, I can't make myself get up and find my improved fly swatter. I added a long paint brush to the handle so I can reach even the smarter flies (the ones that stay far away from me). But I can't help thinking "Did we human beings breed a smarter fly?" The smartest fly will try to get inside a house and away from birds like our wonderful barn swallows. I saw several of them swoop down and catch their favorite insects. Once the flies get inside, they have a quick reflex and know how to avoid a human being with a hand raised. They can then survive to breed and pass on their annoying characteristics to their children. I have to resort to using the yellow fly strips. Only the fly that hates the color yellow will survive.

I guess today's weather was perfect for my girls, or for their sneakers anyway. They were pretty dirty after this morning's pig work, so my three girls used the automatic cleaner. They spread the shoes over my front deck and are waiting for a good rain to wash them, and then, if they are lucky, the day will turn sunny and windy and dry them off. Then the only job is to bring them in before the next rain, which would start the process all over again.

Tuesday, June 18, was opening day for the County Acres Strawberry Farm. A few months ago I was told that the Mausts were scaling down their strawberry business due to the loss of their main man of the strawberry fields. Last winter Elmer died from a heart attack after he worked so hard to make their big beautiful strawberry fields become well-established and fruitful. Even without him this year and after a cruel late hard frost that damaged the early blooms, the farm still opened right on schedule for a full day of picking. They will be closed for a few days to let more berries ripen, so the next good day will probably be next Monday, but Ida urges persons to call ahead to check if berries are available. The phone numbers are 301-245-4143 or 301-895-4045. The hours to pick are from 7:30 a.m. until dark and closed on Sundays. I am happy to say that my girls picked my quota this year on opening day.

The frost hit many Bittinger gardeners' most prized flowers and almost everyone's lilac bushes were burned, including Maggie Hockman's and mine. Actually I didn't see any really good lilacs blooming on any bush around our neck of the woods.

I started writing this column last Friday evening, reminiscing about it being a perfect June evening on our farm. After a hot day, the evening got pleasantly cool and all the rain we had gotten turned everything into every shade of green possible. The pretty accent was a pair of blond little boys walking their matched pair of lambs across the back pasture. They took the long walk with their lambs to train them and to trim some of the fat off them. It is too bad the cousins' pigs are not tame enough to take them outside to walk because they could use a little trimming down too, since they weighed more than their owners preferred at the spring weigh-in last Saturday, with the exception of one who was a little light. It makes it tough to have them all together in one pen and eat the same diet. It is not easy to raise a perfect market animal, but it is important because they get higher than the average market price for their 4-H project market animals.

It is amazing how everything can change so fast, as just last evening I rejoiced about what a perfect lovely June evening it turned out to be even though we had not reached the true summer season and not for another week. But the days are starting to get longer, so that I stay up way past my usual bedtime. Things started to move here at our farm very early this morning as the cousins got up early and got their market hogs ready and loaded up for the early summer weigh-in, which was held yesterday and this morning at the fairgrounds. Most of the cousins' pigs probably need to go on a diet and get a lot of exercise to make the perfect weight and lean body mass. Just one, belonging to Matthew Bass, needs to put on more weight. Of course we have one "out of the mainstream," so the kids can't keep all their pigs in one pen and feed all of them the same rations.

Most people think the fatter the better for pigs, but not so these days, as our health conscious society says "fat is not good." This is, of course, not as true for hogs as for women. You can't be too skinny or rich. My girls asked me last week why dairy cows are so thin! The answer is you would rather dairy cows put their food into milk rather than body fat. The lean body type preferred in dairy business is called "Dairy Character" and it is one of the most important factors in dairy judging. It is a big job to get a young hog in perfect shape. Heredity has some influence, but not that much. In fact, all the cousins' pigs came from the same litter and even ate the same diet most of their lives.

Sally and Torrey Poholsky visited with the Scheffres family of Rockville last week. Torrey golfed with his cousin Joe at the Woodmont Country Club. Joe qualified for the Maryland Amature Golf Tournament at Severna Park and was in the final four out of 130 contestants. While in Rockville they also visited with Bea Buckel, Steve and Mary Ellen Presgraves, and the Stemper family.

Pam Poholsky, Murrysville, was a weekend guest of the Poholskys.

Henry and Bonnie Bowser, Harrisonburg, Va., visited with Henry's mother, Kathryn Bowser, last weekend. Henry recently received his master's degree in business administration from Eastern Mennonite University.

Bonnie and Tracy McElroy, Mt. Airy, visited Bill and Tina Buckel and family and Ken and Harriett Buckel over the weekend. Tracy recently returned from Rome, Italy, where she completed a semester to complete her junior year at the University of Maryland, College Park.

Julius, Karmen, and Tony Carey, Frostburg, were Father's Day visitors of Karmen's dad, Jim Glotfelty. They presented him with an enlargement of a treasured photo of him and his grandsons, Chris and Tony Carey, and a banana cream pie. Tom, Tim, and Taylor Glotfelty, and Laura Bach were supper guests of the Jim Glotfeltys one evening last week.

Tom and Tim Glotfelty left Saturday evening for a week's fishing trip in Ontario, Canada, after visiting Tom's dad and giving him a Father's Day plaque.

Lois Kolb, Accident, called on her former neighbor and school teahcer, Ida Reckner, Sunday evening. Ida is much improved after being ill for several weeks.

Jehovah's Witnesses Attend Pa. Assem.

More than 800 members of the Christian Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses recently attended a special assembly day program of Bible instruction in Coraopolis, Pa. Congregations from Oakland, Grantsville, Frostburg, and Kingwood, W.Va., were among many groups from West Virginia and Maryland who attended the assembly, which was titled "Subject Yourselves to God — Oppose the Devil."

The assembly featured a variety of Bible-based talks by various guest speakers, including Brother Steven Charity of the Oakland congregation. His speech was titled "Subjection to God in an Enslaved World."

The discussion titled "Youths Who Benefit from Godly Subjection" offered Bible-based direction to help young people "be alert to the devil's tactics," a spokesperson said.

The program also included the immersion baptism of three individuals.

Jehovah's Witnesses is a Bible education organization with more than 6 million members "devoted to worship of Jehovah God in spirit and truth, as stated by Jesus (John 4:24)," the spokesperson said.

Video Offers Help To Parents Of Stutterers

A new videotape, Stuttering and the Preschool Child: Help for Families, helps parents detect stuttering and take action toward helping their children. The tape is now available at the Ruth Enlow Library.

As many as 20 percent of all preschoolers nationwide have repetitions and prolongations of sounds severe enough to be of concern to their parents, according to a report from the Stuttering Foundation of America.

Produced by the foundation, the video describes what kinds of stuttering young children may exhibit, how parents can help at home, and the role of a speech pathologist in evaluating and treating children who stutter. The Foundation provides this new videotape free of charge to all public libraries nationwide.

"Stuttering typically begins between the ages of 2 and 5," said Barry Guitar, Ph.D., professor and chair of communication sciences at the University of Vermont in Burlington. "It may begin gradually or suddenly, and many of these children outgrow their disfluencies naturally. However, if a child continues to stutter for several months, or appears to be frustrated by it, parents should seek assistance."

Guitar appears in the video with four other nationally recognized experts in stuttering: Petc. Ramig, Ph.D., of the University of Colorado at Boulder; Diane Hill, M.A., of Northwestern University; Patricia Zebrowski, Ph.D., of the University of Iowa; and Kristin Chmela, M.A., in private practice.

These individuals address common concerns that parents have about their child, such as how to help the child at home and whether to seek the advice of a speech pathologist.

Strategies parents can use to help reduce stuttering are given throughout the tape and include reducing the number of questions they ask the child, focusing on taking turns during conversations, and making time to read or talk with the child in a relaxed manner.

"Parents are relieved to discover that they are not alone and that other parents share their concerns," said Chmela.

"Stuttering remains a mystery to most people," noted Jane Fraser, president of the Stuttering Foundation. "Watching a young child struggle to speak can be devastating. Our latest video is designed to reassure parents and families that many preschoolers stutter, that they can be helped, and that parents play a vital role in this process."

The 30-minute videotape is also available for a $5 postage and handling fee from the Stuttering Foundation of America, P.O. Box 11749, Memphis, TN 38111-0749. For more information, persons may call 1-800-992-9392 or visit www.-stutteringhelp.org.

Missionary Set To Speak At Glendale Church

Rev. Tom Lantz, Assemblies of God missionary to Jamaica, will be the featured guest speaker at Glendale Assembly of God Church on Sunday, June 23, at 10 a.m.

Tom and Brenda Lantz began their ministry to Jamaica before they were appointed as missionaries to the island.

"Brenda and I regularly took our family on short-term missions trips in the years following graduation (from Bible school). We made seven 2-week trips to Jamaica and had the opportunity to assist in church building programs, street ministry, and kids' and family crusades."

During those years, they pastored in Maryland, Alabama, and West Virginia.

"Even with the encouraging level of growth the Assemblies of God has experienced recently, 72 churches can only begin to address the spiritual needs of an island of 2.6 million people," Brenda said. "Many communities do not have any Assemblies of God church. Our vision is to establish churches in these areas."

The public is invited to attend the missions presentation. The church is located along Glendale Road off Garrett Highway.

"WHAT RELIEF FOR PAINFUL MUSCLES! I NEVER WANT TO BE WITHOUT THIS!"

"My husband and I recently moved to our new retirement home built in the woods. There was much work to do with the lawn and clearing more trees. While we were picking up wood, I pulled a calf muscle. Two weeks later I could hardly walk, but I had promised to help my mother lay some carpet and hang new curtains. I told her how painful my leg was. She handed me a tube of Mobisyl® Cream. I was willing to try anything at that point. I rubbed it in and it worked immediately. What relief! I've tried many other products with no results. At this point I don't plan on ever being without Mobisyl. It's wonderful!"

— Rose Swank
Elmira, MI

It absorbs fast and penetrates quickly to ease soreness and aching. Greaseless, odorless, non-irritating Mobisyl can be used under bandages or clothing. Get Mobisyl at your local pharmacy.

Suspicious Activity Leads To Two Arrests

Two Oakland men were arrested early Wednesday morning after a Garrett County sheriff's deputy, while on patrol of the Swanton area, became suspicious when he noticed a Ford Escort pull into a driveway of an known unoccupied residence and turn its lights out, he said.

The operator of the vehicle, Roy Norman Cheshire Jr., 21, then pulled out and entered Painter School Road and turned off its lights again. The traffic stop by the deputy revealed that the tags were registered to another vehicle and the operator was driving an uninsured vehicle.

A search revealed several marijuana seeds on the front passenger seat, police said. The passenger, Robert Lee Lewis, 21, was charged with possession of a controlled dangerous substance.

At the Garrett County Jail, a search of Lewis revealed a larger quantity of marijuana on his person, police said.

Lewis was released after posting $500, and Cheshire was released on his own re-

AHHH . . . There's nothing quite like a cool pool on a hot day. Six-year-old D.J. Flanigan is well aware of that, shown here making a splash in a cold water hug. The temperatures have been unusually high for Garrett County over the past week, with no rain to bring relief. Some precipitation is in the forecast today, but "hot and dry" are the words describing the rest of the weekend. Water fun is the best answer — just ask D.J. ## USDA Grants $99,000 To Mountain Md.

Congressman Roscoe Bartlett announced yesterday that Mountain Maryland Entrepreneurial Development Center Inc. will receive a $99,000 grant from the Rural Business Enterprise Program of the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA). The grant money will create a revolving loan fund targeting small rural businesses in western Maryland.

"This grant will provide greatly needed funding to western Maryland businesses," Bartlett. "This $99,000 is projected to save 15 jobs and create as many as 100 additional jobs. Small rural businesses are the engine of our economy and the lifeblood of Mountain Maryland. This grant is a sign of strong confidence in western Maryland."

Bartlett added that the grant would provide for ongoing technical support and the necessary resources to help the economic plans of small businesses in the area. He said he believed trade, tourism, and business confidence would also increase as the result of the grant.

Rural Development Enterprise Grants are used for financing and developing small up-and-coming private businesses with less than $1 million in revenues and that will have fewer than 50 new employees, according to Lisa Wright, Bartlett's press secretary.

NAMED NATIONAL ALL-STAR - By virtue of his outstanding performance in the Sun Belt Classic, a national high school baseball tournament, Southern High School ace Bryson Meyers was named to the All-Tournament team. Meyers, a left-hander, played for Team Maryland in the five-day, eight-game tourney, held in Shawnee, Oklahoma. The first Southern player ever selected to play in the classic, Meyers tossed five shutout innings, allowed four hits, and struck out five in an 8-0 Maryland victory over Arizona last Friday. In his first appearance against California, he pitched four innings, gave up just two hits and one run, fanned four batters, and had a 3-2 lead when he left the mound. Maryland ultimately lost that game, 5-4. "Bryson pitched great in both of his appearances," stated Fred Kreiger of Boonsboro, pitching coach for the Maryland team. "I think he has a great future ahead of him." Meyers, who will play for the Catamounts of Potomac State College this fall, recorded a 9-0 personal record and an astounding ERA of 0.82 for the Rams (21-1) this past season. He struck out 71 and issued only 14 walks in 50 2/3 innings, plus finished with a .367 batting average with five homers. He is the son of Kim and Jackie Meyers. Maryland finished 2-8 in the tournament, with the losses including one-run defeats to California and Georgia, and an 8-8 loss to Oklahoma. Ohio, Texas, and Florida also fielded teams in the tournament.

Independence Day Concert Set By Garrett Community Concert Band

The Garrett Community Concert Band will present its third annual Fourth of July Concert, sponsored by Garrett Lakes Arts Festival, on Thursday, July 4, at 7:30 p.m. under the Chautauqua tent at Garrett College campus. The program will feature patriotic music and marches, as well as favorite tunes from Irving Berlin, George M. Cohan, Glenn Miller, and Meredith Willson. Many selections will be introduced by Tom Frawley, band commentator, who provides background and anecdotal information about the selections and their composers.

For this concert, the podium will be shared by Gerald McGee, the band's music director, and Fred Stemple, who was instrumental in the founding of the band.

The Garrett Community Concert Band debuted at the 2000 Chautauqua Festival with an Independence Day concert. The band consists entirely of volunteers, and includes professional musicians as well as instrumentalists from all walks of life, including business and professional people, homemakers, and retirees. Several students from local high schools also participate.

"The common denominator is that they all love making music and sharing it with others," stated McGee. Area instrumentalists interested in joining the band may telephone McGee at 301-387-6315 for more information.

"The informality of this event makes it an ideal opportunity for families to enjoy an evening together. As in past years, groups are encouraged to come early and bring a picnic supper to enjoy on the college lawn before the concert," McGee said.

As a special service to visitors, or for those who enjoy eating out, take-out suppers can be ordered in advance from BumBle Q's Restaurant, located right next to the college, with several main selections to choose from plus side dishes, rolls, and dessert. Food and drink vendors will also be at the tent site throughout the evening

"To round out the evening, the college lawn is a perfect vantage point to view the community fireworks display at the Wisp, which will start immediately after the concert. It all adds up to a traditional 'old-time' Fourth of July," McGee concluded.

DNR Sets Class For Lakeside Property Owners

An informative presentation for Deep Creek Lake lakeside property owners has been set for 9 a.m. this Saturday, June 29, in the downstairs Discovery Room of the DCL State Park Discovery Center. The session will provide details about the special permit required any time a property owner requests to alter the publicly owned buffer strip property.

Sarah Crouse, a specialist with the DCL Natural Resource Management Area, will be discussing the guidelines for special permits, with topics including structures, paths, play areas, electrical improvements, vegetation removal, and shoreline erosion control.

Additional informational presentations for lakeside property owners have been slated for Saturday, July 27, and Saturday, Aug. 24. Information about the lake permitting process is also available on the web at www.dnr.state.md.us/publiclands/western/deepcreeklake. For further information, persons may call the DCL management office at 301-387-4111.

ATV Safety Class Scheduled At Garrett College This Saturday

An free all-terrain vehicle (ATV) safety class will be offered at the Garrett College auditorium from 9 a.m. to noon this Saturday, June 29. Two ATV helmets will be given away as door prizes to participants of the class, which is being sponsored by the Garrett County Health Department in cooperation with the Maryland Natural Resources Police.

Discussion topics for the class will include safety and risk awareness; proper dress; ATV familiarization; safe riding; riding strategies; ATV laws; the dangers of drugs, alcohol and speed; and handling emergencies.

"The recent increase in ATV-related injuries and deaths in the area brought this problem to the forefront," said Diane Lee, the Health Department's Injury Prevention coordinator. "We wanted to increase people's knowledge about safety issues. ATV riding requires protection for the head, eyes, hands and feet against occasional spills, flying debris, or contact with foliage. The same gear makes riding more comfortable with less fatigue."

Studies show that most injuries associated with ATVs occur when the driver loses control, the vehicle rolls over, the driver or passenger is thrown off, or there is a collision with a fixed object. Risk factors include rider inexperience, intoxication with alcohol, excessive speed, and lack of helmet use.

Statistics from the Consumer Product Safety Commission show that in the late 1990s, yearly emergency department visits in the U.S. for treatment of ATV-related injuries averaged about 66,000 and deaths averaged about 250. The National Safe Kids Campaign reports that in 2000, at least 26 children ages 14 and under died and nearly 25,600 were treated in emergency rooms due to ATV-related injuries. ATV-related injuries are six times more likely to result in hospitalization, according to the campaign, and 12 times more likely to result in death when compared to bicycle-related injuries per 1,000 vehicles.

"The issue of kids and these vehicles is a tricky one," Lee said. "Kids love riding ATVs, but the problem of inexperience and riding ATVs that are too

Attempted Carjacking Victim Asks For More Security At Youth Center

A victim of an attempted carjacking asked the Garrett County commissioners this week to support her efforts to make the county safer for residents. "My son and I went through a horrific experience," said Deer Park area resident Amy Buser. "The only reason I think my life was spared that day was so I could help make a difference in this county."

When Buser arrived home on April 25, 2001, two of three escapees from the Backbone Mountain Youth Center assaulted her and attempted to take her vehicle with her 2-year-old son inside. Buser thwarted their efforts, drove to a neighbor's house, and phoned authorities. The Backbone Center is located along Rt. 135 between Swanton and Luke, 15 miles from the Buser residence.

The Prince George's County youths were 16 years old at the time of their escapes.

Since the incident, Buser has written letters to Lt. Gov. Kathleen Kennedy Townsend, Maryland Department of Juvenile Justice (DJJ) Secretary Bishop Robinson, and DJJ youth center superintendent Dale W. Schroyer requesting more security at the Backbone Center.

Buser also plans to start a petition with 1,000 signatures from residents of Backbone Mountain and surrounding areas requesting the commissioners' support and that the state provide better security measures, such as a security fence, at the center.

According to Buser, during his trial, one of the escapees asked the Judge Jim Sherbin, "What did you expect me to do? There

Chautauqua 2002, "America On A Soapbox," To Begin July 4th

A celebration of America's history will again take place this Fourth of July holiday with the Maryland Humanities Council's eighth Chautauqua in Garrett County, slated July 4-8 on the campus of Garrett College. This year's theme is "America on a Soapbox," featuring the distinctive characters of Teddy Roosevelt, Emma Goldman, Ida B. Wells-Barnett, and H.L. Mencken.

The Chautauqua series will be launched on the Fourth of July with a patriotic concert by the Garrett Community Concert Band, followed by fireworks shot from the top of Marsh Mountain. (For more details about the July 4th event, see a separate story in this section of today's issue.)

"America on a Soapbox," a series of character presentations slated for four consecutive nights under a big top tent at Garrett College, will take place July 5-8. The portrayals of Roosevelt, Goldman, Wells-Barnett, and Mencken will be preceded by musical performances by local artists.

The music will begin at 7 p.m. each evening, followed at 7:30 p.m. by the Chautauquans in character. They will talk about their lives and answer audience questions. In addition to the evening tent shows, a daytime community program with Doug Mishler will be

Garrett Information Enterprise Center Opens Doors In McHenry

The mission of the newly renamed Garrett College continues to expand, as the institution took a big step into the high technology world with the offical opening of the Garrett Information Enterprise Center (GIEC) on the McHenry campus Friday. On hand for the ribbon-cutting ceremony were over 150 business leaders and government officials, as well as some representatives of small high-tech starter companies that will be housed in the new incubator building. They hopefully will grow into viable enterprises that will provide a range of employment options for local residents.

In his introductory remarks, college president Dr. Steve Herman told guests that the GIEC represents the fourth pillar in the vision he and Don Storck, Garrett's director of information systems, set forth ten years ago. He briefly traced the steps by which the college has become a major partner in the economic and technological development of the county.

The first step was to establish a telecommunications infrastructure which led to the formation of the Garrett Rural Information Cooperative. The next step was to develop a population in Garrett County knowledgeable about technology. This has been achieved. The third step was to begin specific training programs for persons to work in the information technology industry. The fourth step is to provide a home base for new information technology businesses, the GIEC.

Thanking Don Storck for his leadership in bringing this plan to fruition. Herman stated a two-fold goal. "We want to find ways to help diversify the county's economy and to develop a vibrant, energetic information technology structure that will provide opportunities for the youth of the county to live and work here," he said.

Sandy Major, director of the Garrett Information Enterprise Center, explained how business incubators aid in the process of starting and growing companies and ultimately how they benefit the economy by creating new jobs.

Major then introduced her staff and announced the first tenants of the new facility — six new information intensive businesses. These businesses are: Cohesion Marketing, a multi-channel marketing agency serving the high-tech industry; GMA Engineering Inc., an environmental, remediation and construction firm providing construction services to the federal government; Radiant Network Technologies, whose mission is to create a network environment that helps foster and incubate start-up companies; Reliable Office Technologies, specializing in Xerox sales, service and support; Shoup Design, LLC and club H20, an advertising, web and graphic design firm for print and electronic media; and Sycamore Associates Inc., an information technology company providing custom software and engineering services to the federal government and private sector.

Following the ribbon-cutting ceremony and tours of the Garrett Information Enterprise Center and the Information Advanced Technology Center, the guests attended a luncheon in the college cafeteria. Garrett County director of economic development Jim Hinebaugh was the guest speaker at the luncheon, and he told the assembly of the steady progress that has been made in economic development since the departure of Bausch & Lomb, at one time the county's major employer, in the mid-1990s. His office is not only continuing its efforts in getting new jobs for the county, but also higher paying positions.

Designed to incubate up to 20 small businesses, the GIEC will provide technical assistance and support services, linkage to high-speed Internet services, photocopying and fax services, and document binding, as well as free business counseling. Persons desiring further information may call Major at 301-387-3167.

THE GIEC RIBBON-CUTTING CEREMONY signaled a new era in economic development in Garrett County last week, as the Garrett Information Enterprise Center officially opened its doors. Combining the best of the American spirit of individual entrepreneurship with the support of the greater community, the GIEC will strive to get small high technology businesses through those first critical years of operation and on their way to stability, success, and future growth. Garrett College's McHenry campus and school officials hosted a number of dignitaries and guests for the Friday event, including all three county commissioners and other county officials, state elected officials and Appalachian Regional Commission representatives. Six tenant businesses have already made their home in the incubator building, which can house up to 20 small high tech starter firms. See story.

Property Damage Charge Incurred By MLP Woman

The Oakland City Police served an arrest warrant Friday on 18-year-old Amy Elaine Warner, who was charged with malicious destruction of property over $500, according to the report.

The officers responded to a report of property destruction on Wednesday, June 19, at 3 a.m. along Alder Street in Oakland. They found a 1991 Hyundai with a smashed windshield and four slashed tires. A witness reportedly identified Warner as the suspect.

Following her 10 p.m. arrest, the defendant was released on her own recognizance.

Pa. Woman Faces Charges After Rt. 40 Accident

Three people sustained minor injuries in a Monday afternoon crash on Route 40 near Keyser's Ridge, according to the Maryland State Police. One of the drivers, Kimberly Yeager, 38, Fort Hill, Pa., was charged with negligent driving by state troopers stationed at the McHenry barrack.

At approximately 4:48 p.m., Yeager was traveling westbound just east of Keyser's Ridge when she attempted to make a right turn and pulling her 1994 Ford F-150 pickup truck into the path of an oncoming vehicle. Yeager's truck struck the eastbound 1995 Ford Ranger pickup operated by Thomas Stemple, 47, Accident.

Yeager, her passenger Victoria Yeager, 11, and Stemple were transported by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad to Cumberland Memorial Hospital, where each was treated and released. The Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department assisted at the scene. Yeager caused the accident by failing to yield right of way.

In other local state police news, a deer ran in front of a motorcycle early Tuesday night along Interstate 68, causing the cyclist to lose control of his Harley Davidson as he and his passenger were thrown onto the pavement.

John William Bolinger, 45, and his wife Sara Bolinger, 43, both of Bruceton Mills, W.Va., each escaped serious injury in the 9 p.m. mishap, which occurred in the westbound lanes just west of Friendsville. Bolinger had swerved to miss a deer that had entered the roadway in front of his 1995 Harley, which rolled onto its side, ejecting the two occupants.

The Northern Rescue Squad transported the Bolingers to Ruby Memorial Hospital in Morgantown, W.Va., where both were treated and released.

POA HELPS JULY 4TH CELEBRATION — The Property Owners Association of Deep Creek Lake recently donated $1,000 to the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce. The money will be used to help defray expenses for the chamber's annual July 4th fireworks display in McHenry. The fireworks will be set off at the top of the Bear Claw tubing run at Wisp Ski Resort. Shown above, left, is Fred Thayer, president of the POA, presenting the check to Karen Myers, chairperson of the chamber's July 4th Celebration Committee.

British WWII Vet, Blitz Survivor To Speak In Accident

MARGARET BEADLE

One of Accident's own will deliver the keynote address at the town's Fourth of July Homecoming celebration, as local resident Margaret Beadle will weave her experiences as a World War veteran, air raid bombing survivor, and immigrant to the United States into a speech outlining the enduring values of freedom and patriotism at the opening of the 21st century.

The British-born Beadle, who has been a voice for many causes in the county since relocating here nearly 20 years ago, will be speaking at the Accident Volunteer Fire Department pavilion during the one-hour patriotic program, set to get under way at 1:30 p.m. Thursday, July 4.

Now in her early 80s, Beadle was born in Coventry, England. Her mother died when she was very young, and she was brought up by her father's stepmother — "a very remarkable woman," Beadle said. "She was a great admirer of the suffragettes, and believed very strongly that all women should vote," which was a brave stance for its day.

Beadle's father was an engineer who moved to India in 1927 to work for a British bridge building firm, and the 7-year-old joined him there for a year in 1927. She returned to Britain the following year to attend boarding school, where, she noted, "we read a surprising amount of American literature." She graduated at the age of 17, just before the opening shots of WWII.

The young woman and her countrymen lived through many air raids, commonly known as "The Blitz," and was on hand in her hometown of Coventry on Nov. 14, 1940, when a huge Lutwaffe bombing raid all but destroyed the city, killing many hundreds of residents.

Beadle joined the Women's Royal Naval Service in Aug. 1941 and served until April 1946, with assignments in Scotland, East Africa, India, and Ceylon. After the war ended she worked with the YMCA in the British-controlled sector of Germany, before joining the British Red Cross as a welfare officer when the Korean War broke out.

In late 1953, after the end of the Korean War, Beadle moved to Canada and worked as a social worker, spending one year in Nova Scotia and five years in Montreal. She moved to the United States in 1959, where she met her future husband, widower who was employed as professor at the U.S. Naval Academy. The Beadles were married in 1961, and their "instant" brood of Mr. Beadle's three children from his previous marriage were later joined by two additional children born to the couple.

Following her husband's death in 1983, Beadle and her two daughters moved to Garrett County, where in true British tradition she started a very successful sheep farm. Heahh concerns eventually forced her to give up the herd, and much of her beloved English-style garden.

Beadle now spends much of her time delighting in classical music, reading (as her declining eyesight allows), and writing. She has authored a number of works, including poems, short stories, a novel, a children's play, and a pageant for the opening of the renovated Drane House, a Christmas play and two novels.

Although none of her works have been formally published, Beadle does have them printed with her own funds to give to relatives and friends as gifts. The small poetry collection she sends out each Christmas brings her world to many people across Garrett County, her adopted home of the United States, and the globe.

RED RUN HELPS FUND HOSPITAL EXPANSION PROJECT — Red Run LLC is helping to fund the Garrett County Memorial Hospital renovation/expansion project by pledging $100,000 to the capital campaign. "We hope our donation starts a trend with other restaurants and lounges in the Deep Creek area," said William "Butch" Byrne, innkeeper at Red Run, Deep Creek Lake. "There is a large need in the community for the facilities offered by GCMH. That is why we chose to donate on this scale." The project, which is scheduled to break ground in late summer, includes the expansion of the emergency department, as well as renovations to the lobby, admissions area, laboratory, same-day surgery, and radiology departments. "I am so pleased to see our local businesses, as well as the entire community, join together to support this important project," said Elaine McDonald, campaign chair. ## Candidate Filing Deadlines Are July 1, July 8

The deadline for filing for offices for the 2002 Maryland gubernatorial primary is 9 p.m., Monday, July 1, according to Fred Sanders, clerk for the Garrett County Board of Election. Because of legislative redistricting challenges, the Court of Appeals has extended that deadline for candidates for State Senate, House of Delegates, and party central committees that run by legislative district until Monday, July 8, at 9 p.m.

Candidates for the following offices in the 2002 election must file their certificate of candidacy with the State Board of Elections: governor/lt. governor, comptroller, attorney general, representatives in Congress, state senators, members of the House of Delegates, and circuit court judges.

Candidates for the following offices in the 2002 election must file their certificates of candidacy with the appropriate local board of elections: register of wills, clerk of circuit court, sheriff, state's attorney, county commissioners, judge of orphans court, boards of education, and party central committees.

Prospective candidates are advised to determine that they have all the necessary documents and information required for filing before they make the trip to the election office. Candidates must have a form of identification, preferably a driver's license, and should know their election district and precinct.

The State Board web site (www.electionsmaryland.-com) contains information and forms necessary for filing. The Garrett County Board of Elections may be contacted by telephone at 301-334-1962.

Wisp/State Park Trails System Support Strong

The Garrett County Recreational Trails Task Force has teamed with Pashek Associates, a Pittsburgh-based recreation and community planning firm, to outline a strategy for a county-wide trail system. The initial phase of this multi-stage plan to connect sites, proposes bicycle lanes between Wisp Resort in McHenry and Deep Creek Lake State Park.

To gauge support for development of this connection, Pashek planners mailed questionnaires to the 564 property owners along the projected route. "The mailing resulted in a very strong response rate of 38%. Most property owners — over 80% — supported the Wisp Resort to Deep Creek Lake State Park connection, and over 60% percent of landowners feel that a nearby bicycle trail will add to their property value," recreation planner John K. Trant Jr. reported.

According to Trant, of those surveyed, a significant number currently bike along the roads proposed for the Wisp to Deep Creek connection. "They welcome improvements to the safety of the route," he added.

In addition to construction of the Wisp to Deep Creek Lake State Park bicycle lanes, the Recreational Trails Task Force continues to move forward with charting a system of recreational trails, which will serve county residents as well as visitors to the area. For more information on this project, persons may contact task force chair Steve Green at 301-387-4199 or the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce at 301-387-4386 or 301-245-4400.

Bartlett Notes $50,000 Grant To Aid Ag., Heritage-Based Businesses

Congressman Roscoe Bartlett (R-6-Md.) announced Tuesday that Garrett County will receive a $50,000 grant from the Rural Business Enterprise Program of the United States Department of Agriculture. The grant money will be used to hire an agriculture marketing specialist to develop a promotional plan for emerging agricultural and heritage-based businesses within the county.

"According to the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA), Rural Development programs create or preserve tens of thousands of jobs in rural communities," said Bartlett. "This $50,000 grant demonstrates strong confidence and commitment to Garrett County and will help to stimulate small rural businesses in western Maryland. This funding is projected to as-sist 67 businesses and create 100 new jobs."

He added, "Heritage tourism is a fast-growing field in the United States. With this grant, Garrett County will be able to create a more direct and targeted marketing plan-for its beautiful natural resources and extensive heritage and agriculture sites beyond Deep Creek Lake to generate new businesses and jobs."

Rural Development Enterprise grants are used for financing and developing small up-and-coming private businesses with less than $1 million in revenues and that will have fewer than 50 employees.

Broadford Lake Park Slates 4th Of July Activities

Broadford Lake Park is kicking off the July 4th holiday a day early this year with fireworks at the park on July 3 at dusk.

The park is promoting an old fashioned 4th of July with a two-day celebration, according to Dave Beard, park director.

"Other great holidays like Christmas and New Year's, so we figured why not start the festivities the day before," he said. "Last year's event was such a success we decided this would be a great way to kick off the 4th."

The fireworks display by Milton Proudfoot and company will begin at dusk on July 3, but in case of rain they will be on July 4. Other activities include face painting by the Garrett County Health Department and music by the Garrett College Pipes and Drums and Dave Martin's quartet, which will sing the Star Spangled Banner.

Beard added that paddle boats, fishing boats, kayaks, and canoes are also available to rent per hour or per day until dusk. There is also a brand new pavilion with bathrooms.

"I think we have the prettiest park in the whole county," Beard said. "It is very family oriented."

The Fun Food Concession Shop at the beach area will be open until dusk with cotton candy, sno-cones, hot dogs, sloppy joes, and other snacks and drinks.

Misplaced Energy...

The big buzz on the streets of America this morning is the declaration by a federal appeals court in California that the Pledge of Allegiance is unconstitutional because of the two words "under God," which were added to the pledge in 1954 during the Cold War against godless communism. In the unlikely case that the ruling will be allowed to stand, it would mean that the pledge could no longer be recited legally in the school classroom as it is every day.

Michael Nedrow, the atheist who filed the lawsuit, now has his sights set on foreing removal of the words "In God we trust" from our currency.

In the purest sense, we acknowledge that there is some basis for Nedrow's position. It is true that separation of church, or religion, and state is a crucial stone in the foundation of our system of government. Government cannot — must not — legislate how and what an individual citizen is to believe, or not to believe.

However, let's take a closer look at this particular issue involving the Pledge of Allegiance. First of all, no student in this country is forced to say the words "under God," or to recite the pledge at all. Some refuse to do so because they are atheists; others refuse because they are staunch believers in God and choose not to pledge allegiance to a flag or a system of government. Both are legitimate reasons that should be — and as far as we know, are — respeeted in the nation's classrooms.

So we must first ask, who are the victims here? What harm is being done to any student who refuses to say the pledge? Some will say they are "being singled out," to which we would respond that it takes courage to stand for the things one believes in. It is not easy going against the majority, but our government gives each of us every right and every protection to do so. Isn't it great that we live in a country that allows for this kind of individual expression versus one that would demand our beheading?

Secondly we ask, just where will we draw the line? If this ruling is allowed to stand, then we must never again allow the singing of "God Bless America," and numerous other works, on public property or at any event that is in any way connected to government. In our history classrooms we must limit the study of our Constitution and the Declaration of Independence, both of which refer to a supreme being or creator. We must grind away or fill in any and all words on our government buildings that refer to God. We must cease all funding of any arts — music, dance, drama, and still arts — that have even a remote reference to God, which would make it illegal to provide an Arts Council grant to the Garrett Choral Society for a presentation of Handel's Messiah, for example, or to Our Town Theatre for a production of Sanders Family Christmas. It would make it illegal for a municipality to spend tax dollars on Christmas decorations for its town. We can go on and on.

Again, who is being harmed by the use and presence of these words? And more importantly, aren't there about a hundred other issues that need the time, money, energy, and attention of our government and our citizenry, issues in which there are obvious victims? The civil rights laws were just and necessary because there were obvious victims. Our nation has been attacked by terrorists, war is being waged in the Middle East, the threat of nuclear confliet between Pakistan and India is for real, corporate America is an absolute mess right now, and thousands of men, women, and children continue to starve to death every day somewhere in the world. There are real victims in all of these erises, and this is where we must place our energy and effort, instead of getting all frothed up in haggling over something as ridiculous and frivolous as the legality of the words in a voluntary pledge.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

While looking through the new Garrett County Vacation Guide recently, I was appalled to see that there is no page listing churches in Garrett County, which included address and phone number, as in previous years.

The churches didn't pay for that page full of listings, and I can only assume that the Chamber of Commerce feels paid ads are more important.

The picture of the "President's Church" and the note to call the Visitor's Center for information on churches shows again how big money is compromising our values.

Speak to any pastor in Garrett County and find how many calls are received late Saturday evening—long after the Visitor's Center is closed—asking for times of worship and Sunday school.

Again, the chamber is not only discounting our Garrett County people, but also doing a disservice to those whom they are inviting here to spend their time and money.

People of faith, I urge you to encourage your church to ask the Chamber of Commerce to reinstate the church page into next year's guide.

Most sincerely,
Carol J. Moss
Secretary/Treasurer
Deep Creek United Methodist Ministries

To the Editor:

We are a group of students who would like to have a youth center in Garrett County. We have gone to see the commissioners to tell them this. We know a lot of kids who will not be able to go very far or spend a lot of money to have fun. We do not think we are asking for a whole lot. We just want somewhere to go to have fun, to be with our friends, to have dances, to sing and dance, and to play games. Some of us like to skateboard. Some of us like to ride bikes. Some of us like to rollerblade. There is no place to go to ride skateboards or our bikes or rollerblade close to where we live. Some of us like to sing and dance. Some of us like to act. Some of us are just looking for some place to hang out with our friends and have a good time.

We don't understand why it is so hard to get people to listen to us. It bothers us that we didn't get a good response from the commissioners when we went to see them. We don't understand why adults can have some place to go and we can't. We also don't understand how they are getting so much money to put into that adventure sports place at the lake and can't get money to give us a place to go to be with our friends — someplace that isn't too far from where we live and someplace that won't cost too much money.

Please, commissioners, mayors, and town councils, won't you listen to us and help us? We are trying to do this on our own, but we really do need your help.

To the Editor:

Here's something frightening. Maryland's death rate from oral cancer is 15 percent higher than the national average. Every day two people in Maryland are diagnosed with this disease. About 50 percent of people diagnosed with oral cancer live more than fve years and only one in three African-Americans will live more than five years if diagnosed with this particular cancer.

It is estimated that over 30,000 people will get some form of oral cancer in 2002, and 7,800 of them will die as a result of the disease. Maryland ranks eighth nationally for deaths from oral cancer and sixth in deaths for African-American men.

Oral cancer, sometimes considered the forgotten cancer, affects the mouth, lips, throat, head, and neck regions.

Now for some good news. Although the oral cancer rate is high in the state, the death rate has decreased in part from the Oral Cancer Prevention Initiative passed by the General Assembly. Nearly every county in Maryland is conducting preventive activities to draw people's attention to the disease. The campaign is encouraging people to eliminate the use of tobacco products, the primary cause for oral cancer, and to stop or at least moderate their consumption of alcohol, a secondary cause. Educating the public, promoting oral health care screenings, and media campaigns are part of the new efforts to continue the decline in Maryland's oral cancer mortality rate. Like other annual health checkups, Marylanders should make a habit of adding an oral cancer examination as part of their yearly visit to the doctor or dentist.

To the Editor:

I am writing to you about the annexation that you reported in your June 13 newspaper. I realize you received your information from the city hall; therefore, I am not blaming you for wrong reporting.

However, I would like to correct the column on a few things. First, a few of my neighbors were forced to annex in as we almost were. Last year when we voted, even though it seemed we voted against it, the mayor said he "overruled us." Overruled us! What kind of talk is that?

This has not been easy on us and we have worried enough about it for many years. When we ask for public information it suddenly became clear they were hiding something from us. We had to keep going back for information because it wasn't ready.

We have voted over and over, and it seems each time the votes meant something different. One time it was by persons in the household, age 18, who were registered to vote. One of my neighbors didn't get to vote because the town said he wasn't registered to vote, but he went down and told them he was registered. Next time it was by household. Then they tried value of properties. We know they have to get a certain percent before they can annex.

They told us they couldn't make any place an island, but that is exactly what they did by running back and forth across Memorial Drive. Next thing you know they will try to force us in because of this problem.

Our lives are in jeopardy because our water is contaminated, and the town is trying to stand in the way of our getting water and sewerage. We are merely trying to live a peaceful life in Garrett County, but we feel invaded by the town. We have lived here for 19 years!

Sincerely,
Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kimble

To the Editor:

We are writing with concern about the article you published in the 6/13/02 edition. We imagine you received a news release from the town of Oakland (about the annexation) since your article was very similar to the one that appeared in the Cumberland Times that week. So although this letter is not directed at you, we are giving you our version about the annexation.

For three years now we have lived on Windy Lane. For those three years and longer, the town of Oakland has written letters to all the residents here about annexing. We also have a letter

by Jeffrey Wilson

IN THE ORCHARD

I have just come in the house after spraying my small apple orchard and the other fruit trees. Spraying is the part of fruit growing that I like least. Though the chemicals I use are among the safest of organo-phosphates, they are still nasty. While spraying I look like the man from outer space since I wear the face mask, goggles, and other safety gear that reduces my risk.

Odd is that, however nasty are those chemical poisons, their reasonable use is actually more sustainable than of some organic pest controls. A century of spraying Bordeaux mixture (copper sulfate and lime) will sterilize the soil so that nothing will grow in it.

Timeliness, as one of my cousins is wont to observe, is key to success in any agricultural endeavor. The prebloom and post-bloom sprays are essential. If they are missed it is virtually impossible to make up that lack through the season.

On the other hand, if those two spray windows are properly utilized and one more follow-up spray is applied two weeks later, and nothing else is done, most years those trees will produce 50% usable fruit. I find that subsequent monthly sprays until three weeks before harvest will produce substantial quantities of high quality fruit.

Growing fruit is, all in all, a very satisfying endeavor. I enjoy the relative permanence of a tree compared to the annual planting of most garden vegetables. Pruning the trees, while hard work, also meets a creative desire, because pruning is very like sculpting in a living medium.

The small-scale producer can also satisfy a propensity to collect things. This year eight trees are in production, and they will produce eight different varieties of apples. Some orchardists collect several varieties on one tree, grafting fruit wood into existing trees. That also serves as an experiment for that variety. Instead of planting a tree, then waiting several years to find out if he likes that particular apple, a single limb can produce sooner and with much less investment in space and work.

There is the fruit itself. I have fresh apples from mid-August until late winter or even early spring — half the year. That seems a wonderful luxury to me of the kind that money can hardly buy. Some of the varieties in my orchard are commercially grown, like Jonathan and Granny Smith.

York Imperial was once a common commercial apple, but I have not seen it offered on a stand in my part of the country for years. I have never seen a Roxbury Russet or a Limbertwig or a Calvin or a Lady or an Esopus Spitzenberg apple offered for sale.

Those trees bear history in their genomes. The Esopus was one of President Jefferson's two favorites. Roxbury Russet was a common cider apple amongst New England Puritans. Lady has come to us from Roman times through the orchards of French kings.

I have a passion for apples, but having apple trees makes it easy to have a few other fruit trees as well. I am harvesting sour cherries now. Two pear trees have come into light production during the past couple of years. I have two Damson plum trees which have never given me so much as a pip, and I do not understand why. I planted them in order to make jam from the plums.

The greatest joy of the orchard is that it is a place for discovering identity. In the final pages of Homer's Odyssey, after his reunion with his wife, the hero, Odysseus, goes in search of his father, and finds him in the orchard. As Odysseus stands by a pear tree, he catches first sight of his father after 20 years.

Though his father is a king, he is dressed as a peasant, and has consoled himself by doing the work of a peasant for what he thought was the loss of his only son. Alone in his orchard the father is planting a tree which he might not live to see bear fruit. In that intersection of sorrow and hope Odysseus and his father discover each other. That is all but the last word in one of the world's greatest stories.

My story is humbler, but the orchard is still a place of discovering who I am. It is a place of consolation and of hope.

TICKLING THE IVORIES

by Mary Sincell McEwen

Cold fingers. Racing heart. Dizziness. Not butterflies, but jet planes in the stomach. Heartburn. Sheer panic. These are symptoms one may recognize if that one has ever taken part in a piano recital. Oh, sure, it seems pedestrian enough, boring even. But if you've never been in a piano recital line-up, you know nothing about this unique brand of anxiety.

I went to my son Robert's first piano recital recently. Sitting there listening and watching, the memories of such ordeals came rushing back. Piano recitals were a standard thing in my younger life, as I took lessons regularly for 10 years, and then sporadically for another two or three. Mrs. Mary Douglass was my teacher. I learned so much from her — I can still hear her coaching me even now when I play. Robert takes lessons from Marianne Flinn, one of the kindest, happiest people I think I've ever met. Although our lesson experiences have been a bit different, Rob and I now have a new connection — we have both survived the Ordeal of the Recital.

It's hard to describe the feehngs one experiences while waiting to walk up to the piano and perform a piece in front of other students and guests. Playing the instrument to begin with is similar to rubbing your stomach and patting your head simultaneously. There is a real challenge to making your hands and fingers do contrary things. I actually teach two kids right now, and they both get perplexed when they first try to play a piece in which both hands are playing keys, but at different times and rhythms. They get discouraged, but I remind them that they are making their brain do something they don't usually ask it to do — "Make my right hand do one thing, like play quarter notes, and make my left hand so something else, like play eighth notes, and try not to think about anything else." The brain doesn't wish to do these tasks, generally, and it takes some repetitive persuasion, also known as practice.

What's the importance of teaching a child music? Frankly, I think there is untold wealth in learning the art. Even if a child stops lessons after a few years, he or she has learned the language and it does stay with a person. It's a facet of life, another angle, that deserves exploration. I didn't love taking lessons all those years. In fact, I threatened to quit countless times. My wise mother would say, "Okay, you just take a few more lessons and then see if you still want to quit." And every time, after a few weeks, I found myself renewed, off on some other exciting musical path. Making music is calming to me, even if it's just for myself and maybe the cat, who's almost completely deaf anyway. I love to sit at the piano and fumble along. There are definite physiological changes that occur when I'm doing that. I'm sure my blood pressure goes down. Even when the boys come in and stare at me, waiting for a go-ahead nod to release them into the kitchen for a snack search, I can still find comfort in it. When the kids were littler, they'd go as far as banging on the keys I happened to not be playing at the moment, but I would still push on, determined not to stop. My powers of ignoring were finely honed.

But playing for other people, that's another matter. I don't think I ever played exceptionally well at recitals, no matter how hard I practiced. Of course I could have always practiced more, like my sister always did (and she played flawlessly most of the time). But I was hardly ever in the mood to practice for hours. I would get stopped at a certain place and then go over that one place again and again until it was good. But that always had the consequence of me being too reheved once I got past that spot. "Oh, whew, I did it, it's past," I would be thinking and then, behold and lo, I'd mess up an easy part right after it, every time. D'oh!

So what's the point? Why do it? Why sit around for hours trying to get one run right or sweat bullets before playing for someone else? Well, because. Art is important, and music is art. It is expression, it is release, it is appreciation of a composer's inspiration and perspiration. Music brings people together, just like visual art or written work. It gives us all something in common, and there is definite value in that. That's really what art is, anyhow. We go to movies because we relate to the characters in them. We sing along with popular music because the words say it so well. We stare at great works of art because they resonate with something inside of us that maybe can't be expressed any other way, and our skin gathers up in goose bumps when we are awash in the sound of a symphony.

And then there's our own music, being made with our fingers on the keys of a piano, crafted and sent up, hanging in the air for only an instant. But in that instant, our world is altered, ever so slightly, for the better. That's the point.

PAWS Hosting Photo Contest To Celebrate Pet-People Relationship

Partners for Animal Welfare and Safety Inc., or PAWS, is sponsoring a photography contest titled "Pets and Their People: A Celebration of Life With Animals!" Entries are being accepted from now until Saturday, Aug. 31. A total of $700 in prize money is being awarded for the photos judges deem best in reflecting a positive relationship between animals and their care-givers.

"Whether your pet is finned, feathered, or furred, four-legged or 'more-legged,' two-legged or no legged, big or small, PAWS is looking for pictures of them all," a spokesperson said. "While photos featuring pets and people may seem the obvious choice for a contest titled 'Pets and Their People . . . .' the actual presence of humans in these photos is not mandatory. Entries must, however, convey a strong sense of that bond which exists between pet owners and the animals they love."

The contest is open to area amateur and semi-professional photographers age 16 and older. Photos may be entered in four categories: "At Work and Play," "Clowning Around," "Quiet Moments," and "Let's Play Dress-Up." Photographers may submit only one photo per category. Entries must be color, high resolution, glossy prints measuring at least 4 x 6 inches and no larger than 5 x 7 inches. There is a $5 entry fee per submission.

First, second, and third place prizes of $100, $50, and $25 will be awarded to the best photos in each category. A Best of Show award recipient will be chosen from among these winners. In addition to earning a special ribbon, that photo will be featured on the cover of a 2003 calendar that PAWS is producing using all of the winning photos. The organization plans to have the calendar ready for sale in October. Proceeds from the calendar sale will help PAWS continue its efforts to increase public awareness of issues which affect animal as well as human welfare in Garrett County, the spokesperson said.

Those wishing to enter the contest may mail their photos, in protective photo mailers, along with completed entry forms and appropriate fees to: PAWS, P.O. Box 745, McHenry, MD 21541.

Envelopes containing photo submissions, entry forms, and fees may also be dropped off at the offices of The Republican newspaper in Oakland and the Grantsville Plaza. The envelopes should be clearly marked with the words "PAWS Photo Contest" on the outside, the spokesperson advised.

Brochures with more information and contest entry forms are available at most film development drop-off locations throughout the county. These include Proudfoot's Pharmacy, Gregg's Pharmacy and Wal-Mart in Oakland, Arrowhead Market, Foodland Fresh in McHenry, Beachy's Pharmacy, Rite-Aid, and Foodland in Grantsville, and the Friendsville Pharmacy, Friendsville. Brochures are also available at Casselman, Countryside, and Pineview veterinary practices, Animal Crackers and Muttworks pet groomers, Happyat Hill Horsery, the Ruth Enlow Library, and at both Republican offices.

Further questions regarding the contest should be directed to PAWS volunteers at 301-533-3291, 301-334-2699, or 301-895-3711.

Letters

dated 1996 when they started this scheme. First of all, let us say that at the town meetings we attended, we were treated like outlaws.

We attended each and every meeting that we could about the annexation. We chose not to attend the very last one after we voted "no" to the annexation because we figured it would be just another bashing. The votes were already in.

First of all, not everyone that was annexed in voted to be so. The annexation runs back and forth across Memorial Drive (wherever convenient?). By the way, did this annex in Wal-Mart? They couldn't get Mitchell Manor to annex so they came on this side on the hill. How did Wal-Mart get town water and sewerage before annexing?

If we back up to where the town line was, we'd have to go back to the Oakland Cemetery. Of course, Dr. Tuel's office, Dr. Jones's office, and the Health Department voted "yes" to annexation because as new businesses in the past couple of years they were given town water and sewerage when they built (before the annexation). This is putting the cart before the horse, isn't it? Are they being charged out-of-town rates for their water and sewerage?

With the first letter, dated August 5, 1999, the town hall sent an attachment that said if we annexed we would get public water, sewer, and streets available within three years. After a call and a letter to the mayor's office asking if we could get water and sewer within six months, we received another letter in September 1999 that said the town would agree to provide sewer service within 10 years and water service within 15 years. It also backed itself up by saying, "Please realize that this 10 to 15-year plan is directly affected by the amount of future development in this area." Uh oh...this sounds like more time has been added.

So we kept going to the town meetings and asking for water and sewerage within at least a year. We told them our water was contaminated and our sewers were lying on the ground. Yes, they don't perk. But the ducks seem to like to swim in them. We got another letter (April 19, 2002) stating, "The town agrees to provide sewer service within five years, and water service within eight years." But, "Please realize that this 5 to 8-year plan is directly affected by the amount of future development in this area."

What development? The bypass? Oh yes, the mayor himself told us, "If you don't annex in, they (?) can't build the bypass. There wasn't one tear in that meeting. We are going to be affected by that thing too — a retaining wall approximately 200' from our house and one of our neighbor's house is to be taken out. Let's put an exit ramp off Memorial Drive so the "riff-raff" can get off near the two schools.

We attended one meeting which some Wal-Mart officials also attended, and when someone asked, "If the bypass fails, are you (Wal-Mart) still going to build?" Someone answered, "That has nothing to do with the building of Wal-Mart." Then this same gentleman pulled out a letter and showed it to everyone. The letter was from Wal-Mart planning personnel. It was to the Maryland Department of Transportation. It stated something like, if the bypass does not go through, they wouldn't be building in Oakland. Sounds to us like the bypass was promised beforehand.

We ask you, where do we benefit by paying town taxes each year? Memorial Drive is paved and plowed. The only thing we asked for was to get water and sewerage, and the town said, "No, not now." How can they say they don't have the money? They would get their money in taxes as we go.

In the September 2001 — Comprehensive plan for Oakland (page 33), it states that the availability of water and sewerage in the Greater Oakland area is of great advantage to the town and has been a (preeminent) positive influence in the annexation of the Rt. 219 north area and the coming of Wal-Mart to Oakland. (Another deal?)

On page 34 of that same book, it states "The sewage treatment plant itself has a very large capacity and can process the flows entering the system even when the capacity of the collector system has been reached." We see no problem hooking up to this system.

Page 35, "Continuous system upgrades have allowed the average daily flows to be increased to .90 mgd. This has in turn allowed the town of Oakland to receive new customers into the system."

On page 14, page iv, and many other places, it states that the goal is to protect streams and buffers, including Cherry Glade Run. Well, our sewers are contaminated, and we believe are running down to this creek.

After telling Mr. Mayor that we contacted the Health Department and if they declared our wells condemned that we would receive water and sewer, annexation or not, he stated, "That would be the only way we would get it," and that he could charge us out-of-town prices. How fair is this?

The water and sewerage is all around us. Again, the Health Department has it. Wal-Mart has it. Therefore, it can't be that costly to the town. They're within a quarter mile of here.

One landowner told me that when she called in to vote, they already had her down for "yes" to annexation. She voted "no." Another told us that if he voted "yes," they would "grandfather" a building in he wanted to build later on. We thought the town wanted to protect us from development.

We are glad we did not get forced to annex in like some of the neighbors on Memorial Drive. Now you know why we didn't vote for the annexation. The Health Department is looking into our water and sewage problem as we write, and we hope to have this problem cleared up this summer, without the annexation.

Truly,
Mr. and Mrs. J. Ashby

MINORITY REPORT

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 2:20 - Released 6/21/02

As a director, Steven Spielberg owns one of the greatest track records of his generation. I think the secret of Spielberg's success is that, unlike many other currently prominent directors, he is more able to balance the high-tech, effects-driven aspects of his movies with the much more important human factor. Although many of his most popular films have been effects extravaganzas like E.T., Close Encounters, and Jurassic Park, some of his best films are the ones where effects take a back seat to character and relationship work; i.e., Schindler's List, Amistad, Saving Private Ryan.

Although Spielberg's latest effort, Minority Report, is admittedly one of his more emotionally sterile productions, it is not unlike last year's A.I. in that it features a fascinating, futuristic concept (based on the short story by Philip K. Dick, first published in Fantastic Universe magazine in 1956), with just enough of the human touch to make it emotionally accessible to the audience. While we may marvel at the ideas of crimes being predicted by psychic clairvoyants, or cars that glide effortlessly and automatically down the sides of skyscrapers and merge onto the highway with nary an accident, or advertisements that speak to you by name after having read your retinal scan, the issue more resonant to us is the man who has lost his little boy, and it is this issue that drives the film. Of course, it doesn't hurt to have reliable actors like Tom Cruise and Max von Sydow, not to mention a huge and uniformly capable supporting cast, and writers like Scott Frank and Jon Cohen, who adapted Dick's 50-year-old story for a current audience, or the tense and powerful music of Spielberg's longtime friend and composer, John Williams, to help with the overall effect.

The story is set in Washington, D.C., in the year 2054. The city's law enforcement authorities have begun an experimental procedure for which they hope to seek acceptance (and funding) on a national level, called the PreCrime agency. Devised by retired law enforcement officer and elder statesman Lamar Burgess (von Sydow), the system uses the talents of three people with exceptional psychic abilities who are kept in a constant state of dream sleep by a combination of mind-numbing drugs, partial immersion in a huge sensory-deprivation tank, and electronic "halos" attached to their heads (which basically give them the Jack Nicholson treatment from One Flew Over The Cuckoo's Nest). Using the fragmented images seen by these "precognitives," which are projected onto a screen and interpreted by agents like Detective John Anderton (Cruise), the agency is able to predict and prevent every murder that is about to happen in the city, deftly stepping in and arresting the suspect before the crime has even been committed and fitting him with his own halo so he can enjoy the paralytic state that will keep him quiet while he rots in suspended-animation prison. Boasting a spotless record over the past several years, the PreCrime agency has made Washington the safest city in the U.S., with no murders reported since the program began. When Detective Ed Witwer (Colin Farrell) is sent in by the attorney general to investigate the system for possible "flaws" (like a misread prediction resulting in a wrongful imprisonment), Anderton, who is wrestling with a drug addiction following the disappearance of his young son and subsequent dissolution of his marriage, feels his hackles rise. "The system is perfect;" he states, "the fact that we prevent the crime doesn't change the fact that it was going to happen." Unfortunately, the next image that comes in features Anderton himself as the killer, murdering a man he's never seen or heard of, supposedly within the next 36 hours. Suddenly he finds himself on the run from the very system he has championed, trying to find out whether he is the victim of a "false positive" or if he's really going to kill this man—and if so, why.

Although this film is nearly 2½ hours long (also like A.I.), it is almost constantly riveting, either from the standpoint of its futuristic vision or its tense plot line. There are definitely some holes in the story, and the twists and turns taken in the final half hour are at times predictable, but as always, Spielberg delivers a product which is much more than the sum of its parts, so well-rendered, technically and emotionally, that it somehow excuses its own transgressions. In addition to the principals, fine acting performances are given by Samantha Morton as the "precog" forced, if only briefly, to function in the unforgiving present, distinguished actress Lois Smith as the eccentric matriarch of the PreCrime system, and Peter Stormare as a skilled but unconventional eye doctor. Minority Report adds yet another jewel to director Spielberg's crown, and another entry to the short list of truly thoughtful and intelligent films in the futuristic science fiction genre. ★★★★★

LILO & STITCH

Rated PG - Running Time: 1:25 - Released 6/21/02

Lilo & Stitch is the latest "conventionally animated" effort from Walt Disney Pictures (that is to say, not associated with the Pixar digital animation company, with whom Disney has collaborated on such spectacular films as Toy Story, A Bug's Life, and Monsters, Inc.). As a straight animation piece it deserves at least a passing grade; it's not in the same league with the likes of Beauty And The Beast or Aladdin, but it's much better than, say, last year's Atlantis: The Lost Empire. It is set in a part of the world never visited before in a Mouse House feature, namely Hawaii, and is full of the color and culture of our exotic 50th state, with Hawaiian actors playing the main adult roles and lots of sun, surf, and sand incorporated into the story and artwork. It is written and directed by relative newcomers Dean Deblois and Chris Sanders (Sanders himself essays the voice of Stitch), who have notably chosen to use watercolor background paintings, a medium not used in a Disney feature since Dumbo (1941), adding, for better or worse, an old-fashioned touch to the film's overall look.

The story begins on the alien planet Turo, where a multi-eyed mad doctor named Jumba Jukima (veteran Disney voice David Ogden Stiers) is arrested for illegal genetic experimentation after having produced a short, large-eared, six-legged, fireproof, waterproof gremlin with super strength known only as "Experiment 626," apparently designing it for no other purpose than to cause mass destruction wherever it goes. Soon the creature escapes and heads into deep space, indiscriminately landing on planet Earth, specifically, the island of Kauai. There he is adopted by a troubled and friendless little girl named Lilo (Daveigh Chase), who lives with her older sister Nani (Tia Carrere) after the death of their parents in a hurricane. Although Nani tries her best to take care of her little sister, she loses her waitress job (primarily because of the creature, whom Lilo has named "Stitch"), and is visited by a no-nonsense social worker (Ving Rhames) who tells her that if she can't find gainful employment within 3 days, he will have to take Lilo away to a foster family. But every job opportunity she gets is ruined by Stitch's antics, and before long their house is in a shambles. Meanwhile, Jumba and his ineffectual one-eyed guard Pleakley (Kevin McDonald) are sent to Earth to apprehend the creature and return him to Turo.

For some reason, this movie had a depressing feel for me. It's of course full of humor and has an upbeat ending, with an oft-repeated message about the importance of family ties, but there's a sense of melancholy about the characters and their situations that bothered me. While Nani and Lilo struggle with their ambivalent sibling relationship, Lilo also lacks friends at school. She regularly fights with the other kids, who are hostile toward her in every situation, and even resorts to voodoo against them. Her one pal Stitch, meanwhile, is portrayed as a rather unsympathetic character until late in the final reel; I suppose his mischief and mayhem is supposed to be funny, but he's openly disliked by everyone save Lilo, including his creator, Jumba, who is more interested in studying his behavior than caring for him in any compassionate way. On the upside, the lively soundtrack features plenty of cool Elvis Presley music (Lilo is a great fan), and the final outcome is as heartwarming as that of any flick to spring from the drawing boards of the Disney Studios. For those parents who want to take their kids to the movies but can't stand the vulgar inanity of Scooby-Doo, Lilo & Stitch may provide you with an opportunity to Love Them Tender. But it may not be in theatres long, so Don't Be Cruel — It's Now Or Never. ★★★½

Breaking the Cycle of Poverty in Garrett County

We need your help.

"I really believe in Habitat. It transforms not just people but whole communities. I wish the whole world worked that way."
—Amber Barton

"You feel a lot better about yourself, owning a home. It boosts yourself-esteem."
—Karen Sisler

There is an effective way to break the cycle of poverty. It is working wonders here in Garrett County—right now. If you find yourself blessed, we urgently ask that you join our "square foot club" Help build decent, affordable homes with Garrett County residents caught in the endless cycle of poverty.

Garrett County Habitat for Humanity knows good people ...working people ...forced to live in substandard housing simply because it is affordable. Our goal is to build simple and affordable homes for qualifying families and help them on their way to successful home ownership.

This is not a charity program

In return, these families commit at least 500 hours of "sweat equity"—hard work—working on their own (and other) homes. Our program is built on the solid Christian principle of helping our neighbor in need and charging no interest. Homeowners do commit to a no-interest mortgage to repay our investment in their homes.

100% success record

Our history is unblemished. We have built 43 homes in Garrett County over the years, and not once have we had a family default on its commitment to pay off Habitat's investment in their homes.

Perhaps you have heard of Habitat's program. Members of our community and volunteers from other communities donate their time and talents to our program, as we seek to build at least three homes every year. It costs us about $43,000 to build each new home of approximately 1,000 sq. ft. of living space.

We need your gift

Could you pledge $43.00 to fund one square foot of space in one of these new homes? Perhaps more? Right now, Habitat has several qualified applicants waiting for homes here in Garrett County. The need is real, and the need is urgent.

In addition to financial commitment, we always are seeking volunteers—both skilled and unskilled—to help us build the homes so urgently needed here in Garrett County. Call us today.

Your gift will allow us to continue building homes

Would you like to see your investment of $43, or $430, or more, directly contribute to helping a deserving family move from a poorly heated "shack" with minimal facilities into an affordable, properly insulated and equipped home?

Our goal: No more shacks in Garrett County!

Your money stays here

Every dollar you give will go toward Garrett County home construction. Your funds will not leave the county.

Be generous

Please fill in and return the coupon below now ... so Garrett County Habitat for Humanity will be able to meet its goal for building three new homes this year. Every dollar you invest will bring visible, tangible results ... building a better community with decent, affordable houses in Garrett County.

Songfellows To Bring NYC Theme To Penn Alps

The Songfellows will perform a post-9/11 tribute to their hometown of New York City during a 7:30 p.m. performance this Saturday, June 29, in the latest installment of the 2002 Music at Penn Alps concert series. "New York: A Celebration in Song" will take place in the Great Hall adjacent to Penn Alps Restaurant and Crafts Shop.

Like the Music at Penn Alps series, the Songfellows quartet is marking its 10th season of performances. The four men began performing as a group while with the New York Metropolitan Opera. They are bassist Ross Crolius, tenors Greg Davidson and Mukund Marathe, and baritone Jared Stamm. Each has sung with some of the most highly regarded music organizations in the country, including the New York City Opera, the Gregg Smith Singers, and the New York Philharmonic.

"Songfellows has the same kind of discipline and experience as orchestral musicians," a New York Times reviewer wrote. As Songfellows, they are dedicated to male quartet music from every stylistic period and genre. In recent years, the ensemble has shared its talents to foster the unique joy of ensemble singing through school workshops focusing on the extensive but neglected repertoire written for male voices.

PENN ALPS TO PRESENT THE SONGFELLOWS — The New York City-based Songfellows quartet will take to the stage of the Great Hall at 7:30 p.m. this Saturday, June 29, for a Music at Penn Alps concert program titled "New York: A Celebration in Song." The presentation will serve as a tribute to the victims of Sept. 11 and the indomitable will of the Big Apple and the United States. Bass singer Ross Crollus, tenors Greg Davidson and Mukund Marathe, and baritone Jared Stamm are each veterans of the New York Metropolitan Opera and several other of the top music organizations in the nation. The audience is invited to a post-concert reception with refreshments provided by Penn Alps Restaurant. For information, contact Penn Alps Restaurant and Crafts Shop at 301-895-5985, while additional details on the entire Penn Alps series is available at the web site wwww.musicatpennalps.org.

The audience is invited to a post-concert reception with refreshments provided by Penn Alps Restaurant. This performance is sponsored by Frostburg State University. Music at Penn Alps is sponsored by Sincell Publishing Company, Penn Alps Restaurant and Crafts Shop, corporate sponsors, and the generous support of individuals. Penn Alps is located east of Grantsville along Route 40 between exits 19 and 22 of Interstate 68.

For information, contact Penn Alps Restaurant and Crafts Shop at 301-895-5985. Tickets will be available at the door. There are no reserved seats. Ticket holders should arrive no later than 7:20 p.m. to guarantee seating. More information is available at the web site wwww.musicatpennalps.org.

DUBOSES TO EXHIBIT ART AT GARRETT — Local artists Carolyn Collen-DuBose, left, and Collen B. DuBose will be showing their artworks at the Art Gallery of Garrett College from Tuesday, July 2, through Sunday, July 28. An opening reception for the artists is set for 7 to 9 p.m. the first night of the exhibition, which will include over 50 pieces of art with a wide variety of artistic media. Images vary in subject matter from realistic scenes and portraits to fantasy expressions and abstractions, as well as three-dimensional works. Carolyn Collen-DuBose has been an art teacher in the Garrett County elementary schools for 24 years. She is a graduate of Wittenberg University and Vermont College. Collen DuBose is a sophomore at the Columbus College of Art and Design in Ohio, where he is majoring in video animation. The exhibition is made possible in part by a grant from the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council. # Summer Of Love To Reprise With John Sebastian Concert Tomorrow

THE PITZERS

.The Little Yough Summer Music Festival will mark a return to the tie-dye days of the "Summer of Love" tomorrow evening, Friday, June 28, as John Sebastian, founder and creative genius behind the 1960s chart-topping band the Lovin' Spoonful, will present a solo headlining concert at the Mtn. Fresh Pavilion. Sebastian's performance will follow a 6:30 p.m. opening act appearance by nearby West Virginia folk duo Joan and Keith Pitzer.

After making music for nearly four decades, Sebastian has accumulated a lengthy resumé of hit songs, both with the Lovin' Spoonful and as a solo artist. Rolling Stone magazine called "Do You Believe in Magic" one of the "best — if sunniest — rock & roll anthems," as it referred to the Spoonful's work as "effervescent pop...[with] its key signature remaining a sense of wistfulness and wonder." The group also produced such hits as "Daydream," "Darling Be Home Soon," "Nashville Cats," and the hugely successful "Summer In the City," complete with car-honking and jackhammer sound effects.

After the band's members went their separate ways, Sebastian cut back on his concert touring to raise a family in upstate New York and compose music for animation and films. His solo recordings have featured his own brand of "engaging modesty...and back porch, laid-back vocals," and "wistfulness, melancholy, and tasteful nostalgia" (Rolling Stone). Among his own hits are "She's a Lady," "You're a Big Boy Now," "Magical Connection," "The Four of Us," "Tarzana Kid," and one of the most recognizable sitcom themes in television history, "Welcome Back," from the show Welcome Back Kotter.

In 1999 Sebastian made a return of sorts to his pre-Spoonful folkie roots by forming the Jug Band, which recorded "Chasin' Gus' Ghost." The release has been described as "bringing jug music to a new level of appreciation," by one reviewer.

Joan and Keith Pitzer, who will be opening for Sebastian, perform a wide range of original and traditional Celtic and American folk music. A reviewer who attended a Shenandoah Coffeehouse Series performance by the husband-and-wife duo wrote that the couple "bring all the complexities of modern Appalachia to life with beauty and grace, excellent guitar work and delightfully woven vocals that can only come from knowing each other's souls."

Major sponsors of this year's Little Yough Summer Music Festival are the Greater Oakland Business Association (GOBA), the Oakland Main Street Program, the town of Oakland, the Garrett County and Maryland State arts councils, Master Craft Printers, Dr. John Pocaro, First United Bank, F&M Bank, the Oakland Rotary Club, and the Oakland Elks Club.

Organizers are accepting additional sponsorships and donations throughout the year to help defray the cost of this summer's slate and ensure the festival can return next summer. Potential patrons may mail a donation to: GOBA, c/o Ken Perrin, P.O. Box 3, Oakland, MD 21550.

For further information on the annual summer music series, persons may consult the event web site at www.littleyough.com or call festival coordinator Ken Perrin at 301-501-0201.

IT WILL BE A "HOT TIME" in Oakland tomorrow evening, Friday, June 28, when John Sebastian takes to the stage for this week's installment of the Little Yough Summer Music Festival. Known to many music fans as the founder and creative spark of the 1960s chart-topping band the Lovin' Spoonful, which churned out such hits as "(Hot Time) Summer In the City," Sebastian has been garnering accolades for his own solo work as well. Sebastian's headlining concert will follow a 6:30 opening set by noted nearby West Virginia folk duo Joan and Keith Pitzer. Those attending the free event at the Mtn. Fresh Pavilion are asked to bring lawn chairs, if desired, as well as their best tye-dye regalia.

Columbia Gas of Maryland has donated $10,000 to the Maryland Humanities Council in support of the council's eighth annual Chautauqua program.

In the Chautauqua, historical and literary figures will "come to life" in the council's annual summer living history event at five community colleges throughout the state from July 5 to 15. "Chautauqua 2002: America on a Soapbox" will feature Ida B. Wells-Barnett, Emma Goldman, H.L. Mencken, and Theodore Roosevelt, and will be presented at Garrett College, Cecil Community College (North East), Chesapeake College (Wye Mills), College of Southern Maryland (LaPlata), and Montgomery College, Germantown.

SHS Art Teacher To Attend TICA This Summer

Sonia Pratt, art teacher at Southern High School, has been selected to participate in the Teacher Institute of Contemporary Art (TICA) at the School of the Art Institute of Chicago this summer. Eighty teachers from across the U.S. are expected to attend the event.

"Designed exclusively for experienced high school art educators, this intensive institute offers teachers the rare opportunity to study with renowned artists, critics, and lecturers in the visual and new media arts," said Brian Flood, acting director of public affairs.

Designed for art teachers with 10 or more years of experience, TICA is divided into four separate one-week sessions. Teachers are accepted for only one of the following sessions: art and technology, painting and drawing, and visual and cultural studies. Each weekly session is divided into a studio practice and visiting artist/critic presentation, according to Flood.

Interior Design Workshop Slated By Arts Council

ODETTE LUECK

The Garrett County Arts Council will present a two-session Thursday evening workshop on "Interior Design Basics" at the Deep Creek Lake State Park Discovery Center on July 18 and July 25. The instructor will be Odette Lueck, FASID, owner and senior designer of Odette Lueck Interiors. Workshop hours will be 7 to 9 p.m.

According to the instructor, the workshop is designed to give novices a basic foundation to make and/or understand design decisions within their homes or work environments. Lueck's professional experience as a licensed interior designer includes consultation on residential and commercial projects in Maryland, Virginia, the District of Columbia, Pennsylvania, Nevada, Maine, Alaska, and the Caribbean. Her work has been published in The Washington Post, The Baltimore Sun, and Metropolitan Home, as well as in other journals and publications, and she is the recipient of numerous awards and citations for professional design activities.

The first session of Lueck's workshop at the Discovery Center will be devoted to an exploration of the basic elements of interior design and decoration — form, scale, color, texture, pattern, and light. Workshop participants will use these elements as a foundation to evaluate window treatments, floor plans, lighting, color and pattern selection, accessorizing, carpeting selection, and other components of interior design.

For the second session participants will be encouraged to bring specific design problems from their homes or work areas to share with the group. The instructor will facilitate problem solving exercises to explore creative solutions to these personal design challenges.

In addition to the interior design workshop, the Garrett County Arts Council will present workshops in photography, outdoor watercolor painting, basket making, and calligraphy this summer. Workshops range in length from single sessions (basket making and photography) to five full consecutive days (watercolor painting).

The registration fee for the interior design workshop is $50, and the registration deadline is July 11. Complete registration information is available at the Gallery on Alder Street in Oakland or by calling the Garrett County Arts Council at 301-334-6580.

Garrett's Tobi Stoner Tosses No-Hitter In W.Va. Tourney

After taking the first-half season crown in the American Legion Baseball League's Mountain District two weeks ago, the Garrett Legion team took its unbeaten record to the annual Hillbilly Hardball Classic in Elkins, W.Va., over the weekend. Tobi Stoner pitched a no-hit masterpiece as Garrett mashed Moundsville (W.Va.) 18-0 in the opener, before the local squad went on to lash Lawrenceburg (Ind.) 14-4, in its second outing. Garrett stalled in game three, which ended in a 6-6 tie with Shinnston (W.Va.), and the nosedive steepened in the unit's final appearance, an 8-1 loss to Mason County (Ohio) which eliminated Garrett from the 32-team competition.

Stoner whiffed eight batters during Friday's five-inning no-hit win, and issued just one walk. Garrett's offense gave its pitcher all the firepower he needed by stroking 17 hits and scoring multiple runs during each inning. The winners opened with four runs in the first stanza, then scored five times in each of the next two innings before mounting another four-run inning in the fourth.

Greg Whittemore paced the hitting frenzy with a triple, three singles, and five RBI. Stoner added three singles of his own, Kevin Goralski tripled and singled, Ricky Reams doubled and singled, and J.J. Bolyard and Dan Vagnetti both singled twice.

Garrett went right back to work in its second game of the day, ripping 11 hits in six innings off the Lawrenceburg pitcher while local hurler Vagnetti limited the opposition to just five hits in a complete-game victory.

After scoring twice in the first inning, Garrett fell behind momentarily when Lawrenceburg put three runs across the plate in the second. Garrett stormed back with three runs in the bottom of the stanza and seven in the third inning, as the opponents managed to score only once in the intervening period. Two more Garrett runs in the sixth accounted for the final 10-run margin.

Goralski wielded the big stick by blasting a two-run home run and rapping out a single. Reams ripped a triple and singled twice, Stoner stroked a pair of singles, and Bolyard contributed a double.

Garrett's next opponent was Shinnston, and the two squads mounted a pitched battle that ended in a 6-6 tie after the maximum 2 hours, 15 minutes of play. Garrett got on the board first with a score in the second, but Shinnston scored twice in the bottom of that stanza. After scoring two runs in the third, Garrett went up 3-2, an advantage that held until Shinnston knotted the score with a fourth-inning run. Garrett scored three times in the sixth, but Shinnston matched that tally in the seventh, and the score remained tied through the ninth inning when the game was called.

Garrett had the better offensive showing during the deadlocked contest, rapping out 10 hits, twice as many as Shinnston accumulated. Reams tallied three singles and one RBI, Stoner drove in a run and singled twice, and Goralski had a pair of singles. Starting pitcher Bryan Hauser tossed the first seven innings, striking out five batters and giving up just one walk along the way, before Whittemore was summoned for rehef duty in the eighth stanza.

A win in the following game over Mason County could have landed Garrett a spot in the tourney championship game, but the Ohio squad foiled those hopes with a seven-run win. Mason scored once in the second stanza, and twice in the third and fifth innings, before Garrett broke into the scoring column with a lone fifth inning run. Mason got a three-run home run from J.R. Harman in the seventh inning that ended the scoring tally.

A.J. Bender was Garrett's top hitter, stroking a double and a single and notching the team's only run. Whittemore and Goralski both doubled and singled as well. Whittemore tossed the first five innings before giving way to reliever Reams in the sixth.

Garrett opens the second half of the Legion season Saturday with a noon contest at Frostburg. The two teams will meet again Wednesday at Garrett College in a 7 p.m. match-up.

Oakland Takes One Win In Four Pen Mar Battles With Rosemont

The Oakland Oaks had a tough go of it over the weekend's Pen Mar Baseball League slate, as the local squad lost three of four contests to Rosemont of Clarksburg, W.Va. Rosemont took the first half of a Saturday twinbill in McHenry by a 5-1 margin, but Oakland redeemed itself with a 4-3 triumph in the nightcap to gain the split. It was all Rosemont the following day, however, as the Clarksburg hosts rolled to a 9-4, 7-4 doubleheader sweep.

Saturday's first contest started off knotted at 1-all after one inning of play, but Oakland could only muster that lone run as Rosemont went on to score three times in the fourth and once in the sixth. Joel Uphold singled in that first inning run, and Josh Bosley had two of Oakland's four hits on a double and a single. Chris Smith worked the first four innings before Josh Fitzwater came to the mound in the fifth; Fitzwater in turn was relieved by Chris Harvey in the seventh.

Oakland opened the second game with a first-inning run, and starting pitcher Christian Warfield held Rosemont scoreless through the first five stanzas. The guests scored one run in the sixth to tie the score, but the Oaks responded with a 3-run tally in the bottom half of the stanza to go up 4-1. Seth Tressler slapped an RBI single to help Oakland's scoring effort of that inning.

The game almost got away from the Oaks in the seventh and final inning, as the guests loaded the bases with no outs. Relief pitcher Rob Thompson shut down the threat, however, by striking out two batters and getting a game-closing groundout. Thompson did give up two runs and a pair of walks, but in gaining the clutch final out left Rosemont runners stranded on second and third.

Bosley went two-for-three with two doubles and an RBI. Oakland had six hits for the contest, while Rosemont had eight hits. Warfield gained the win, and Thompson picked up the save.

Oakland traveled to Rosemont's field the following day, and jumped out to a 1-0 lead in the first inning of the opening twinbill contest. Rosemont responded with three runs in the third and widened its lead with a four-run fifth. Oakland scored once in the top of the sixth, Rosemont scored three times in the sixth, and the Oaks scored one run in the seventh.

Oakland and Rosemont both had nine hits during the game. Tressler had a solo home run and a single, Bill Davis doubled and drove home a run on a single, Joey DiSimone doubled and singled, and Uphold singled twice. Harvey started the contest, and was relieved by Tressler in the sixth.

The nightcap saw Rosemont jump out to a 2-0 lead after one inning, but Oakland grabbed a one-run advantage with a 3-run second inning. Rosemont knotted the score with one run in the bottom half of the stanza, and went on to take the game with a 4-run fourth.

Oakland was held to just four hits during the game. Bosley belted a three-run home run, and Tressler smacked an RBI single. DiSimone went the distance on the mound, giving up eight hits along the way.

Wisp Rolls Over Barton, New Creek; Nipped By P.J. Rally

There was a blip on the radar this week for the division-leading Wisp Hot Stove Baseball League team, as a last-inning rally by Pope John downed the local squad by one run Monday, 8-7. The Wisp showed that the loss was an aberration, however, by bookending a 5-0 win over Barton Mining Friday and a 13-3 thrashing of New Creek Station yesterday.

Four Wisp pitchers — starter Preston Sisler, and relievers Mark Logsdon, Darrick Lowdermilk, and Corey Carr — combined to limit Barton to just two hits in nine innings during Friday's shutout win in Lonaconing.

B.J. Halbritter, J. Hott (3) and C. Frailey; Preston Sisler, Corey Carr (4) and Michael Wolf and Scott Bass (4).

The Wisp stroked six hits, with Matthew Bass ripping a two-run single in the first inning. The visitors added one run in each of the second, fourth, and seventh stanzas en route to the win. In addition to Bass's early work, Michael Wolf doubled, Robert Stark singled twice, and Sisler added an RBI single.

Monday's outing at Bel Air Field did not turn out as hoped, although the Wisp could have easily claimed the game for its own. Pope John opened with one run in the first, but the Wisp roared back with four runs in the top of the third.

Pope John answered with a four-run tally in the bottom half of the stanza to go up 5-4, then added a run in the fourth for a 2-run advantage. Wisp surged back into the lead with a 3-run fifth inning, but a two-run Pope John rally in the bottom of the seventh knocked the local squad out of the driver's seat, and into the losing column. Two runs scored on a throwing error, a miscue made all the more painful as both runners had reached base on walks.

Chris Carr stroked a pair of singles and drove in three runs, while Wolf and Sisler cracked two singles apiece. Lowdermilk worked the first five innings on the mound before Sisler was summoned for relief duty.

The Wisp returned to form yesterday with a 10-run win over visiting New Creek. Sisler and Carr combined to hold New Creek to just three hits over five innings, as Sisler hurled the first three stanzas.

The Wisp scored twice in each of the first two innings, then exploded for nine runs in the third. New Creek scored once in each of the third, fourth, and fifth stanzas before the 10-run mercy rule was invoked after five innings of play.

Wolf stroked three singles and drove home two runs, Lowdermilk knocked in a pair on a double, and Carr singled twice for two RBI. The Wisp accumulated 10 hits in the contest.

The Wisp (11-2) hosts Ali Ghan Monday afternoon at Northern High School.

National Motorcycle, ATV Racing Series To Visit Wisp This Weekend

The Wisp at Deep Creek Mountain Resort will host the American Motorcycle Association's Grand National Cross Country (GNCC) motorcycle and all-terrain vehicle race series this Saturday and Sunday, June 29 and 30. The Wisp event will be the ninth stop in a 13-race GNCC circuit. (Details of the daily schedule, including Friday's race registration session, appear at the end of this account.)

Local motorcycle and ATV racers, amateurs and professionals, can register to compete in the Wisp races, which are expected to draw a large crowd to the McHenry area this weekend. All racers must check in at the event headquarters of competition sponsor Racer Productions, which will be located at the Garrett County Fairgrounds, for registration prior to being admitted to the Wisp.

All spectators will also be required to park at the Fairgrounds and use the complimentary shuttle service to and from the Wisp. Spectators may arrive at any time during the weekend's racing. Admission is $15 per day, which includes unlimited ski lift access.

ATVs will challenge the Wisp on Saturday. Defending GNCC champion Bill Ballance, from Kentucky, leads the pack, but his bid for a third-straight ATV title is under heavy attack from fellow Kentucky rider William Yokley and Pennsylvania's Matt Smiley. Another top 10 rider in the ATV series is Todd Knippenberg of Cumberland.

Motorcycles will race on Sunday, and California's Rodney Smith will carry the number-one plate as the defending national champion. The Team Suzuki rider has won titles all over the world, but two newcomers, Washington's Jason Raines and New Jersey native Mike Lafferty, are threatening to strip him of his championship this year.

Raines and Lafferty have utilized intense new training programs to boost them to the top of the series standings. Smith, meanwhile, needs to put on a late-season charge to make up for blowing an engine in Georgia several months ago. Shane Watts, the Australian who won the 2000 GNCC Title, will also be gunning for a win after missing several races with a broken wrist.

The GNCC circuit began in Florida and will conclude this fall in Indiana. "The GNCC is America's premier off-road racing series," a Racer Production spokesperson said. "One of the most physically demanding sports in the world, the nearly three-hour long cross-country races lead as many as 1,000 riders through tracks ranging from eight to twelve miles in length. With varied terrain including hills, mud, dirt, rocks, and motocross sections, GNCC races are tests of both survival and speed. The best pro racers in the nation compete in the GNCC series, as well as hundreds of amateur competitors in classes for all age and skill levels."

The weekend's slate is as follows:

●Friday: 9 a.m. — ATV and youth bike gates open at the Fairgrounds; noon — ATV and youth bike racer registration gets under way at the Fairgrounds.

●Saturday: 8 a.m. — ATV and youth bike registration takes place at the Fairgrounds; 10 a.m. — ATV novice, utility, four-stroke stock, and women's racing gets under way at the Wisp; 1 p.m. — ATV pro, and A & B racing begins at the Wisp; 2 p.m. — bike registration gets under way at the Fairgrounds; 4 p.m. — youth bike racing begins.

●Sunday: 8 a.m. — Bike registration opens at Fairgrounds; 10 a.m. — senior, women, and novice racing gets under way at the Wisp; 1 p.m. — pro, and A & B racing starts at the Wisp.

For more information, persons may call Racer Productions at 304-284-0084, or log on to www.gncc racinc.-com.

Area Speedway Review

INTERSTATE 79
by Cheryl Baker-Staslak

"Kentucky Invader" David McWilliams made his first visit to Interstate 79 Speedway on Friday evening pay as he picked up the Racersmate AMRA Road Warrior Tour. He will make his way back to Union $1,000 richer, as he led the event from the drop of the green after starting on the pole. Originally Danny Dean was scheduled to start on the pole, but motor problems forced him to start at the rear. Dave Groves pulled to McWilliams's bumper several times during the 30-lap event, but settled for second, while Deck Defibaugh came from 12th to finish third. Joe Cox and Rick Walker were fourth and fifth. Danny Dean was fast qualifier with a 17.761.

Paul Wihnoth Jr. picked up his second win, number two in the Late Model division. Wilmoth easily pulled away. Butch McGill, Frank Wilson, Mike Benedum, and Gary Dalton traded positions several times before finishing second through fifth. Corey Conley was the Timberwolf Hard Charger.

It was win number three for Steve Wilmoth in the Semi Lates. M.T. Hall, Mike Hawkins, Charlie George, and Jeff Kesling rounded out the top five.

The Pennsylvania Posse prevailed once again in the pure stocks as John Redshaw picked up his third win. He was followed by Jim Byers, Jim Bendishaw, Joe Loudin, and newcomer Jim Cochran.

ROARING KNOB
by Donna Butler

Nick Jones took top honors in the Fayette Tire Late Model portion of Saturday evening's Tri-State Shootout program at Roaring Knob Raceway. Jim Bendishaw Jr., Mike Hay, Dave Gabbert, and Jim Crossland also visited victory lane during the five-division event.

The Fayette Tire Late Model event saw Jones, from fourth on the starting grid, split the front row at the drop of the green. From that point, he never looked back. Sammy Stile was fast right off the hauler in his first visit to the raceway in 2002. Polesitter Stile raced door to door with Gary Tonkery, Doug Horton, and Lynn Geisler for second until mechanical woes forced him pitside on the 19th circuit. Although Jones led every lap in taking his third win, the rest of the top five put on a fine display of driving skill. Jones pocketed the $2,000 winner's share for the 40-lap event, with Gary Tonkery, Lynn Geisler, Gary Dalton, and Jeff Ferguson following. Only 2 cautions marred the otherwise flawless feature.

Jim Bendishaw Jr. took his fourth of the year in a wild and woolly Caney Valley Sport and Marine Hot Stock feature. Polesitter Bendishaw and fellow front row starter Steve Huggins set the pace. Bendishaw took control on the first lap, but Huggins kept applying pressure and slipped by on the ninth circuit to take the point. A lap 14 incident sent Huggins to the tail, allowing Jim Byers a shot at the leader. Bendishaw would prevail, followed by Byers, Sam King, and Scott Spade. Fifteenth starter Curt Hager turned in a fine fifth-place showing.

Mike Hay visited victory lane for the fourth time in 2002. He took charge on lap six of the VitaLink-QCOL Classic Lites feature and proceeded to pull away. Following Hay to the stripe were Tim Jackson, Rod Jones, Lynn Knepper, and Frankie Dunkle.

The Fort Necessity Garage Modified Four Cylinders saw polesitter Dave Summers break on lap two, handing the top spot to Dave Gabbert. Hard-charging Louie Orris grabbed the point on the 10th circuit, but a lap 11 incident took Orris from contention, giving Gabbert the lead once more. Gabbert held on for his first win, followed by Sonny Crayton, Frank Spade, Rich Fazenbaker, and Gene Gindlesperger.

Jim Crossland took his first in the Fort Necessity Garage Four Cylinder Stocks. Ike McCleary finished second, followed by Marty Spade, Mark Peck, and Bob Miller.

Roaring Knob will return to action this Saturday, June 29, with Stone House Restaurant's Autograph Night. In addition to the big five division racing program, fans of all ages will have the opportunity to see their favorite cars and stars up close. General admission is only $10. Youngsters 12 and under will be admitted free.

Roaring Knob Raceway Park is located two miles west of the Youghiogheny Lake, just off Route 40 along Fearer Road. The gates open at 5 p.m., warm ups go trackside at 7 p.m., and racing action begins at 7:30 p.m. For more information, please call the raceway office at 724-329-0306 or 724-329-8196, or visit www.roaringknob.com on the Web.

Knob Notes — Once more, we mourn the loss of a member of the racing community. Dwane Shultz of Meyersdale, Pa., a regular at Roaring Knob in the Fayette Tire Late Model division, lost his life Friday evening during a Late Model race in Cumberland. The Late Model drivers traveled throughout the facility during intermission collecting funds for the Shultz family. Heartfelt prayers and condolences go out to the Shultz family from the staff, management, fans, and competitors at Roaring Knob.

Sailboat Racing On Deep Creek Lake

LIGHT AIR CHALLENGES SAILORS
by Dan Muss

On Saturday the winds were very light and out of the southwest...sometimes. Race Commander Dave Bertsch set a reasonable course out in the middle of the lake where the wind seemed most reliable, but it seemed we went from a beat to a reach on every leg of the course.

My fearless crew was busy elsewhere, and Sue Case did yeoman service in her stead. We got off to a good start, and had a lead of about 50 yards around two marks when we sailed into a complete dead spot. We watched in agony as the wind came up behind us and the rest of C Fleet came barreling down. We finished out of the money.

Ray Miller told me that his skipper, Darlene Miller, was also out in front of B Fleet when their boom vang broke. He was able to jury-rig a fix, but they had lost concentration and thus position. When I heard this story, I wondered why Darlene and Ray had the vang on so tight (in light air) that it broke. In fact, the boom on the Flying Scot is so heavy that, in very light air, some skippers will try to lift up on the boom to prevent the top batten on the main from hooking in.

Remember — in light air everything should be eased. Sailing close-hauled, the boom should be out over the quarter and the top battens of main and jib out a bit. The main and jib halyards should not be as tight as for heavy air, and the main outhaul should be only snug.

Another bit of advice for light air is that, after you get the spinnaker up and drawing going downwind, have your crew drop the jib. It doesn't have to be pulled all the way down so the crew can pull it most of the way down without having to climb up onto the deck. Just remember to put it back up before you take the spinnaker down.

On Sunday we left the mooring with about 30 minutes to get to the starting line. The winds were so light we were still a few hundred yards away when we heard three horns, which is the signal for abandonment of the race. Most of the sailboats were towed back in by kind motorboats, and a cool drink really felt good on the deck when the sailboat was put away.

Adventure Sports Teams At Garrett Take Early Wins

Garrett College's adventure sports athletes have gotten off to a winning pace as the adventure competition season continues to unfold. Adventure competition is a rapidly growing field that pits athletes against one another, as individuals and as teams, in outdoor activities where nature proves as much of a teammate, or sometimes an opponent, as the other racers.

Garrett's whitewater freestyle team, coached by assistant AVS professor Steve Storck, has set a winning pace so far this season. Members of this year's team are Matt Acenowr, Troy and Travis Buckel, Nate Calhoun, Lucas Germano, and Shanna Powell.

The Garrett athletes took two first places and one second place in April's "Styrofoam Cup" race on North Carolina's Nantahala River. Powell placed first in the women's race, Calhoun placed first in the junior expert, and Troy Buckel placed second in the men's sport division.

The following week at the Stony Creek Race Rendezvous at Johnstown, Pa., Calhoun took second place in men's expert, Powell took second place in the women's race, and Acenowr took third place in men's novice.

At the Rolling Rodeo of the Cheat River Festival in early May, Calhoun took another first place in the men's expert race. Other competitions for the team were the Tim Gavin Race at Harper's Ferry in May, where Calhoun came in second in men's sport and Troy Buckel came in third; and the Potomac Festival in June where Calhoun finished seventh in men's expert, Troy Buckel finished second in men's sport, and Travis Buckel finished ninth in men's sport.

In addition to the whitewater freestyle team's competition, GCC adjunct professor of therapeutic recreation Amy Dingel competed in the U.S. Wildwater Team qualifiers. She finished third, making the team.

The GCC Orienteering team of Kris Gregory, Erin Neil, and Carl Hetrick competed in its first team event at the Michaus Memorial Day Weekend event, where they took tenth place in the 12-hour competition. Gregory intends to continue developing this team for students at Frostburg State University, where he is transferring this year, and at Garrett College.

NG FISHING RODEO HOOKS FISH AND FUN — These young anglers were among the top competitors in the New Germany State Park fishing rodeo, which was hosted by the Friends of New Germany volunteer group recently at the park's lake. The annual event drew 45 young participants, some of whom reeled in some of the largest fish ever landed in the rodeo's history. Shown above at the left is 10-year-old William Gibbs, who took his age category with this whopping 18-inch largemouth bass. At the right is 4-year-old Heather Frazee, shown with Danielle Frazee, as they hold her 13½-inch catfish, tops in her age group. Pictured below are the winners in each age category: from the left are Frazee; Jarrett Wolf, 7, who reeled in an 11 1/8-inch rainbow trout; Gibbs; James Dowden, 12, who caught a 13 7/8-inch catfish; and Jimmy Tichnell, 14, who hooked a 14 3/4-inch largemouth bass. The Department of Natural Resources Fisheries Service stocked the New Germany lake with over 2,000 fish in the days prior to the event.

Garrett's Spring Turkey Kill Tops Maryland's Tally

Hunters in Garrett County killed 471 wild turkeys during the spring turkey hunt, the highest tally in the state. The statewide kill totaled 3,030, the second highest harvest to date, and lightly fewer than the previous year's record of 3,075. Rounding out the top five counties for turkey kills were Allegany at 323, Dorchester with 315, Washington at 278, and Worcester's 277.

Wild turkeys and turkey hunting both have a long tradition in western Maryland, which had provided the only turkey hunting opportunities in the state prior to DNR's successful trap and transplant program. While the turkey population in western Maryland is quite stable, the kill numbers fluctuate from year-to-year depending on poult production and weather. Despite accounting for the highest figure in the state, Garrett's kill tally of this past spring was the county's lowest figure in at least seven years.

"Wild turkey populations have been expanding across many parts of the state," Department of Natural Resources Secretary Charles Fox commented. "Just 25 years ago, the sight of wild turkeys outside of western Maryland was a rarity. Today this magnificent bird inhabits every part of the state and is increasingly abundant in most counties."

The number of spring turkey hunters in Maryland had been increasing steadily until recently, stabilizing at approximately 13,000. Collectively, these hunters spend over 60,000 days in the field pursuing the gobblers. Spring harvest continues to increase in areas where turkey populations were established through the trap and relocation program. Turkey populations in southern Maryland and the lower Eastern Shore continue to increase as turkeys expand into new territories.

County Native Working For Top ARCA Pit Crew

Oakland native Jeremy Murphy has been selected for one of the top pit crews on the ARCA (Automobile Racing Club of America) racing circuit, as he has joined the organization of multiple-champion Frank Kimmell, based in Indiana. Kimmell drives a red #46 entry in the ARCA circuit, and he and his pit crew, including Murphy, will be among the competitors in a previously run Toledo, Ohio, race from this past weekend that will be broadcast at noon this Sunday's on cable's Outdoor Channel.

A 2000 graduate of Southern High School, Murphy raced go-carts himself in the tri-state area for several years, taking most of his competitions. After graduating from SHS, he was accepted by the Robert Bounds Racing School in North Carolina, where he learned how to build and repair race cars, and operate as a pit crew team member, among many other racing-related skills.

After completing the Bounds training regimen, Murphy joined the ARCA race team of Norm Benning (#84), as a member of the Pennsylvania-based racer's pit crew. Later he moved on to join the organization of longtime ARCA racing veteran James Hylton, based in South Carolina, working the pit crews of drivers Donnie Morelock and Kevin Belmont. Since teaming up with Kimmell's pit crew, Murphy has visited the winner's circle at least once, at the Kentucky Speedway.

Murphy is the son of Randy and Mona Murphy of Oakland, and the grandson of Harold and Deloris Murphy of Mtn. Lake Park.

Local Golfers Compete In Jr. Tour At OGC

The Top Flite Junior Golf Tour visited the Oakland Golf Club recently, and several local youth golfers were among the 80-plus competitors who took part in the local event. The tour circuit, open to boys and girls up to the age of 18, consists of 16 stops with all but the Oakland event taking place in West Virginia.

The following local competitors turned in these respective scores on the day: Matt Skidmore, 76; Nathan Swartzentruber, 77; Travis Friend, 78; Natalie Winter, 92; Ivan Stutzman, 105; Josh Lear, 108; and Logan Craig, 129.

Competitors receive points based on their performance at each of the 16 events, and are ranked according to age groups. The tour will culminate with a championship tourney set for Thursday, Aug. 8, at the Greenbriar Resort in West Virginia.

Women Golfers Report Round-Up Of Recent Play

The Oakland Women's Golf Association has submitted the results of several different competitions played over recent weeks.

Three teams came out winners in a scramble played on May 30 by the lady golfers. Taking first place with a score of 73 were Janice Metheny, Debbie Weissgerber, Karon Schnably, and Jessie Stowell. Carding a 74, good for second place, was Marianna Naylor, Shirley Leonhardt, Carolyn Deverse, and June Bray. Finishing third with a 75 were Cheryl Albert, Anne Jesnak, Ruth Kight, and Loretta Purnell.

The women played a round of "remorseful golf" on June 12, with each team composed of an A, B, C, and D player. Loretta Purnell won first place with a score of 42, Pat Filsinger's 44 landed her in second place, and the third place winner was Sherry Grant with a 46.

The players met on June 20 for a scramble, followed by a luncheon and gift exchange as they celebrated the first day of summer. The winning team with a score of 71 was Metheny, Sandy Bello, Fran Bell, and Weissgerber. The second place team, scoring 72, was Filsinger, Stowell, Marion Boehmer, and Jane Frawley. Tying for third with a score of 75 were June Bray, Naylor, Peg Farano, and Ruth Kight. Closest to the pin winners were Weissgerber, Filsinger, and Boehmer.

wasn't a fence." Buser told the commissioners that the escapees' counselor only pursued them to the center's property line because he feared for the one remaining counselor's safety. She said only one counselor was assigned for 10 to 15 youths. Buser suggested that more supervisors be hired and that the youths be shackled during transport.

"We're fooling ourselves if we think this will be the end of it," Buser said. She cited 16 escapes from Garrett and Allegany county youth centers in the last two years, noting that some youths at centers are violent, repeat offenders. "I'm not here to blame the judges, state's attorney, or the Department of Juvenile Justice," she added. "I'm sure they're doing the best job they can do."

In addition to Backbone, Meadow Mountain and Savage Mountain youth centers are located in Garrett County. Approximately 160 youths are housed in youth centers in western Maryland, according to Schroyer, who is headquartered in Cumberland. He attended the meeting with Buser and the commissioners.

"I want to publicly apologize for Mrs. Buser's ordeal," said Schroyer. He said that some escapes from centers are to be expected, but he quickly added that "even three is too many." He noted that escapes were actually down from 1997, when there were 100.

Schroyer said the state mandates that young offenders go through the DJJ. Under its jurisdiction, he said, youths are evaluated, and only nonviolent, first-time offenders are sent to youth centers. He said his department tailors a program for each youth, requiring that he or she meet certain goals before being released. "But when a judge commits youths to where [he or she] wants them to go," Schroyer said, "we have no option but to take them."

The superintendent said installing fencing around the center may actually cause more problems than it solves. He said fencing could imply a high-security facility, and that judges may be inclined to send more "high-profile" offenders to Backbone. "The fence could work," he said, "if we could keep the same caliber of youth."

"Is there something as a community we can do," asked Lisa Thayer Welch, Garrett County state's attorney, "to make the centers more secure, assist the DJJ, and educate the judges about our community?"

Schroyer said advisory groups for each of the county youth centers would be formed. The groups should be made up of residents near the centers, he said, suggesting that Thayer Welch and Buser be on one or all of the groups. He added that staff members were also receiving more training.

"I don't want you to put all the youths in the same boat," Schroyer added. He noted that some youths have joined the military and attended colleges, and most perform numerous hours of community service.

The commissioners indicated that they would send a letter to Kennedy Townsend. "We want to convey the message that there is a sense of apprehension," said Commissioner Ernie Gregg. He added that the letter should request that the department do "whatever it takes to provide security" in the county.

Buser said she wished the youths well and hoped that they could be rehabilitated. They apologized and asked for her forgiveness at their trials, she said. "I forgave them," she said, "but I cannot forget what they took from me — my sense of security."

Two of the youths were sentenced last month to the Department of Corrections for a variety of charges. Devon Lorenzo Adams received three concurrent sentences of 12 years each for first-degree assault, second-degree burglary, and attempted carjacking, and a concurrent sentence of two years for second-degree assault.

Andre Elverton McLean was sentenced to three concurrent terms of 12 years for second-degree burglary, attempted carjacking, first degree burglary, and to two concurrent sentences of one year for attempted motor vehicle theft and reckless endangerment.

The third defendant appeared in Juvenile Court for the initial escape charge. No additional charges were filed against him, since he did not approach Buser's vehicle or raise any weapons against her.

the Garrett College auditorium.

CHARACTERS AND PERFORMERS

The Maryland Humanities Council's Chautauqua 2002 examines the Gilded Age and Progressive Era through the eyes of Ida B. Wells-Barnett, Emma Goldman, H.L. Mencken, and Theodore Roosevelt.

Ida B. Wells-Barnett (1862-1931) was an African-American journalist and reformer who campaigned against lynching. She was active in the suffrage movement and a founding member of the NAACP. Outraged by the lynching of three Memphis businessmen, she launched a newspaper crusade against this ruthless means of intimidation. This crusade took her to the White House and to England. She urged African-Americans to leave Memphis, and more than 2,000 responded by moving to Kansas and Oklahoma. Wells-Barnett was one of the most outspoken African-American leaders, and she often expressed ideas and opinions that shocked even her fellow advocates of reform.

Ida B. Wells-Barnett is portrayed by Brucella Jordan, who has taught African American history at several colleges and is the co-founder of the African-American Heritage Family Tree Museum in Ansted, W.Va. In addition to Ida B. Wells-Barnett, she portrays Anne Spencer.

Emma Goldman (1869-1940) was an influential anarchist and an outspoken advocate of free speech, women's equality, union organization, and the eight-hour workday. A Lithuanian immigrant, Goldman condemned both the Spanish-American and First World wars as conflicts promoted by capitalist imperialists, and went to jail for her opposition to conscription. During the "Red Scare" after World War I, she was deported to Russia. Later she lived in Canada, where she continued her activism until her death at age 71.

Emma Goldman is portrayed by Sally Ann Drucker, who teaches in the Department of English at Nassau Community College in Garden City, N.Y. She has also performed as 19th century feminist and abolitionist Frances Wright.

H.L. Mencken (1880-1956) was a journalist, essayist, linguist, lexicographer, and critic. Known as the "Sage of Baltimore," Mencken worked at the Baltimore Sun and edited the American Mercury. His editorials and essays criticized reformers and many of the problems they sought to change.

H.L. Mencken is portrayed by John C. (Chuck) Chalberg, who is a professional historian, actor, and Fulbright lecturer. He has appeared at Chautauquas across the country as H.L. Mencken, G.K. Chesterton, Branch Rickey, and Theodore Roosevelt.

Theodore Roosevelt (1858-1919) was the first of the Progressive presidents who helped transform the nature of the federal government and the presidency itself. Although he was from a New York merchant family, he saw himself as a steward for all Americans and not just his wealthy peers. Unlike his Gilded Age predecessors, Roosevelt played an active role in policy making. He was also a writer, historian, explorer, soldier, and conservationist.

Theodore Roosevelt is portrayed by Doug Mishler, who is active on the Chautauqua circuit, for which he performs as Theodore Roosevelt, P.T. Barnum, Andrew Carnegie, Henry Ford, William Lloyd Garrison, and Ernie Pyle. He has taught history at two universities and has written a history of the Ringling Brothers Circus.

HISTORY OF CHAUTAUQUA

Chautauqua (shuh-tawkwa) was named for the Chautauqua Lake area of New York state. The Chautauqua movement began there in 1874 as a training course for Sunday school teachers. In 1878 the concept extended its philosophy of adult education to include an appreciation for the arts and humanities through the Chautauqua Literary and Scientific Circle. Home study courses in history, art, literature, foreign languages, the classics, and music theory reached some 80,000 Americans in the program's first decade.

Independent Chautauquas went on the road in about 1904 giving "circuit shows," as part of the Lyceum movement. Lyceums brought lecturers and entertainers to town, especially in the summer when travel was easier. The Chautauquas offered a variety of arrangements, from seven days of programs for the larger, wealthier towns to two- and three-day "quickies," which the smallest of towns could afford.

In its early years, traveling Chautauquas offered lectures by Biblical historians, political theorists, and teachers of foreign languages, as well as dozens of programs to help people improve their skills and sharpen their minds. Many congressmen, judges, and even presidents traveled the circuit, talking about women's suffrage, the plight of the poor in the slums of the cities, and the need for patriotism.

Perhaps the most famous Chautauquan was William Jennings Bryan, who gave one speech, "The Prince of Peace," more than 3,000 times on the Chautauqua trail. He is also the man who successfully prosecuted school teacher John Scopes for teaching evolution. His opponent, Clarence Darrow, the famous lawyer, also traveled the Chautauqua circuits.

During World War I, President Woodrow Wilson called Chautauqua a major contributor to the war effort. At that time, Chautauqua brought military bands, wounded soldiers to tell their stories, and singers of patriotic songs.

Increased mobility, radio, the talking pictures, and a change in the national attitude all contributed to Chautauqua's demise. By the 1930s, Chautauquas were gone.

Since 1976 Chautauqua has been a humanities program in which scholars assume the character of historical figures. When the modern Chautauqua movement was revived in the late 1970s in North Dakota, it borrowed the idea of a dialogue between historical figures from Steve Allen's Meeting of the Minds. It was also influenced by Hal Holbrook's dramatic monologues in the character of Samuel Clemens.

As a humanities program, the first-person historical characterization meets three criteria. First, the scholar presents a monologue based on the biography, the ideas, and the writings of his/her character, with emphasis on history and intellectual exploration. The Chautauquan takes audience questions in character. The scholar answers the questions using the ideas and, if possible, the actual language of the historical character. At the end of the program the scholar comes out of character to provide historical context and to take more questions from the audience.

In Maryland, the Chautauqua tradition dates to when Chautauquas took place in 1891 at Glen Echo Park in Montgomery County, and at the turn of the century at Mountain Lake Park and in Rising Sun, Cecil County. The Maryland Humanities Council's Chautauqua began in 1995 at Garrett College and has expanded to include productions at the College of Southern Maryland, Chesapeake College, Cecil Community College, and Montgomery College-Germantown.

"The Maryland Humanities Council brings the Chautauqua experience full circle, back to the communities in Maryland that debuted Chautauqua a century ago," said Dr. Margaret R. Burke, executive director of the Maryland Humanities Council.

Thayer Welch In Race For State's Attorney Office

Lisa Thayer Welch has announced her candidacy for re-election to a second term as Garrett County state's attorney. The lifelong Republican was originally appointed to the position in 1996, when then state's attorney James L. Sherbin was sworn in as the county's current Circuit Court judge.

"I am deeply concerned about the extent of drug usage in our community, the future of our young people, and the safety and security of persons and their property," Welch stated. "I want to continue to provide to the people of Garrett County the honesty, hard work, and integrity they deserve in their state's attorney."

A 1978 graduate of Southern High School, Welch attended Washington & Jefferson College in Washington, Pa., and graduated with a bachelor of arts degree in 1982. She then attended law school at Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland, graduating with honors in 1985 with a juris doctor degree.

Welch accepted a position as assistant state's attorney in Nov. 1987. While serving in that part-time capacity, Welch was also appointed an assistant attorney general with the Garrett County Department of Social Services, Bureau of Support Enforcement. She was awarded the Child Support Administration's 1993 Prosecutor of the Year Award for the state of Maryland. Her involvement in this field continues as she welcomes referrals from the Bureau of Support Enforcement for the criminal prosecution of parents who fail to support their minor children.

As state's attorney, Welch instituted a successful Victim/Witness Program, designed to assist victims of, and witnesses to, crimes through the legal process and court proceedings.

The Adult Community Service Program continues to grow. With more than 500 participants this past fiscal year performing services valued at almost $50,000, it has been deemed a successful alternative to incarceration and prosecution by the courts, government agencies, and civic organizations that participate.

In addition to the continued success of programs and policies currently in place in her office, Welch has two goals for her next term. The first is the establishment of a Child Advocacy Center by those agencies committed to the health and safety of children. "There has been preliminary discussion and investigation by Social Services and law enforcement personnel into the potential for such a center in Garrett County," she stated. "It would really concentrate our resources to gather evidence for child abuse cases in a way that does not further traumatize the victim."

Welch's second goal is to partner with the Garrett County Board of Education and the Department of Juvenile Justice to institute a Truancy Prevention Program. "Whether the problem is the parent, the child, or some outside influence, there has to be a way to reduce both the truancy and drop-out rates in Garrett County. In the past few years, we have successfully prosecuted parents for not assuring their children attend school and worked within the Juvenile Justice system to keep at-risk kids in school," Welch explained.

To address domestic violence, Welch became a founding member of the Family Violence Coalition, and is currently serving a second term as coalition chairperson. She works with the Child Fatality Review Team, the Zero Tolerance for Underage Drinking Committee, and the Tobacco-Free Coalition. She also assists Garrett County Sheriff's Office personnel in presenting information for the Reality Program.

She is the chairman of the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force advisory board, noting that "the officers with this unit continue to seize increased quantities of virtually every illegal substance. This causes an increasing number of court cases that involve complex search and seizure issues." In recognition of her efforts on a number of drug cases handled by the Task Force, Welch was awarded a Maryland State Police Certificate of Recognition in 1992.

Welch also continues to serve as the chairperson of the Garrett Bureau of Investigation and the lead coordinator for the HotSpot Initiative in Grantsville. The elements of this last program have been so successful that Grantsville is now considered one of the state's "Hope Communities," making local agencies eligible for additional funding for projects such as the Grantsville After-School Program.

While working as a prosecutor, Welch has received specialized training through the National College of District Attorneys, attending courses in Child Abuse and Exploitation, Evidence for Prosecutors, Prosecuting Homicide Cases, and Prosecuting Drug Cases. She has also attended Northwestern University School of Law's Short Course for Prosecutors as well as numerous seminars on topics related to office management, domestic violence, child abuse, asset forfeiture, and drug violations.

Welch is a member of the Garrett County and Maryland State bar associations, the Maryland State's Attorneys' Association, and the National District Attorneys' Association.

Locally, Welch has been very active in a variety of community and civic organizations, including the Southern Garrett Republican Women, the League of Women Voters, the United Way of Garrett County, the Southern High School Alumni Association, the Garrett Choral Society, and St. Matthew's Episcopal Church. In 1995 the Garrett County Business and Professional Women's Club named her as its Woman of the Year.

Welch served three years as president of the management board for the Garrett County Branch of Big Brothers Big Sisters of the Alleghenies and an additional five years on the board. She remains a volunteer for the organization as a Lunch Buddy at Dennett Road Elementary School.

Welch resides outside the Oakland area with her husband Denver and their daughter.

Opel Announces Candidacy For Commissioner

Bruce B. Opel, Long Stretch, has filed as a candidate in the race for Garrett County commissioner, District 2.

"I come from a long line of Garrett County families and I have been a successful businessman for over 22 years," Opel stated in his announcement. "I have operated Opel's Disposal and Opel's Storage. I am licensed for and operate a salvage yard, and am the owner of Opel's Auto Sales and numerous rental properties. I also farm."

Opel is a graduate of Northern High School. He has served in a number of county and civic organizations, including 12 years on the Liquor Control Board (including three years as chairman), 14 years on the Garrett County Central Committee, and 12 years of involvement in the Democratic Club.

The candidate is a past member of Operators Local #37 and of the Labor Union. He is a member of the Grantsville Sportsmen's Club, the Grantsville American Legion, the Salisbury VFW, and the Cresaptown Fraternal Order of the Eagles. He attends the Assembly of God church. In community activities, Opel has coached youth football and wrestling.

"I have always had the interest of the people of Garrett County at heart. I am one person who has always given straight answers to anyone on any issue," Opel said. "I believe that the people of Garrett County need to know what is going on in an open forum and not from behind closed doors. I believe everyone's opinions are important, and I will listen to them and weigh the opinions of others.

"I am a hard-working person and enjoy meeting people," the candidate continued. "We need to have an open government and person-to-person government. I will not fail the people of Garrett County. I will work for your interest and gain your trust. The road I want to take to the future of Garrett is one of trust, and I will give you that to the fullest, I promise.

"Those who know me know that when there is a problem, there is also a bottom line, which is where I would start, and together work to bring a reasonable solution to the problem that is shared by us all."

big for them can cause serious problems."

The American Academy of Pediatrics recommends children under 16 should not operate an ATV, as operators under 16 are four times more likely than those over 16 to experience an injury requiring emergency room treatment. In 1999 nationwide, youth under 16 represented 34 percent of all ATV-related emergency department visits.

Statistics show that wearing a helmet reduces the risk of fatal head injury by 42 percent and the risk of non-fatal head injury by 64 percent. The helmet should also provide face protection. Other recommended riding gear includes a long sleeve shirt, long pants, goggles (or a face shield on the helmet), boots and gloves.

Experts also report that carrying passengers can also be dangerous. Controlling an ATV requires the driver to shift his or her weight. The addition of a rider throws off that balance and can cause the driver to lose control.

The ATV Safety Institute, a non-profit division of the Specialty Vehicle Institute of America, was formed in 1988 to implement an expanded national program of ATV safety education and awareness. The institute offers a half-day ATV RiderCourse, which is free to anyone who purchases a new ATV. Students practice safety techniques, with hands-on exercises covering starting, stopping, running, negotiating hills, emergency stopping and swerving, and riding over obstacles. RiderCourse classes take place in this area in Cumberland and Fairmont, W.Va. For more information about trainings, persons may call 1-800-887-2887.

The ATV safety project was made possible by a grant from the Maryland Office of Injury and Disability Prevention to the Garrett County Health Department Injury Prevention Program.

Adventure Sports Program Stretches Minds, Bodies, And Opportunities

by Joan Crawford

Ten years ago when Garrett Community College sponsored the United States Canoe and Kayak Team Olympic Trials on the Savage River, the college also launched the Adventure Sports program, the first academic program of its kind in the country.

As GCC president Dr. Steve Herman announced the new program a decade ago, he pointed to the natural features of Garrett County that make adventure recreation popular here and the need for individuals to be trained for employment in the fast growing industry. Two students enrolled in the program that first year, and no one could predict how many would be attracted to it in the future.

Since that time, under the leadership of program director Mike Logsdon, enrollment has grown by 35 percent each year, and a total of 77 students have received associate degrees in adventure sports. A number of graduates have continued their education at four-year colleges and universities throughout the United States, while others have found jobs in the industry and in recreation services.

Former GCC students are currently working in such capacities as coordinator of the Franklin Pierce College outdoor recreation program, director of the Howard County Conservancy, director at the Wisp Ski School, counselor at Outpost Estes Park YMCA in the Rockies, hunting guide in Montana, counselor at the Florida Keys national Boys Scouts of America camp, Adventure Sports program manager at Kawaga Boys Camp in Wisconsin, guide and climbing instructor at Seneca Rocks, instructor for Aspen Youth Alternatives in Utah, manager of Wind and Surf Shop, teacher of teens at Greenbriar River Outdoor Adventure camp, and sales representative for Precision Rafting of Friendsville.

The Adventure Sports program has received national and international recognition, and has been featured on Maryland Public Television's Maryland State of Mind, an installment of the PBS Trailside series, a documentary on NBC Europe titled Five Star Adventure, and several Voice of America radio broadcasts. It has been the subject of feature articles in the Baltimore Sun, Backpacker, Forbes magazine, and Paddler. Tag lines such as "Come to college in the great outdoors where lakes, mountains, and white water rivers become your classrooms" and "Learn to earn a living doing what you love" have attracted students from as far away as Hawaii, Alaska, and Estonia. This past year a total of 73 students were enrolled in the program — 46 from Maryland, and 27 from other states and countries.

As enrollment in the Adventure Sports program has grown, the college has added two full-time faculty, Steve Tomb and Steve Storck. The pair have been teaching most of the adventure activities courses. The quality of instruction improved with the addition of the two instructors, according to Logsdon. "The two Steves have been a tremendous asset to the program," he said. "Each one teaches in his own area of expertise, and the students are now getting more in-depth training in risk management, problem solving and making good judgments in the field. We have become much more self-sufficient now that we have minimized having to hire out instruction."

(Readers should note that Tomb resigned from his position with the college very recently, and the program is actively recruiting for candidates to fill the vacancy for professor of Adventure Sports.)

Students who enroll in the Adventure Sports program now have a choice of three areas of concentration to prepare them for future careers. They can choose from the three tracks that prepare them to work in an adventure sports business, as guides and instructors in the field, or in therapeutic recreation, a fast growing segment of the adventure sports industry. The college has received an $80,000 grant in conjunction with the Mtn. Top Mental Health Associates and the Garrett County Board of Education to provide an adventure sports-oriented therapeutic recreation program that will benefit special populations.

In addition to 54 credits of required and supporting academic courses such as natural history and leadership/group dynamics, students must complete a total of 12 Adventure Sports activities courses in an area of concentration. They choose from courses such as skiing, snowboarding, mountain biking, white water paddling, river guiding, back country living, rock climbing, wilderness first responder, SCUBA diving, sailing, and sea kayaking. Attendance at a monthly colloquium is required in the Adventure Sports program. On these occasions, a professional currently working in an adventure sports related capacity speaks to the students about career possibilities and training required. GCC's Adventure Sports program is fully articulated with Frostburg State University, where students can complete a bachelor's degree in recreation with an emphasis in adventure sports.

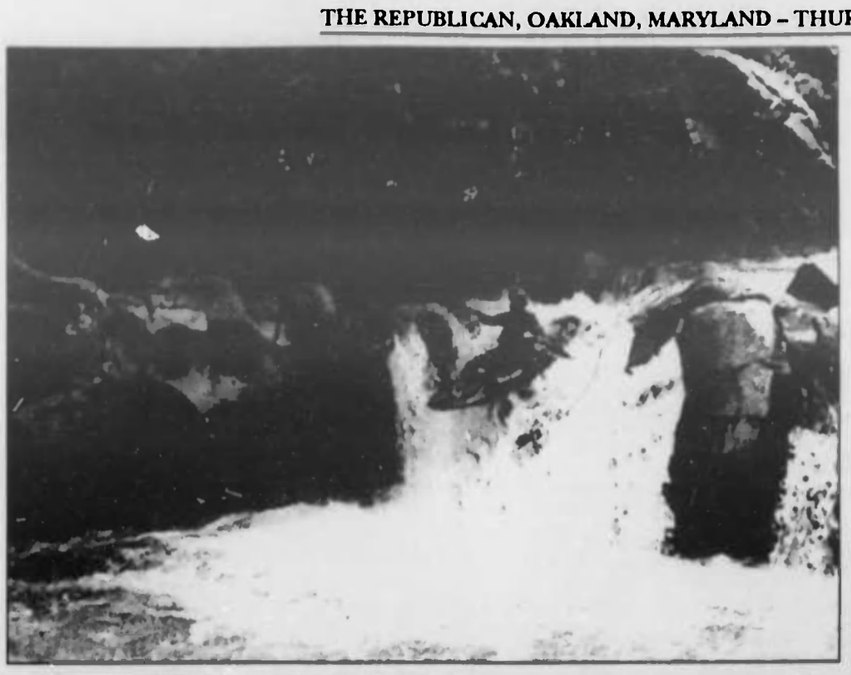
To give students practical experience and opportunities for compensation, the AVS program has established auxiliary services that also benefit local vendors. One of these is the Adventure Education Guide Service (AEGS), through which a number of Adventure Sports students teach contracted groups a variety of adventure skills. One of the first groups to contract for this service was the Sidwell Friends School in Washington, D.C. Another auxiliary service is the equipment rental program that employs students to handle rentals of equipment needed for rock climbing, paddling, mountain biking, camping, and winter sports. According to Logsdon, GCC now owns top quality equipment in everything from walkie-talkies and helmets to mountain bikes and kayaks. "The equipment rental service helps to support our guide service," he said, "and the students obtain valuable experience running a business." Josh Frick, a recent Adventure Sports graduate, is now managing the rental service.

Other opportunities for students are the competition teams for various adventure sports. GCC's adventure competition began with the ski team that competed in the intercollegiate meets with teams from much longer colleges like Penn State University, Ohio University, and West Virginia University. Today there are eight students on the white water paddling team coached by Storck that recently took two first places in the Styrofoam Cup races at Nantahala, N.C.; two second places in the Stony Creek Rendezvous at Johnstown, Pa.; a second and third place in the Tim Gavin Race Festival at Harper's Ferry, W.Va.; and a first place in the Cheat River Rolling Rodeo in West Virginia.

A mountain bike team coached by Frick competes each year in the 24-hour event at Snowshoe, W.Va. A relatively new competition team is the adventure racing team that competed last fall in three events involving climbing, biking, paddling and orienteering. In a race at Moraine State Park near Pittsburgh, the GCC team placed 14th in field of 69.

Beyond the campus and the mountains, trails, and rivers of the nearby region, Adventure Sports students have opportunities to experience other environments during the January intersession each year. In past years the January trip was a winter camping experience in the Adirondack Mountains or in Ely, Minn., where students learned to build shelters, cook food and survive in the cold climate. This year for the first time, the group went south to the tropical climate of the Everglades, where they paddled over 100 miles, carrying their food, camping equipment, and clothing in their canoes.

When asked to predict future trends for the Adventure Sports program, Logsdon replied that he expected to see more growth. "Our network of graduates working in the field will grow each year, and our enrollment and staffing will grow," he said. "The quality of our support staff is excellent so our auxiliary services can grow. In the future we want to be in a position to be of any assistance possible to the Adventure Sports International Center on Marsh Mountain."



GCC'S ADVENTURE SPORTS PROGRAM GOES WITH THE FLOW, and is blazing new trails at Garrett Community College. (Soon to be "Garrett College.") The vision and hard work of AVS program founder and director Mike Logsdon, GCC president Steve Herman, and a number of others who helped the program get off the ground 10 years ago has put the college at the front of the pack in one of the fastest-growing fields in the world. One of the main attractions of the renowned program is the high quality of hands-on instruction, as shown above by Adventure Sports faculty member Steve Storck as he plunges into an Advanced Kayaking class demonstration.

Young Readers Club Sets Picnic, Book Discussion

The summer picnic of the Ruth Enlow Library Young Readers Club is set for Thursday, July 18, from 11 a.m. until 1:30 p.m. at the Rotary Park in Oakland. All students age 9 through 11 may attend. In addition to the usual book discussion session, participants will be able to enjoy other fun activities and food outside. In the event of rain the group will meet in the Oakland library.

The Young Readers Club is a book discussion group which meets every six weeks to talk about a popular story chosen by the members. The selection for the summer picnic is the 2002 winner of the Newbery Medal, A Single Shard by Linda Sue Park. "This wonderful tale of 12th century Korea is sure to delight readers with its rich details of life in Korea during that period as well as its cast of memorable characters," said library associate Keela Pfaff.

"Tree-ear, an orphan, lives under a bridge in Ch'ulp'o, a potters' village famed for delicate celadon ware," according to the book's description. "He has become fascinated with the potter's craft; he wants nothing more than to watch master potter Min at work, and he dreams of making a pot of his own someday.

"When Min takes Tree-ear on as his helper, Tree-ear is elated — until he finds obstacles in his path: the backbreaking labor of digging and hauling clay, Min's irascible temper, and his own ignorance. But Tree-ear is determined to prove himself — even if it means taking a long, solitary journey on foot to present Min's work in the hope of a royal commission...even if it means arriving at the royal court with nothing to show but a single celadon shard."

Persons may call the Oakland library at 301-334-3996 or stop by to reserve a copy of this book and to pick up a registration form. Registration is required by Thursday, July 11. The library also offers book clubs for teenagers and adults. Persons may visit the library web site at www.relib.net for more information. All book clubs are funded in part by the Friends of the Ruth Enlow Library.

Relief for Carpal Tunnel Syndrome

Carpal tunnel syndrome may result from excessive pressure on a nerve that runs through the carpal tunnel - the area between the wrist bones and the membrane that holds these bones together. This pressure often causes numbness, tingling, or pain in the first three fingers and thumb. In severe cases a burning and/or tingling sensation may travel up the arm and into the shoulder. Pain may interfere with sleep because of the position of the hand. Fluid retention with subsequent swelling may occur. Assembly line work or any activity that involves forceful and/or repetitive wrist activity - such as typing, sewing, or using a vibrating hand tool - can cause flareups.

Prevention is the best medicine for carpal tunnel syndrome. Avoid overextending the wrist. Wrist splints, worn while sleeping can be helpful. Over-the-counter medicines such as ibuprofen can ease discomfort and reduce swelling. Injections of steroids (such as hydrocortisone) into the carpal tunnel space (but not into the nerve itself) may provide relief for 6 months or even longer in some circumstances. If pain persists or becomes severe, surgery often is the best option.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

REBELLION & REMEMBRANCE
June 30, 2002

Background Scripture:
Psalms 78:1-8
Devotional Reading:
Psalms 135:1-7

One of the revolutions that Christianity brought into the world was a different concept of history. Before he became a Christian, Augustine saw history in the classic Greek perspective: history constantly repeating itself in a cyclical fashion, without beginning or end. In this view there is nothing really new under the sun. So, much of human life was based upon the recurring cycles of nature. Life was a treadmill.

When Augustine became a Christian, however, he put together two concepts: history and prophecy. Prophets see the possibility of something new happening, a new direction taken. That is the whole basis upon which prophecy is founded: calling people to change their hearts and ways and, in the bargain, history, too. Augustine saw history, not as a cycle, but as a progression that had a beginning and was working toward an end. This progression was part of the plan and purpose of God. Life is not a treadmill but a stairway or incline that leads us upward, not in circles.

No Future Inevitable

The psalmists also believed that we can learn from history and change the future. Sacred history, the story of how God works in the affairs of both individuals and nations, was one of the most important features of Judaism. Just as the prophets did not see the future as inevitable, but that it could be changed if people changed, so the psalmists attempted to help people learn from the past and thus change the future.

The Psalmist calls the people of Israel to consider their history and what they might learn from it. They are not doomed to repeat the mistakes of the past: "...that they should not be like their fathers, a stubborn and rebellious generation... whose spirit was not faithful to God" (78:8). This is one of the abiding themes of Hebrew history: the faithlessness of the people. This is what the Psalmist means when he says: "I will utter dark sayings of old..." (v. 2b). The history of Israel was composed of good news and bad news; the unfaithfulness of their ancestors is the bad news.

What is the purpose of remembering the sins of previous generations? So that we may learn to recognize the sins of today and, recognizing them, choose to break from the cycle of sin into a better future. If we do not remember the wrongs of yesterday, we will likely perpetuate them today and tomorrow. Are we, too, "a stubborn and rebellious generation"? Can we break out of this recurring cycle of human ingratitude?

What God Has & Is Doing

There is, however, an even greater theme: the faithfulness of the Lord. This is the good news of their history and this, too, needs to be remembered. They need to recount "the glorious deeds of the Lord and his might, and the wonders which he has wrought" (v. 4). Despite the rebellions of the people against the Lord, he did not forsake them. The people had broken the covenant with God, but he kept it alive with his grace.

Retelling the mighty works of the Lord was a very important feature of Judaism and still is today: tracing the presence and action of the Lord throughout their turbulent history. The result: a profound sense of God's grace and presence. Looking back over my life, I realize now that, when I was much, much younger, I tended to take for granted the things my parents did for me and with me. Today, I am humbled to remember their grace toward me. We can only grow beyond in this what-have-you-done-for-me-lately? attitude when in remembrance we recognize it and decide our future will be different.

Crabtree Attends National Student Council Event

Brian Crabtree, a senior this fall at Southern High School, is one of 1,800 student council leaders and student activity advisers currently attending the 66th annual National Association of Student Councils (NASC) National Conference at Ocean Lakes High School in Virginia Beach, Va.

NASC, administered by the National Association of Secondary School Principals (NASSP), offers leadership training at its conferences, focusing on turning student leaders into lifelong leaders, according to a spokesperson for the event.

"It's wonderful to see young people from across the country taking leadership roles in their schools as well as their communities," said Dr. Gerald Tirozzi, NASSP executive director. "These individuals are well-trained through their NASC experiences, and we have no doubt that they will be leaders of tomorrow."

Crabtree will be trained in basic and advanced leadership, communication skills, and dealing with diversity. He will also participate in discussions on issues relevant to today's youth.

During his junior year at Southern, Crabtree was Student Council vice president. He will serve as Student Council president this fall. Crabtree is also a member of the School Improvement Team, cross country and track teams, Model United Nations Team, and the Advisory Committee on Education.

In addition to making the honor roll and distinguished honor roll, the young leader has been listed in Who's Who Among American High School Students for the past three years.

The son of Chris and Debbie of Oakland, Crabtree is an Eagle Scout and member of Troop 22. He attended Boy's State last week at Western Maryland College.

BBBS Lunch Buddy Program Seeks Mentors

Garrett County Big Brothers Big Sisters Lunch Buddy Program at Accident, Broad Ford, and Dennett Road elementary schools has been so successful that the school-based mentoring program is being expanded to Yough Glades Elementary in the 2002-2003 school year, according to local BBBS coordinator Joan L. Johnson. In the Lunch Buddy program, volunteers are matched with elementary school children who will benefit from some extra adult attention and encouragement. The volunteers come to school one day per week to share lunch, conversation, and fun activities with their Little Lunch Buddies.

Recent studies have shown mentoring to be one of, if not the single most effective, tools to address the needs of youth, and initial results from the Lunch Buddy program are impressive, said Johnson. In a survey conducted at the end of the school year, an analysis of teachers' reports on the children involved in the program indicated that 74 percent of the participating students improved in self-confidence, 54 percent improved in academic performance, 61 percent improved in attitude toward school, 59 percent showed greater trust toward their teacher, 58 percent had better relationships with adults, and 51 percent had better relationships with peers.

The Lunch Buddy program enables BBBS to serve more completely more children in Garrett County, Johnson said, as the structure and timing of the school-based match meetings offer an appealing option for many willing mentors who might not be able to serve in the traditional community-based match program. The one- hour per week meeting at the school includes eating lunch together, playing games, reading, playing on the playground, doing schoolwork, or selecting one of the other fun activities found in the Lunch Buddy box located at each school.

A volunteer survey conducted at the end of the school year confirmed that the adults enjoyed meeting with their Lunch Buddies, and felt a sense of accomplishment and fulfillment. One Big Lunch Buddy, Maury Feinstein, so enjoyed meeting with his Little Lunch Buddy that he requested the pair be given a BBBS community-based match, so that he and Zachary could get together more often and outside the school setting, and year-round.

At the conclusion of the school year, ice cream sundae socials were held for the Bigs and Littles at each of the three schools where the programs took place, and the BBBS coordinator extended the organization's thanks to board member Bill Meagher and the Lakeside Creamery for providing the ice cream. Case manager Betsy Herpel was also noted as being instrumental in the program's success.

More Lunch Buddies are sought, as the goal is to serve 50 children this year and to expand into Yough Glades Elementary. To learn more about volunteering for the Lunch Buddy or the Big Brothers Big Sister community-based program, persons may call BBBS's Johnson at 301-334-3591 or 800-400-0735.

BBBS LUNCH BUDDIES "DO LUNCH" — The first year of the new school-based Lunch Buddies Program of Garrett County Big Brothers Big Sisters was such a success, the program will expand its offering in the fall. Yough Glades Elementary School will be joining Accident, Broad Ford, and Dennett Road schools, where the midday program has already shown its potential. More Lunch Buddies are sought for the overall program, which has set a goal of serving 50 children next school year. Persons may contact local BBBS coordinator Joan Johnson at 301-334-3591 or 800-400-0735 for more information or to volunteer. Shown "doing lunch" are Big Buddy Cryatal Roberson-Boal, left, and her Little Buddy Ceaira.

Local Resident Gets B.A. Degree

A Garrett County resident was among the 457 undergraduates awarded degrees recently during Dickinson College's 229th commencement ceremony.

Rachel Elizabeth Leverenz, Accident, received a bachelor of arts degree in art and art history. A graduate of Northern High School, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Neil R. Leverenz.

Located in Carlisle, Pa., Dickinson College is private, national liberal arts college of 2,100 students. The school was chartered in Sept. 1783.

Blood Donors Asked To Show Their Patriotism

Officials with the Western Potomac Chapter American Red Cross are planning a special week of bloodmobile visits with a patriotic theme, and they're looking for people who might not have donated since last September's horrific events, but who might be able to boost the region's sagging blood supply.

Sandra House, blood services director for the local chapter, said, "Hundreds of area residents turned out in the days and weeks following 9/11 to donate blood, because they knew our nation was in danger, under attack, and in a volatile situation. A great many of those people were first-time donors and we haven't seen them since last fall, but we desperately need their support again."

Bill Crawford, executive director of the local chapter, explained that the time to donate blood is before it's needed, and that if another attack were to come today, this area may not be able to respond to the need for blood. "We're appealing to all of those patriotic citizens who stood in line to donate blood for two hours in September, only to be told that we ran out of bags and could collect no more. Well, we have the bags, there are no lines, and we're inviting those same dedicated blood donors to help us out before the next need arises," he said.

Among bloodmobiles scheduled during the July 4th holiday week is one set for Friday, July 5, at the Oakland American Legion, 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. All donors will be given a special patriotic recognition item.

To be eligible to donate blood, one must weigh at least 105 pounds, be at least 17 years of age, and be in generally good health. Persons may donate blood every 56 days (eight weeks). To find out more about donating blood, persons may call the chapter's headquarters at 301-722-1760, or 1-800-361-9481.

The Western Potomac Chapter American Red Cross serves Allegany, Garrett, and Mineral counties, and is a member agency of the United Ways of the Potomac Highlands.

What are my rights as a consumer in a competitive electricity market?

A. There are already specific regulations in place to protect your interests as a consumer.

Although the price of electricity in Maryland will no longer be regulated, the delivery of that electricity will. To help ensure safe power and continued reliable service, all electricity suppliers must be licensed by the MD Public Service Commission. Electricity suppliers cannot switch your electric service without your express permission. You can even cancel a contract with a new supplier within 10 days. An electricity supplier must also tell you the energy sources they use to generate their power, including the emission rates. And if you ask to be taken off their telemarketing list, they can't call you back. Want to know more? Give us a call or visit our web site and request your FREE Consumer Guide to Electric Choice!

"WHAT RELIEF FOR PAINFUL MUSCLES! I NEVER WANT TO BE WITHOUT THIS!"
"My husband and I recently moved to our new retirement home built in the woods. There was much work to do with the lawn and clearing more trees. While we were picking up wood, I pulled a calf muscle. Two week later I could hardly walk, but I had promised to help my mother lay some carpet and hang new curtains. I told her how painful my leg was. She handed me a tube of Mobisyl® Creme. I was willing to try anything at that point. I rubbed it in and it worked immediately. What relief! "I've tried many other products with no results. At this point I don't plan on ever being without Mobisyl. It's wonderful!"
– Rose Swank, Elmira, MI

BROWN RECEIVES MILITARY RECOGNITION — Jimmy Brown, director of Garrett County Department of Social Services, recently received an "upgraded" military support award. He had received a support award earlier this year from Secretary Ernestine Johnson, Maryland Department of Human Services. But he and Joseph D. Brantley — deputy commander of EMPOWER, 121st Engineering Battalion, Maryland National Guard, Oakland — nominated Brown for a certificate titled "My Boss is a Patriot." Brantley works full time for the Garrett County Department of Social Services as a child-support agent, under the directorship of Brown. Brantley requested that Brown's previous certificate be upgraded, stating several specific contributions and ongoing functions in which Brown had supported the participation of the National Guard. The request was submitted through the Employer Support Guard and Reserve National Committee. Brown's award will be displayed in the main room of the Garrett County Department of Social Services. Oakland Brown stands at right, at the presentation breakfast in Cumberland are retired Brigadier General Jack Brubaker of Frostburg. Brown, retired Major General and past 28th Infantry Division Commanding General Boyd Dyer, and Brantley.

Forest "Green" Certification Meeting Theme

Forest "Green" Certification is the theme for the 2002 Maryland Forest Association (MFA) annual meeting, set for October 25-26 at the Sheraton Columbia Hotel. Bill Burstad, executive vice president of the Bureau of American Forestry, and Jim Grace, state forester for Pennsylvania, will discuss their perspectives regarding certification, forestry, and the role of forestry organizations.

The Friday night banquet (Oct. 25) will feature award-winning actress Mary Wirth as keynote speaker. She is a past recipient of the Forest Resources Association Forest Activist of the Year award. The title of her talk will be "The Art of Strategic Influence."

A panel of speakers will discuss Forest Certification from a variety of perspectives, including what it costs and who benefits. Forest Certification is a global movement to encourage and reward higher standards of forestry practices and environmental performance by forestland owners. The program and speakers will feature various aspects, experiences, and considerations from national, regional, public and private, and international perspectives.

Steve Koehn, Maryland state forester, will moderate a panel composed of the above mentioned foresters, plus the Meridian Institute coordinator of the Forest Certification comparison study, the regional vice president of the Forest Landowners Association, and the vice president of export sales for Global Hardwoods. Saturday's luncheon speaker will be the editor of Certification Watch, an international monitoring organization.

Full meeting details can be found at http://mdforests.org/AM2002.htm or by contacting MFA at 301-895-5639. Pre-registration is required.

The mission of the Maryland Forests Association is to promote the maintenance of a healthy and productive forest land base, so as to enhance the economic, environmental, and social well-being of all who live in the state. MFA is a nonprofit 501(c)(3) organization, headquartered in Grantsville.

Nature Connection

NOTOPHTHALMUS VIRIDESCENS
(Average Red-Spotted Newt)

by Liz Hackwell and Ron Hover

It's early morning in June, and you're on a remote-student trail in Garrett County. In front of you in the middle of the path you see a small, bright orange insect. From a distance it looks like a child's forgotten toy dinosaur. But as you get closer it suddenly moves. It's not a plastic toy after all. It's a red eft, the "teenage" terrestrial form of the red-spotted newt (Notophthalmus viridescens).

It's actually a surprising discovery in the middle of the forest floor as this tiny salamander that literally calls attention to itself with its bright color. How could something that seems out like a sore thumb possibly survive one day without being eaten? Contrary to what one might think, its day-glo hue isn't a liability. It's actually its protection. The bright orange is called "warning coloration." Like the bright orange of the monarch butterfly, it advertises its potential predators to stay away. The message translates something like this: "Hey you, no! I'm not sure what's good for you, but I'm not even going near me for breakfast. I not only taste rotten, I'm also poisonous. Thanks to the toxic chemicals produced by my skin glands." Luckily, it will only take one unpleasant encounter for the naive bird to learn its lesson. After that, the bird will stay away from all critters with similar coloration.

Through the red eft's preferred prey is a mixture of mixed deciduous forest, its young and even the newt's very different habitat. Like all amphibians, he is born in a water environment. A moist, fern point stream pool, or a depression in a wet meadow may serve as the birthplace for a red-spotted newt. The adult newts breed from March through June. The female adult may lay an average of 300 eggs but she wraps individually in the leaves of underwater plants. The emerging larvae have tail fins to help them swim in their aquatic environment. In a few months they metamorphose into the red eft form without the tail fin and with rough skin, ranging in color from orange to red. They will wander over a half-mile from their birth pool on a journey that can last seven years. Along the way they'll eat countless invertebrates such as insects, worms, and tiny snails. When they finally return to water they will metamorphose again. As adults they will retain every bit of their bright coloration. Their base color will turn to a more camouflaged shade of olive-green to yellow brown, but they will keep their namesake red spots trimmed with black.

So if you encounter a red eft on the trail, remember the three rs: a lesson. If you're hungry don't eat it. And if you can't resist the urge to gently hold it for a few minutes, but keep your hands away from your eyes and mouth until you have a chance to wash them.

Report from the Field

Barb and George Sniffen of New Germantown are trying to confirm that a pair of nesting ponds are actually nested here. They are keeping careful watch for any sign that the adults are feeding young or visiting a nest. It's unusual for nesting ponds to breed on the Allegheny Plateau in Garrett County.

Here's that tropical 'Rainbow' from 'ER'

By Taylor Michaels
©Tribune Media Services

Anthony Edwards

Q: The "ER" episode about the death of Mark Greene (Anthony Edwards) included a lovely tropical rendition of "Somewhere Over the Rainbow." Who was the singer, and is that recording commercially available? –B. Lillo, Littleton, Colo.

A: I received dozens of queries about the music in that May 9 episode, which included this haunting ukulele performance by Hawaiian musician Israel Kamakawiwo'ole, who performs as "IZ." You'll find it on his CD entitled "Alone in IZ World," which you can order online from Amazon.com if it isn't available in your local music store.

Q: I missed the third night of "Frontier House" on PBS. Can you tell me who won? Will PBS re-air the series? –Betty Raphael via e-mail.

A: The participants signed up for the "Frontier House" project purely for the experience. There was no "game show" element, nor were any prizes awarded, says Debbie Falk, Channel Thirteen/WNET senior publicist.

However, at the end of the PBS presentation, a panel of historical experts evaluated each family's efforts in terms of whether that household likely would have survived the oncoming winter. Those extended evaluations are still online at the "Frontier House" section of the pbs.org Website.

Additionally, each family received what Falk calls "a very modest stipend" to help offset lost earnings, although that payment was identical for all families and in the case of corporate executive Gordon Clune, didn't come close to matching his normal earnings.

PBS doesn't plan another national feed at this time, but several affiliates around the country are repeating the series, many during pledge weeks.

Q: Was Tom Bosley ("Happy Days") the brother of David Doyle, who played Bosley on "Charlie's Angels"? –M.L. Hatfield, San Mateo, Calif.

A: The two actors were not related, but Doyle's character name on "Charlie's Angels" was an inside joke referring to the fact that Bosley and Doyle often were mistaken for one another.

Q: Is Simon Baker of "The Guardian" the son of the wonderful actress Kathy Baker? –K. Desmyther, Rochester, Mich.

A: No, the "Gnardian" star, 32, is a native of Australia, where he started his career as Simon Baker-Denny. He is not related at all to the Emmy-winning actress from "Picket Fences," a 52-year-old native Texan.

Mary Gibbs And Rev. "Chip" Lee Exchange Vows At St. Matthew's

Mary Kathleen Gibbs and Rev. William Forrest "Chip" Lee III, were married on June 26, 2002, at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church in Oakland. The ceremony was conducted by Rev. Robert Wilkes Ihloff, bishop of Maryland, Rev. Manning Lee Smith, rector of St. James Episcopal Church, Westernport, and Rev. Michael Robinson, pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church, Perrysville, Pa.

The bride wore a simple gown of ivory matte satin with a chapel train, and was escorted down the aisle by her brother, Edward Stone Gibbs of Wickliffe, Ohio, and her cousin, Robert Courtney Jones of Stockbridge, Mass. She was attended by her step-daughters, Shelby-Anne Mansfield Lee, Kathryn Christine Lee, and Caitlin Taylor Lee, as well as her nieces Elizabeth Shewell Gibbs, Erin Stauver Gibbs, and Julianna Elizabeth Holloway.

Michael Francis Belmonte of Swanton and Edward Alexander Holloway stood as the bridegroom's best men, with Peter Mansfield Lee, Edward Llewellyn Holloway, Robert Irvin Rudy, and Edward Stone Gibbs serving as groomsmen.

Music for the ceremony was arranged and conducted by Gerald McGee, music director of the Episcopal churches of Garrett County, and included a meditation for solo trumpet written especially for the wedding by composer Richard Proulx, a long-time friend of the bridegroom.

The bride's family has owned property in and been concerned with the affairs of Garrett County for over 100 years. She is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Shewell Gibbs, formerly of Wheeling, W.Va., and McHenry. She was educated at Mount de Chantal Academy in Wheeling and attended Stephens College in Columbia, Mo., for her baccalaureate degree, completing her formal education at the University of Charleston, W.Va., in environmental science. She is currently continuing her education as a participant in the therapeutic massage program at Garrett Community College and serves as chairman of the Conservation Committee of the Mountain Laurel Garden Club.

Rev. Lee is the oldest son of the late Dr. William Forrest Lee of Glens Falls, N.Y., and the late Mrs. Natalie Mansfield Lee, also of Glens Falls, New York. Born in Boston and raised in Saratoga Springs, N.Y., Lee completed a tour of duty in the Navy from 1967 through 1969. He was educated at Ithaca College, Ithaca, N.Y., where he received his baccalaureate degree in communications in 1971.

After a career in radio broadcasting with KING in Seattle, Wash., WOLF in Syracuse, N.Y., and KFQD in Anchorage, Alaska, he entered the Church Divinity School of the Pacific in Berkeley, Calif., and was awarded a master of divinity in 1989. He was ordained to the Episcopal priesthood in 1990 in Kemmerer, Wyo., where he served as Rector of St. James's and St. Bartholomew's Episcopal churches. He became rector of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, Oakland, and vicar of St. John's Episcopal Church, Deer Park, and Our Father's House, Altamont, in late 1992. He will mark his tenth year of ministry in Garrett County in Nov. 2002. Lee is currently completing studies for his doctor of ministry in congregationaldevelopment at Seabury-Western Theological Seminary in Chicago.

Lee serves as president of the Diocese of Maryland's Western Regional Council, and is a member of the Companion Diocese Committee to the Diocese of Accra, Ghana, Africa, for the Episcopal Diocese of Maryland. He is a member of the Oakland Rotary Club, and serves as chaplain to the McHenry Barrack of the Maryland State Police.

A reception featuring the Graham Grubb Orchestra was held at the bride's home, and a family trip is planned.

Skipper Couple To Celebrate 60th

Mr. and Mrs. Sibre B. Skipper of Paradise Point Road, Oakland, will note their 60th wedding anniversary this Saturday, June 29.

In June of 1942, Mr. Skipper came home on furlough from Fort Bliss, Texas, to marry Frances 'Geraldine" Harvey. After four days of wedded life, they were separated by World War II for the next two years and four months. Sibre served in the U.S. Army's 3rd Chemical Battalion in North Africa, Sicily, Palermo, Italy, Rome, and France.

Geraldine worked as a bookkeeper for the Garrett County Board of Education, and also at Glen L. Martin Aircraft in Baltimore. When Sibre returned to the States, the reunited couple lived in the Port of Embarkation town of Searsport, Maine, where Sibre was in charge of the Identification Office, and then the Port Security Office.

Sibre is the son of the late Rev. J.C. and Nora (Friend) Skipper. Geraldine is the daughter of the late William "Mack" and Iva (Speicher) Harvey. The Skippers have parented four children: Geraldine's younger brother and sister, Joseph Harvey and the late Vivian (Harvey) Hartman (whose mother had died during the war years); and their own two children, Dawn (Skipper) Canan and Roger A. Skipper. The Skippers are "grandparents" to nine of their nieces and nephews, as well as to their 11 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Sibre served as home building manager for Fred E. Beachy Lumber Company for many years. Since his retirement, he has devoted much time to writing the Skipper family genealogy, and to his hobby of fine woodworking. Geraldine has served her family as a homemaker since the couple returned to Garrett County when Sibre was discharged from the Army in 1945.

GCMH TO OFFER SAFE SITTER PROGRAM — Garrett County Memorial Hospital will offer Safe Sitter classes throughout the summer. Safe Sitter is a medically accurate program that teaches youths 12 to 14 years of age how to handle emergencies when caring for children. The class will also teach young adolescents safe and nurturing care and the rescue skills needed to respond appropriately to medical emergencies. "Safe Sitter training includes lots of information on childcare basics, child development, and managing behavior," said Deana Closter, GCMH Wellness coordinator. "Students learn how to take control of their charges in a positive way, what to expect — based on the age of the child — and how to make the experience positive for both the children and themselves. They also learn tips for managing the business aspects of their babysitting job." The Safe Sitter organization has strict standards for student/instructor ratios. Only six students can be enrolled in each class. Class admission will be on a first-come, first-served basis. Persons must pre-register to attend. Participants can choose to attend class on Friday, July 19, or Wednesday, August 7. Classes will be held from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. The class fee is $15. For more information, persons may call Closter at 301-533-4295.

Pictured above are the students and staff members who participated in the program. In the first row are Chuckie DeWitt, Travis Paugh, Hannah Hintz, Dougie Burton, Dylan Paugh, C.J. The quilt is on display at the Grantsville office of The Republican, and tickets may be purchased there and from any NAMI member. ## Hudnall Lawn To Be Part Of Saturday's Garden Tour

The Secret Country Gardens Tour will be held this Saturday, June 29, from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m., sponsored by the Mountain Laurel Garden Club, a member of the National Garden Clubs Inc. and the Federated Garden Clubs of Maryland Inc. Included in the five-garden tour will be the property of Harold and Betty Hudnall, who reside near Oakland.

From a passion for music to a passion for the visual art of gardening, Harold Hudnall (pictured), in retirement, has created a garden for himself and his wife that he says has "the same structure as a symphony: exposition, development, and recapitulation." Flowerbeds display geometric designs representing historical themes, accented by sculptures. Visitors will see 12 types of moss and a four-season garden featuring 400 varieties of plants, many of which are Hudnall's own personal hybrid, created in his greenhouse.

In addition to the Hudnalls' home, the gardens of the following will be included in the tour: Mark and Laura Stutzman, Bob and Elaine Brickett, Robert and Donna Paul, and Dale and Susan Baker.

Tickets for the garden tour, which will include coupons, maps, and written directions, are $5 and may be purchased in advance at Gregg's Pharmacy in Oakland and Terra Alta, W.Va., and Deep Creek Pharmacy; or, on the day of the event, at the Gazebo in Oakland, which is located at the corner of Second and Liberty streets.

Proceeds from the tour will be used by the Mountain Laurel Garden Club for the continued beautification of area communities as well as the encouragement of gardening and conservation through club activities and programs. A portion of the proceeds will be donated to the Garrett County Historical Society.

For more information, persons may contact Judy McLeod at 301-387-9015 or Kathie Smith at 301-334-3249.

Topical Treatments for Warts

Warts are small skin growths caused by viruses, specifically human papilloma viruses. Common warts generally appear on areas of the body that are frequently injured, like around the nails, knees, scalp, or face. Warts are classified by their location and shape, such as mosaic warts, which grow in clusters. Some are small, long and narrow growths that seem to pop up on the eyelids, face, and neck. Plantar warts affect the soles of the feet. Flat warts tend to affect children and young adults as smooth yellow-brown spots on the face.

Most warts are painless and may disappear without treatment after two years. Consulting a physician can be important, however, because what looks like warts might be something else - such as corns, callouses, moles, skin tags, or cancer. Applications of salicylic acid solution or lactic acid may help warts peel off faster. Physicians sometimes remove warts with liquid nitrogen or treat them with trichloroacetic acid or cantharidin. Plantar warts may be softened with strong, salicylic acid, but are difficult to eliminate. Flat warts may respond to facial peeling agents such as retinoic acid.

• It's not unusual for musical groups and music critics to butt heads in print, but they don't often get the chance to compete in person. In 1978, though, the rock group the Eagles and the staff of Rolling Stone magazine went head-to-head — in a game of softball. The rockers kicked the writers' butts.

Depression Glass

As the values of collectibles continue to increase, so, too, has the temptation of some manufacturers to market reproductions as the real McCoy. Since the 1970s, Depression glass has been widely reproduced, and it is sometimes difficult to determine the real from the unreal.

When buying Depression glass, take time to examine each piece carefully. Rub your finger on the surface. Does it feel slick or greasy? Some newer pieces have a high sodium content, often detected by a surface that seems oily. Newer glass can often have a vinegar-like odor, so give each piece the sniff test. Since color can vary from batch to batch, it alone is not a good test for authenucity.

Pay special attention to details. Do the patterns seem well-defined, and do the pieces function for the purpose that they were originally intended? For example, do the sugar bowl lids fit properly and do spouts pour as they should?

"The Guide to Fakes and Reproductions" by Mark Chervenka (Krause, $24.95) has a pattern-by-pattern guide to help collectors spot Depression glass that is counterfeit. Gene Florence is the author of at least three books about Depression glass and is considered an expert. His postal, e-mail and Web site addresses are: P.O. Box 22186, Lexington, KY 40522; gflore@aol.com, and www.geneflorence.com.

Two of the better groups for collectors are the Land of Sunshine Depression Glass Club, P.O. Box 560275, Orlando, FL 32856; and the National Depression Glass Association, P.O. Box 8264, Wichita, KS 67208.

High-Strung Dogs

Q. I have a mid-size Chihuahua, very close to me. I have a problem with him barking, especially when someone comes to the door. I've tried squirting water at him from a spray bottle, with a firm "No," but I suspect that went wrong when my teen-ager's friends thought it was a hoot and started spraying. Since then, I've tried holding his nose and saying "No," but am not having much luck. Your help would be appreciated. — D. Martin, via e-mail

A. Chihuahuas are often noted for their bark, which is out of proportion to their size. I've heard earsplitting yips from these little dogs, which can also be rather aggressive.

That aggression and incessant barking often arise out of fear on the dog's part. After all, your Chihuahua is probably the smallest living thing in the house. That alone can cause anxiety. Strangers entering the house can generate a fearful reaction, setting off the Chihuahua's first line of defense — his fearsome bark. Add a group of teen-agers who think teasing the dog is funny, and the problem is compounded.

Using a spray bottle or shaking a can full of pennies sometimes works, although this conditioning is geared toward dominant dogs. Unfortunately, your teen's friends neutralized the effect of the spray bottle — and may have created a greater sense of fear and mistrust in the dog.

Try systematic desensitization, described by Dr. Nicholas Dodman in "Dogs Behaving Badly" (Bantam Books, $23.95). After identifying the thing that causes a fearful reaction in your dog (strangers entering the house), prevent his exposure to it. Place him in a kennel cage or a room (with food and water provided) when people visit. Then, gradually reintroduce him to this environment, reducing the distance from the back room to the front door as long as he doesn't bark. Each time he gets through a stranger's entry without barking, reward him with treats and praise.

Garrett County SKIES

By Dr. Bob Doyle
Frostburg State Planetarium

THE SUN — During July daily sunlight hours slowly drop from 14.95 at the start to 14.3 at the end of the month. July opens with 5:54 a.m. sunrises and ends with 6:16 a.m. sunrises. Early July sunsets are at 8:50 p.m. while late June sunsets are at 8:33 p.m. During July the sun's mid-day heights slowly drop from 73 to 68 degrees (45 degrees is 1/2 way up while 90 degrees is directly overhead). July is usually one of the hottest months, owing to the long sunlit hours each day and the great height of the mid-day sun. Daily sunlit hours will drop to 14 hours on Aug. 8, 13 hours on Sept. 2, and 12 hours on Sept. 26.

THE MOON — July opens with a shrinking or waning moon in the morning sky. The moon is last seen at dawn on July 8 as a slender crescent low in the eastern dawn. The moon returns to the western dusk on July 12, appearing to the right of the brilliant planet Venus. The next night the crescent moon will be above Venus. The best time of the month to observe the moon's craters and mountains will be within a few days of July 16, when the moon will be about half full (like a letter "D") with the maximum amount of shadows. The moon will be fullest on the night of July 23. Just as in June, July's full moon has a low path across the night sky. This may cause this full moon to appear yellowish. (When the moon is low and there is the usual summer haze, the colors green and blue get filtered out of the moonlight, leaving the moon with a yellowish or orange hue.) In the last few days of July, the moon will be seen only after midnight.

THE BRIGHT PLANETS — Our five nearest planetary neighbors appear as points of light that shine more steadily than the twinkling night stars. But if a planet appears very close to the horizon, or if it is windy, even the planet's light may flicker. Venus will be the only evening planet in July, blazing in the western dusk. Because of its closeness, size, and highly reflective clouds, Venus outshines the brightest summer evening star by a factor of 100. In mid-July, the planet Saturn reappears low in the eastern dawn. The other three bright planets are too close to the sun to be seen in July. Jupiter will join Saturn at dawn in August. The next two planets to be seen will be the planets Mercury and Mars on October dawns.

JULY'S BEST SIGHTS — July is the best month to see the most striking zodiac star groups low in the southern evening sky. First, look for Scorpius, resembling a huge starry "J." Near the top of the "J" is the bright reddish star Antares, marking the heart of the Scorpion. To left of Scorpius is Sagittarius, whose brightest stars form an old-fashioned tea kettle. In the eastern evening sky you'll notice Vega, a very bright star that shines with a white-blue hue. Vega and the two bright stars below it form the Summer Triangle. In the north-northwest, the Big Dipper shines with its handle upright. Extend the handle outward to the bright orange star Arcturus.

JULY ASTRONOMY ACTIVITIES — There are no regularly scheduled planetarium programs during the summer months. For information on special events, call 301-687-4270, which will also give you directions on how to reach the planetarium. The Cumberland Astronomy Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. on Friday, July 19, at the LaVale Public Library. All interested sky gazers from the tri-state area are welcome.

Dr. Bob Doyle directs the planetarium at Frostburg State University. Since the mid '70s, Doyle has been writing sky columns for beginners who would like to identify the brightest stars, planets, and sights in their backyards. To ask questions or get a free brochure/map, persons may call the FSU Planetarium at 301-687-4270 and press 4. Doyle also hosts "Skywatch," a brief program on days of the week and sky sights that airs on weekday evenings just before 9 p.m. on WFWM, Frostburg State's radio station which transmits at 91.9 FM in western Garrett County and at 96.3 FM in the Oakland area. Dr. Doyle's e-mail address is rdoyle@frostburg.edu.

LONG AND FOSTER HELPS HOSPICE — The Oakland office of Long and Foster chose Hospice of Garrett County to receive the proceeds from its recent yard sale. Pictured above, from the left, are Cindy Sanders, GRI; Brenda Butcher, executive director of Hospice; and Lisa Gaither, GRI. Long and Foster donated $675 to Hospice. Butcher said "that Hospice sincerely appreciates the support of Long and Foster in helping to care for the terminally ill in Garrett County."

Expansion Of Arboretum Set At Dennett Road

The environmental committee at Dennett Road Elementary School recently announced its plans to expand its arboretum located in the front of the school. The committee was inspired by an award the school received from the Maryland State Department of Natural Resources titled PLANT (People Loving And Nurturing Trees).

The award recognizes those organizations that have made a special effort to enhance their environment through the planting of trees, flowers, and shrubs. Committee member and teaching assistant Linda Teagarden said she is excited about the plans to expand the arboretum, which will promote environmental awareness the school.

"Our classroom looks out directly onto the arboretum," she said. "Our students will be learning about planting and caring for trees and shrubs, and the resulting benefits to the environment."

Other projects planned by the group include a wetlands conservation area and bird sanctuary. "The main goal of the environmental committee is to promote the students' awareness of the benefits derived from preserving and protecting the environment," said Gary Galloway, principal.

"This kind of hands-on approach to learning is good for the students," said Jennifer Upole, teacher. "They not only learn about plants and trees, but also how to follow directions and work together as a group to complete a project."

Committee members include Galloway, Teagarden, Upole, teachers and assistants Cassandra Stewart, Kathy Ridder, Patricia Foley, Frankye Martin, Shane Roten, and M. Todd Bosley, and school custodian, Russell White.

According to Stewart, the members are searching for a student representative. Another member of the committee is Jim Simms, who is also a local agricultural extension agent. Simms has been advising the group on how and where to plant and also on the proper care of the trees and other plants in the arboretum.

The group recently issued an invitation to all the students and their families to become involved in the expansion. A letter was sent with a "wish list" of trees, shrubs, and plants the school hopes to include in the project. Some donations were received, but more will be needed for further expansion.

The committee plans to create a memory book to include the names of those who contributed to the project, along with the names of those in whose memory or honor donations were made.

"A donation to the arboretum would be a nice gift for a student or an alumnus of Dennett Road School," said Teagarden. "We hope to be able to add plaques one day that will identify the tree and its donor."

The school has received donations and/or discounted prices on materials from Green Acres Garden Center, Wal-Mart, Southern States, O.C. Cluss Lumber Co., and Danny Bosley.

For further information on the school's environmental initiative or to donate trees or plants in memory or honor of a loved one, persons are asked to call the school at 301-334-3452.

Area Deputy Fire Marshals Complete Police Academy

State Fire Marshal William E. Barnard joined other police agency heads at the Hagerstown Community College Monday morning for the graduation of the 35th class of the Western Maryland Police Academy. Barnard was on hand to present badges to area Deputy State Fire Marshals Jamie D. Rodeheaver and Jason M. Mowbray.

Rodeheaver and Mowbray were among 15 student police officers who began the 24-week training course in January. The Western Maryland Police Academy is sanctioned by the Maryland Police Training Commission and includes several hundred hours of college-level training. Among the many course subjects are criminal law, motor vehicle law, constitutional law, defensive tactics, and physical training.

DSFM Rodeheaver is 32 years old and a resident of McHenry. He is a member and past deputy fire chief of the Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company. A lifelong resident of western Maryland, Rodeheaver will conduct fire investigations and fire safety inspections in Allegany and Washington counties as well as Garrett County. On hand to pin on his badge were his wife Jill, daughter Jackie, and son Jarrod.

DSFM Mowbray is 25 years old and a resident of Barton. A graduate of Westmar High School and Allegany College, Mowbray has worked as a substitute teacher in Allegany public schools. He too will conduct fire investigations and fire safety inspections in Allegany, Garrett, and Washington counties. His fiancée, Sarah Ferrens, pinned his badge on him at Monday's ceremony.

After the graduation ceremony Fire Marshal Barnard commended Rodeheaver and Mowbray's families for their support during the last six months. Because of commute distances from their homes to the WMPA in Hagerstown, both men stayed in Hagerstown during the week. Fire Marshal Barnard said of the newest sworn members of the Office of the State Fire Marshal that they "bring a wealth of talent and training" to the Western Regional Office. They will complement the three veteran deputy state fire marshals already working in western Maryland.

Gregg Seeking Re-Election As Commissioner

Ernest I. Gregg Jr. has announced his candidacy for re-election as Garrett County commissioner. The candidate has represented District 1 on the board of commissioners since his election in the fall of 1998. Gregg, a Republican, is the board's current chairman.

"Garrett County has seen dramatic improvement under my leadership as county commissioner," said Gregg. "I welcome the opportunity to create positive change for our county and its citizens."

The candidate stated that education at all levels should be a priority. "We must work together to raise the level of educational attainment and worker training so that we are prepared to achieve growth in the twenty-first century," he said.

Another priority of Gregg's is creating more economic development opportunities in the county. "Attracting and retaining business, promoting job creation, and diversifying our economy are very important to strengthen Garrett County's economy and provide opportunities for younger generations," he said.

Gregg also stressed the importance of fiscal responsibility and planning for the county's future. "Fiscal planning will mean sensible infrastructure development maintaining and enhancing a working tax structure and careful management of land use," he said. "This relates directly to our economy and jobs."

"My overall goal is to provide good leadership to help chart the course for Garrett County now and for future generations," he said. "My priories will continue to be development of a stronger economy, higher educational attainment, better roads, and improved services for all Garrett Countians."

He added that he envisions the day when Garrett will not be considered a "distressed county." "I believe Garrett County has made significant economic progress," Gregg said, "but it will take leadership and teamwork with economic stakeholders and citizens to keep us moving forward."

Gregg, a pharmacist, is the owner of Gregg's Pharmacy and Renaissance Learning Center and Driving School. He is a resident of Mtn. Lake Park.

Yard Sale Set To Benefit Elk Garden Center

Organizers of the Neighbors Helping Neighbors project of the Elk Garden Church of God have slated a fund-raising yard sale for Saturday, July 13, beginning at 8 a.m. The sale will take place along Walnut Street, and all merchandise will be priced at 25 cents an item, with food and refreshments sold separately.

The church is spearheading the Neighbors Helping Neighbors effort in order to erect a food distribution center that will serve the greater Elk Garden community. The proposed facility will be used to distribute free food and clothing, and will house an educational area for adults taking literacy classes.

The project has received half of the donations needed to commence construction, and organizers are planning to pour the concrete for the floor in two to three weeks as they solicit the rest of the money to erect the building. "Contractors will be putting the final touches on the foundation soon," Rev. C. Paul McDonald said.

The project has been given a matching grant from a Florida-based business, which will match up to $10,000. The effort has raised $2,700 at this point.

For more information on the upcoming yard sale, or the Neighbors Helping Neighbors center persons may call McDonald at 304-790-0991.

TC Chamber Slates Workers Comp Seminar

"The Workers Compensation Division has recognized the employer community's frustration in regard to workers compensation and the lack of communication," said a spokesperson for the chamber. "The goal of the presentation is to empower employers in their own workers compensation situations through knowledge."

There is no charge for the seminar. It will last approximately two hours and is open to any and all businesses. For further information, persons may contact the Tucker County Chamber of Commerce at 304-463-4774.

Petersburg To Host Summer Railroad Camp

Twenty-four students, age 12-17, from five southeastern states will learn railroad safety first hand as they ride the rails, race antique handcars, and even engineer a mighty 80-ton diesel locomotive during a week-long Operation Lifesaver (OL) Rail Camp in Petersburg, starting July 1.

Operation Lifesaver is a national, nonprofit education and awareness program dedicated to ending collisions, fatalities, and injuries at highway-rail grade crossings and on railroad rights of way. It is administered in West Virginia by the State Public Service Commission (PSC).

"There's no other camp like this in the country; it's a first," said John Perry, a PSC railroad safety field inspector, who originated the idea for the camp three years ago. "When a young boy or girl actually powers up and 'drives' a locomotive, you can see learning — and magic — happen."

Campers will stay at Camp Echo near Petersburg, where they will receive classroom instruction from rail officials and safety experts, and then gain hands-on experience at the scenic South Branch Valley Railroad near one of West Virginia's most spectacular river settings, the South Branch of the Potomac River.

"We intend to make this a national program so kids all across the nation can participate," said Perry, who also serves as OL coordinator for the state. "The camp teaches the students the importance of rail safety from all viewpoints, so when these kids return home, they will teach others about respecting railroad safety. It all comes down to our motto, 'Look, Listen, and Live.'"

Students attend the camp free of charge, the costs paid for by various donors. Each year, four students return from the previous class to act as OL mentors for new students, and to eventually become certified instructors for OL. "There is definitely a need for public education on this topic," Perry said, "because in the year 2000, there were 11,643 casualties and 937 fatalities in rail accidents across the nation, according to preliminary statistics from the Federal Railroad Administration. In 2001, the casualties declined to 10,857, but the fatalities increased to 966. Our goal is to reduce those figures to zeroes."

Currently, 10 PSC rail safety inspectors and 40 volunteers, mostly railroad employees, take the time to present programs to state schools and civic groups warning of the dangers of rail crossings and other rail hazards. "Students from the camp will eventually join these presenters in helping to save lives all over the U.S.," Perry said.

The students are selected based partly on their grade point averages, their level of interest in railroading, and their commitment to sharing the message of rail safety to other students and student groups. Any adult can recommend a student for the camp.

Students attending this year come from West Virginia, Virginia, Kentucky, Maryland, and Florida. After only a year of its 1972 founding in Idaho, Operation Lifesaver educational efforts reduced fatalities by 43 percent in that state.

MOUNTAINEER 4-H

The Eglon Mountaineer 4-H Club members planted flowers at the Eglon Memorial Building as a community service on June 10. They then journeyed to the Mt. Grove VFD newly remodeled hall at Horse Shoe Run, where they toured the facility. They learned about the trucks, the actual functioning of the VFD, and responsibility of individual firemen. They then returned to the Eglon Memorial Building.

It was decided to give the Mt. Grove VFD a donation along with a "thank you" for the informative program and the firemen's time.

The meeting began with devotions by the Citizenship/Community Service Committee, Tracy Teets, Tyler Harsh, and Aron Lipscomb. Pledges were led bar Trevor Spaid. The secretary's report was read and roll call taken, and the treasurer reported the club's financial status. Three members are planning to attend Older 4-H Camp, July 7-12: Tracy Teets, Tyler Harsh, and Craig Rembold. Caitlin Roth and Debbie Collins plan to attend Younger 4-H Camp, set for July 21-26.

Aron Lipscomb had a talk, "What Is 4-H?" A talk, "History of Jewelry," and a demonstration, "How to Make a T-shirt Quilt," were presented by Sara Lewis.

The next meeting will be Aug. 5 at the Wildlife Park at Horse Shoe Run. Members will meet at 6:30 p.m. to pick up trash, and the Music Committee will be in charge of devotions. Each is asked to bring finger-foods for refreshments. Projects will be completed and turned in at this meeting for grading. Those who have a livestock project are reminded that the book cannot be completely finished, but Linda Lewis will need a report of the project's progress.

For further information, members may contact leader Linda Lewis at 735-6931 or the club's reporter, Tracy Teets, at 735-3907.

Local Students Participate In '02 Young Professionals Course

April Enlow, Friendsville, and George Tichnell, Oakland, were among 25 undergraduate and graduate students from West Virginia University's Davis College of Agriculture, Forestry, and Consumer Sciences who recently participated in the 2002 Young Agricultural and Forestry Professionals Travel Course.

The four-day course gave the WVU students an opportunity to meet leaders in the agricultural and forestry industries while attending events in West Virginia, Virginia, and Washington, D.C. Students toured several farms and research facilities, the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the headquarters of the Farm Credit of the Virginias, Southern States Cooperative, the American Farm Bureau Federation, and a horse facility. They also met with West Virginia Senator Jay Rockerfeller.

"The purpose of the travel course was to expose students to alternative production, marketing, credit, and other agricultural enterprises," said Dennis Smith, professor agricultural and resources economics and associate dean for academic affairs at the Davis College. "I wanted them to experience how our government works and be exposed to various career opportunities in agriculture and forestry."

In order to receive credit for the course, students will submit a written report to course coordinators describing their experiences during the course, highlighting the events that were personally beneficial to them.

"This class showed me what professionals in agriculture can and have accomplished," said graduate student Sara Peacock-Clark. "The students on this trip were exposed to many facets of today's agriculture and left feeling like they had more options for careers in agriculture."

The course was sponsored by the West Virginia Farm Bureau, the Farm Credit of the Virginias Cooperative Association, Southern States Cooperative, and the Davis College.

Global Trade Conference For Agribusiness Set

Access to markets in Russia and Ukraine is expanding for U.S. food, seafood, livestock, and other agricultural products as consumer demand for an increasingly broad variety of high quality products in those countries grows. Agribusiness representatives interested in tapping into the Russian and Ukraine markets should plan to attend the 2002 Global Agricultural Trade Conference on Tuesday, July 23, from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Maryland Department of Agriculture, 50 Harry S. Truman Parkway, Annapolis.

"Maryland has been very successful in exporting horses, cattle, poultry, and processed foods to Russia and is looking to help others in the state's agriculture community sell their products overseas," said state Agriculture Secretary Hagner R. Mister. "Attending the trade conference is a great way for producers to learn what products are in demand and how to reach the large Russian and Ukrainian market. This is a unique opportunity to meet and to talk one-on-one with top-level officials representing agricultural interests in both countries.

The agenda will feature Jeffrey Hesse, director of the Agricultural Trade Office in Moscow, and Margaret Thursland, agricultural attache at the American Embassy in Kiev, Ukraine. They will give comprehensive market overviews, identify products with the greatest potential, and discuss market entry strategies and trade promotion activities for their respective markets. Hesse and Thursland will be available after the presentations to meet individually with attendees to answer specific questions about exporting to the countries they represent.

The Russian economy is growing and the country's 147 million consumers are seeking a wide variety of high quality food products. Russia imported nearly $800 million worth of U.S. consumer-oriented foods last year. More than $16 million of U.S. "intermediate" agricultural products went into Russian foods as their production of processed foods rose to meet consumer demand.

Ukraine represents a market of 50 million consumers in which 20-25 percent of retail food products are imported. Between 2000 and 2001, total U.S. agricultural exports to Ukraine increased by 185 percent.

The Global Agricultural Trade Conference is free and open to all interested in entering or expanding product lines of agriculture- and food-related products in the Russian and Ukrainian marketplaces. Registration is free but required. Lunch is provided with registration. For further information and to register, persons may contact Erroll Small or Theresa Brophy at 410-841-5770.

Cookies Needed For Farm Safety Day Set July 10

The Farm Bureau Women's Committee members are asked to bring four dozen cookies to the Farm Bureau Safety Day set for July 10 at the Garrett County Fairgrounds, McHenry.

The cookies need to be wrapped in multiples of two so they can be put with the lunches that are given out during the day. The cookies need to be dropped off at the Garrett County Extension office or at Garna Enlow's house.

Persons with questions may call Becky DeBerry-Tasker at 301-533-0878.

Farmers Urged To Submit Nutrient Plan Information

Farmers who missed the Dec. 31, 2001, reporting deadline for filing their nutrient management plan information with the Maryland Department of Agriculture (MDA) will be contacted within the next several weeks about complying with the law. Nutrient management plans are required by Maryland law for all agricultural operations grossing $2,500 or more annually, or raising 8,000 pounds or more of live animal weight.

"We understand that some farmers were uncertain about the status of the reporting requirements because of changes proposed during the recent legislative session," said Secretary of Agriculture Hagner R. Mister. "However, no changes have been made to the program requirements, and time is of the essence. Regardless of when the nutrient management plan is written, all farmers are required by law to begin implementing their plans by the end of the year."

MDA will issue notices to approximately 6,000 farmers who have not submitted their nutrient management plan information, Mister said. In order to avoid the penalties prescribed by law, recipients will be required to either (1) submit a nutrient management reporting form or justification for delay form to MDA; or (2) complete and sign a postage-paid reply card that explains why the farmer believes that he/she is exempt from the law.

Farmers have until Wednesday, July 31, to respond to the notice. After that time additional steps will be taken to assure compliance with Maryland's nutrient management regulations.

For more information, persons may call the Nutrient Management Program office at 410-841-5959.

NRCS Announces Additional Funds For Conservation

David P. Doss, state conservationist for the U.S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA) Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) m Maryland, announced that Maryland expects to receive an additional $1.5 million in fiscal year 2002 conservation funding through 2002 Farm Bill appropriations for the USDA Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP).

"Over the past six years, NRCS Maryland has provided farmers with more than $10 million in EQIP funds to pay for conservation projects that address natural resource concerns and protect water quality," said Doss. "EQIP will help farmers — statewide — address some of their most pressing local natural resource concerns, such as soil erosion, water quality, nutrient management, and grazing lands."

Farmers are advised to contact their local Soil Conservation District office for more information on the sign-up period, application process, and receiving conservation assistance through EQIP. The sign-up period for submitting an application for EQIP funds is June 24 through July 26. Applications submitted during the first sign-up held this year will be considered along with applications received during the current sign-up period. NRCS has leadership responsibility for implementing EQIP and consults with USDA's Farm Service Agency (FSA) on planning and implementation policies related to Farm Bill programs.

"EQIP provides farmers with a flexible and effective program that offers financial assistance to install conservation practices related to statewide concerns involving animal waste/manure storage, farmstead runoff control, soil erosion, nutrient management and cover crops, integrated pest management, and prescribed grazing management," said Tom Heisler, NRCS Maryland EQIP program manager. "EQIP has proven itself to be one of USDA's most popular conservation programs in Maryland. The conservation programs and increased funding levels in the 2002 Farm Bill offer farmers a tremendous opportunity to improve and conserve natural resources, through programs like EQIP."

EQIP provides cost-share assistance for up to 75 percent of the cost of certain conservation practices, such as grassed waterways, filter strips, manure management facilities, contour buffer strips, livestock exclusion, and prescribed grazing. Incentive payments can be made for up to three years to encourage farmers to perform land management practices such as nutrient, manure, and integrated pest management.

EQIP offers 1-10-year contracts that provide incentive payments and cost-sharing for conservation practices. Applications are accepted continuously throughout the year, then ranked and approved according to environmental benefits. Total EQIP payments are limited to $450,000 per individual or entity for the length of the current Farm Bill — 2002 through 2007. Additional funding of cost-share practices or contracts may be available through Soil Conservation Districts and Maryland's Conservation Partnership.

One emphasis for this conservation program is the leveraging of EQIP funds with other conservation programs to provide even greater stewardship of natural resources. In addition to USDA EQIP funding, the Maryland Department of Agriculture provides cost-share funds for selected conservation practices, and the combined conservation

Potato Leafhoppers are on Alfalfa

I am finding leafhoppers in alfalfa fields. The warm temperatures combined with southern winds have brought them into our fields. Leafhopper damage can reduce yields up to 1½ tons, particularly next season. Every farmer growing alfalfa should have a 15-inch sweep net to monitor the leafhopper population. Take 10 sweeps at 10 random locations in the field. Grip the top of the net and unfold slowly to count the number of adult and nymphal leafhoppers for each set of 10 sweeps. Tally the total, and record the number per 100 sweeps. Examine 20 random stems to determine average stem height and percentage of plants in the bud or flower stage.

The decisionmaking process is as follows: If the leafhopper count per 100 sweeps exceeds 10 times the average stem height, control is recommended. For example, alfalfa 6 inches in height should be treated if count exceeds 60 leafhoppers per 100 sweeps. If the alfalfa is more than 60 percent bud or in flower or if more than 28 days have elapsed since last cutting, plan to harvest within 7 to 10 days and avoid spraying. However, resample the field soon after cutting to determine the need for control. Remember that none of the insecticides carries over to the next cutting, so control decisions must be made independently on each cutting. Treatments must be applied before yellowing begins. If stunted, yellow plants appear as a result of leafhopper injury, the field should be harvested immediately rather than sprayed.

Some of the recommended insecticides for leafhopper control are Furadan 4F, Lorsban 4E, Baythroid 2E, Dimethoate 4 EC, Warrior T, Pounce 3.2EC, Ambush 2E and Mustang 1.5EW.

Weekly Dairy Market Outlook
By Ken Bailey
Penn State University

The dairy futures markets in Chicago took a nosedive this past week in reaction to soft demand and growing inventories of butter and cheese. The Class III futures markets as of Friday, June 21, showed Class III prices bottoming out at $9.89 per cwt in July, and peaking at just $11.15 per cwt in September. Recall that just two months ago the September Class III futures price was $13.50 per cwt. Class IV futures last Friday were equally weak, remaining at $10.50-$10.70 per cwt for the rest of the year.

This means that producer milk checks will continue to decline through August (you get the July milk check in August). Why is the market taking a nosedive? Well, the number of cows being milked nationwide continues to grow each month, production per cow has recovered from a year ago, and demand for dairy products is not what it was last year. That all adds up to a little too much milk and dairy products, growing inventory, and weak prices.

The cheese market at the Chicago Mercantile Exchange declined throughout the week. Blocks fell from $1.14 per pound on Monday, June 17, to $1.10 per pound by Friday, June 21. That is officially below the USDA support price of $1.1314 per pound. Barrel cheese also fell, from $1.1125 per pound on Monday to $1.0725 per pound by Friday. The barrel cash market was also below the USDA support price of $1.1014 per pound.

USDA reported last Friday that cheese demand was unable to offset the amount of cheese being produced, thus inventory was increasing. The Cold Storage report released last week indicated that cheese inventory as of May 31, 2002, was well ahead of year-ago levels. For example, American cheese inventory was up 6 percent, Other cheese (mainly Italian style cheeses) was up 15 percent, and total cheese inventory was up 9 percent.

The situation is less clear for butter. Wholesale Grade AA butter prices in Chicago last week actually rose from $1.01 per pound on Monday to $1.0175 by Friday. According to USDA, "cream supplies have tightened now that milk production is lower, butterfat tests are declining, and demand from other cream based products is improving." That means the market is turning around for butter and butterfat. That said, the Cold Storage report indicated that butter inventory as of May 31 was up 67 percent from a year ago. So why isn't butter trading at the support level of $0.8548? One answer may be that the cash market this week is reflecting on demand down the road. In other words, the market is looking ahead to the fall months. We will increasingly have less butterfat and cream available for sale from now through the fall.

Dairy producers interested in hedging their milk for the fall months should hold off on their plans for now. Yes, it is possible that fall milk prices could get weaker (Class III below $11 per cwt). The Class III price in September 2000 was just $10.76 per cwt. The reality is, there is currently little to gain in locking in fall milk supplies now. Market conditions may improve later this summer if the milk supply begins to slow down (cow numbers level off) and the U.S. economy improves. In the meantime, convince your neighbors and friends to buy pizza — there is too much mozzarella cheese in inventory right now!

Dry Weather Continues In Much Of State

With only trace amounts of precipitation last week, Maryland farmers had 6.3 days that were suitable for field work. Dry conditions have characterized this month, so far. With the exception of Somerset and Worcester counties, precipitation on the Eastern Shore ranged from .6 and 1.4 inches less than average. In the western part of the state, rainfall ranged from .1 to 1.0 inches below average. Prince George's County is the exception in Maryland receiving 3.1 inches, .3 inches above average. High temperatures were near normal for the week ranging from the upper 70s to near 90 degrees.

Farmers took advantage of the dry conditions to advance harvesting activities. Green peas are 91 percent harvested, 15 percent ahead of last year and 16 percent ahead of the five-year average. The strawberry harvest is nearing completion at 96 percent, 11 percent ahead of last year and 10 percent ahead of average. Snap bean harvest is under way at 10 percent, matching last year, and 3 percent ahead of average. Cucumbers are slightly behind schedule at 12 percent harvested, 2 percent ahead of last year, but 4 percent behind the average.

Topsoil and subsoil moisture levels diminished with the dry conditions. Topsoil moisture is currently rated 62 percent adequate, 33 percent short, and 5 percent very short. Subsoil moisture is rated 20 percent adequate, 57 percent short, and 23 percent very short.

funding makes it possible for farmers to install conservation management systems that before would have been prohibitively expensive. The 2002 Farm Bill allows EQIP cost-share assistance to small operations and large confined livestock operations for the construction of animal waste storage or treatment facilities.

EQIP uses local work groups coordinated by Soil Conservation Districts to evaluate and rank applications. The local work groups are made up of representatives from Maryland Soil Conservation Districts, NRCS, FSA, FSA County Committees, Maryland Cooperative Extension, environmental groups, and other federal, state, and local agencies interested in natural resource protection. Work groups review local proposals that are then ranked according to natural resource concern priorities in Maryland and provide a basis for funding decisions.

NRCS is USDA's lead conservation agency and has worked hand-in-hand with farmers and landowners for more than 65 years to conserve natural resources on private lands. Maryland's landowners can learn more about conserving natural resources by contacting NRCS Maryland through USDA Service Centers collocated with their county's Soil Conservation District or by visiting the NRCS Maryland homepage at www.md.nrcs.usda.gov.

Grantsville Days History

In 1977 the Greater Grantsville Business Association decided to have an event that would encourage local organizations to work together to sponsor a fun weekend for the community. It was designed as a non-commercial "homecoming" event for people who had moved away from Grantsville — a chance for them to return to Grantsville to renew old acquaintances and to have family reunions. The participating organizations would be able to use the event for fund-raising, and it was decided that food booths would be limited to non-commercial, local church and community organizations. The tradition has continued to the present day, and that's what separates Grantsville Days from other events that allow commercial food vendors. The food concessions are centered around the local Lions Club chicken BBQ, which is held both Saturday and Sunday.

The 3-day event is now coordinated by the Grantsville Lions Club. Through the years, 2 nights of fireworks have been added and are now sponsored entirely by local businesses. Many local people donate their time and expertise to make Grantsville Days successful. The entire community joins together each year to have a successful weekend. There are many activities for persons of all ages, including tennis, basketball, and children's games. Unique tractor and horse pulling contests have been added with great enthusiasm from the community. Other events include a western line dance demonstration and tale weaving.

There are many activities for persons of all ages, including tennis, basketball and children's games. Unique tractor and horse pulling contests have been added with great enthusiasm from the community. Other events include a western line dance demonstration and children's events.

A new stage was constructed in 1994 to showcase the excellent, free entertainment offered all 3 days. Visitors are encouraged to bring lawn chairs for a weekend of superb, continuous performances. Similar community events are held each year, but we feel Grantsville Days is unique. Ask anyone who has attended and you will hear the same answer: They are looking forward to the next Grantsville Days. Each year the attendance grows, so the word must be getting out. A huge, new playground was dedicated in 1996. The community response was fantastic. You won't see a nicer playground anywhere in the area and probably not even in major cities. Kids visit the playground from miles around. You have to see it to believe it!

In 1998 a new, large pavilion was constructed. Now there are 3 in the park for groups to have picnics. They are always reserved in advance every weekend during the summer months. The new pavilion allowed the Lions to shorten the waiting for use of the buildings.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

The roller coaster between hot and cold temperatures for the past few weeks has been almost unbearable. My system is totally confused. The other evening was so hot that I left the window fan on all night, and when I awoke early in the morning I was shivering with the cold. My guess is that the temperature dropped during the night between 30 and 40 degrees. Right now I can't believe that I am sitting in a pool of sweat this Sunday morning. I saw my Caitlin wore my winter coat before six o'clock this morning while doing some heavy housework. I thought it was pretty hot and muggy, but Caitlin did not agree with that. I guess it was unusual for her to get up so early, but this morning she was really excited about heading out for a week over on Meadow Mountain at Camp Algawa 4-H Camp.

Of course, all the cousins will be at camp this week. Claire and Robbie Glotfelty had to go over last evening to prepare for their first year as tribe leaders. Consequently, Claire missed the arrival of her Great Aunt Dorothy Quaintance, who arrived with her two granddaughters, Hannah and Kate Quaintance. Hannah ran down to reunite with their second cousins, Caitlin and Meredith. They came down from New York state to attend the 4-H Camp with their cousins.

I did not see anything of Aunt Dot on Sunday, as she had to get an early start for her nine-hour drive back home. She had to go back to her new job as teacher assistant at a high school, and the poor kids in New York state still have school this late in June. She does plan to return with her son Jay to pick the girls up after the final big campfire on Thursday evening. Also attending from Bittinger is Mere's best pal, Hannah Avis.

The annual bus trip to Pittsburgh, sponsored by our local Woodmen of the World, saw about 40 members and friends from Bittinger and area attending the Pittsburgh Pirates baseball game against the Texas Rangers. Unfortunately, they lost 3-2 after being ahead most of the game. Rodney and Marci enjoyed going along with their children before heading out to camp on Sunday morning.

One big and long-standing Pirate fan, "Pappy" Dale, was able to attend. He told his sister Dot that he had a good time, but the long walk in the heat took a lot out of him. He and my mother Ruth, the oldest ones attending, did keep up with the crowd. My brother Barry from Frederick also came up to go along with the group.

When I was a young girl, I used to resent the fact that Pappy only took the boys of our neighborhood, but never me. I guess I was much more interested in horses than baseball. One of my most vivid memories was hearing the ending of the game of the 1960 World Series. No one was more thrilled than I.

I am so miserable without my girls being with me. What will I ever do when they go off to college? Last week as I got my car filled up with gas at Buckel's Store, I noticed the old rose bush behind the store that was in full bloom. It was the same kind of bush that I moved from the lawn of the old house where my grandparents raised their family. For many years it was part of our horse pasture. I thought that it was so old and precious that I had better dig it up by its root system and move it closer to my house. It survived the move, but it is smaller and weaker. It never was as big as the one in the Buckel's lawn.

I was so jealous at those lucious, frilly pink flowers. Luckily, Gary is always generous with his flowers to me.

Finally this week my bush put out some of those old fashioned shades of pink, and their scent is pure heaven. In both beauty and scent, the old variety rose puts the new hybrid varieties to shame. Of course, they only have short stems. I would have my old roses for all the big red American Beauties in the world. Every year the bush blooms around the birthday of my grandmother, Emma Glotfelty, which is June 19. I also remember it is around that date that the wild strawberries became ripe.

Cindy and Sally Beachy and Carol and I always used to gather as many of those tiny fruit to take to her so she would make her wonderful wild strawberry jam. It seems like it was better than even the home grown domestic strawberries. Maybe it was because the little strawberries were so rare and precious.

We have on our farm a big rock pile along the barn where generations of Glotfelty farmers dumped the annual haul of field rocks after our annual "pick rock season," which occurred after the fields were plowed and before planting. Along the edge of the rock pile grows a strange kind of wild strawberries. They are creamy white when they are ripe. I never saw any others like them. Once I did see a variety of strawberries in a seed catalog called "Alpine White Strawberries." Maybe my distant ancestors brought them from their old world home in Switzerland. At least I like to think that.

One of the most striking aspects of my visit to their hometown along the Rhine River near Zurich, Switzerland, was their wild plants that looked just like our native plants here. As we took a walk in the woods near Glattfelden, it just looked like home, with the same wildflowers and trees, plus the oldest of my family still living in their hometown looked almost exactly like my grandfather Orval and his brother Elwood. Old Jacob and wife Elise welcomed me like a real member of their family. I used Elise for the middle name for my first born, Claire Elise.

No time for me in Bittinger is so bitter sweet as June, because for most of my life it was a happy time for me, with beautiful weather, and of course, that means hay-making time, wild strawberries, just out of school, freedom to ride my ponies and horses, roaming in the woods, and swimming in Beachy's pond, where we used to take our ponies in to cool them off. We used to fish, but we only caught a few blue gills. It was always kind of scary to get the old row boat out because it always had a big ugly snake underneath it.

NEW TRUCK SHOW SYMBOL CREATED — Pictured above is the new symbol of the Western Maryland Truck Show Inc., a small truck created by Tom Guy. The WMTS is the sponsor for the annual truck show held each August in the Grantsville Park. It will be held August 24-25 this year and it is the fourth year for the event. The show ranks in the top five truck shows in the country. As a bonus this year, country music singer Billy Joe Royal will be performing. The show is also a joint sponsor of the Tri-State Toys For Happiness. Visitors of the upcoming Grantsville Days celebration, where the WMTS is a sponsor of the Cruise-In, are invited to bring a toy and place it in the truck that will be displayed in hopes of receiving a truck full of toys for needy children this Christmas. Grantsville Days is being held this weekend and the Cruise-In will be taking place Sunday afternoon.

On a beautiful June day and intending to escape chores, I used to ride my pony Misty out in uncut hay fields where we could hide in the high grass. I lay back and dreamed as the clouds floated over me. Even though I had fun at 4-H camp, I always counted the days and looked forward to going home to the green grass of home. Even though I am home on one of the most beautiful places that I have ever seen, it is so heartbreaking that I am so unhappy. Every memory I have only causes me to miss the many loved ones that are gone.

Now for some local notes — Greg Whittemore, Daniel Vagnetti, and Torrey Poholsky participated in the Hillbilly Hardball Baseball Tournament in Elkins, W.Va., over the weekend. All teams as far away as Indiana are American Legion sponsored and included over 30 participants. The Garrett team had two wins, one tie, and one defeat.

David Vagnetti and Torrey Poholsky are members of the Oakland Golf Club's Jr. golf program throughout the summer.

Ruth DiPaolo was a guest of Jane Fox and attended the Garrett County Historical Society annual meeting at Bittinger fire hall on Thursday night.

Carol Bass attended meetings in Baltimore last week. Carol, Matthew, Scott, and Emma visited with the Bulka family in Columbia also. The Bulka family was in Bittinger last weekend and visited Bill and Thelma Emory and the Bass family. Their children will be attending 4-H camp this week.

Visitors during the weekend of Jim and Donna Glotfelty were: Jeff, Sheli, Ashlin, and Abbie Gray, Hanover; Julius, Karmen, Chris, Janelle, and Tony Carey, Frostburg; Linda Oester, Salisbury, Pa.; and Ron Betizel, Accident. Most of the adults in the group helped Jim bale and store a large field of hay, and afterward helped celebrate the birthday of Sheli Gray with pizza and birthday cake. Lisa and Amanda Platter, Smithsburg, were Thursday night and Friday guests and accompanied Jim to Morgantown for a medical appointment at Mon General Hospital. Lisa also assisted with haymaking Friday afternoon. Saturday evening visitors of the Glotfeltys were Bernadette Henson, St. Albans, W.Va., and Annette, Luke, and Christy Keller, Accident. Other recent callers were Dale Glotfelty and Don Sealing. Jim is slightly improved, and able to do some light tasks.
